

Waiting with our God

An Advent Day Retreat

*Much, if not most, of our lives is spent waiting...for someone...for something.
Even for God.*

Description: Waiting is often an uncomfortable, even painful, experience – an experience many would rather avoid. What has been your experience of waiting? What might you be awaiting at this moment of your life? What would it mean for you to wait well... to embrace some of the many gifts of waiting? Are you aware of the waiting God... who lingers lovingly, who abides longingly... with and for you... and the entire creation? How can befriending our waiting offer fresh ways of experiencing God? As we enter the long waiting season of Advent, you are invited to gather with other waiting companions to Be still. Be patient. And expect the Eternal to arrive.... (Psalm 37:7). The day will include a rhythm of gentle facilitation, silence for prayerful reflection, creative engagement with God, group interaction, and one-to-one sharing.
