For All the Saints

“Therefore, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses...
let us run with perseverance the race that is set before us.”

Hebrews 12:1

It had become a custom for us to gather as a community of faith at various times during the year. To gather during Ash Wednesday, on occasion during Lent, Holy Week and Reformation Sunday did not seem unusual. Year round preparations were made to raise up these holy times of the year. It wasn't until the suggestion was made that we gather for All Saints Day; different but doable. The talk and plans were made; style of worship and parts were decided upon and then the day, or more appropriately, the night came.

The sanctuary was bathed in candle light. An eerie sense came over the place. Shadows were cast and moved about as the wind teased the flames. Faces that could be seen clearly during the day or even in a well lit room, were now hidden in the half shadows. It was as if we were there, but not quite. Or, something was there just outside of our ability to see clearly.

The pastoral train began its slow procession to the nave. About halfway up the aisle we came to a stop and the first name of the long list of those who had died in the past year was read. In the quiet the name echoed off the walls. As this first name began to fade and we prepared ourselves to hear the next, a response was heard. “Here!” Collectively there was an inhaling at the response.

As I look back on that particular event I remember the response of many of the people that night. As names were read and responses were heard, tears began to be shed and heads nodded as the truth became known. Though dead, these people had been raised. Though gone, these people were very much present. Though sinner, these people are the saints of God.

All Saints Day/Sunday is a festival of connection. Rich in history, it reminds us of our history as part of a larger community of faith, a community that transcends time and space. The writer to the Hebrews reminds us that we are surrounded by this cosmic community, a community that serves as witness and encouragement in the life we live in Christ.

YOU WILL KNOW THE TRUTH ...

October 27, 2017

Dear friends in Christ,

“You will know the truth, and the truth will make you free.” (John 8:32)

On Reformation Day, we gather as the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America – in our congregations, across this church, and with our Lutheran family around the globe – to commemorate the 500th anniversary of the Reformation. This centennial has provided a welcome occasion to learn more about Martin Luther and the Reformation, while strengthening our understanding and commitment to our ministries. It has given us an opportunity to look back on the history of our tradition and to discern how we are being called forward together in Christ.

As the first centennial of the Reformation to take place in the context of our church’s deep ecumenical and inter-religious partnerships, this anniversary is unfolding in a spirit of reconciliation. Together with our Roman Catholic sisters and brothers, and other ecumenical companions, we have taken significant steps on the way to unity, justice and peace. With our inter-religious neighbors, we also have deepened mutual understanding across religious lines and collaborated for the common good.

Over the course of this year, in initiatives and events across this church and The Lutheran World Federation, we have been inspired by the ways in which Lutherans continue to share boldly the gifts of our tradition. One of these is Martin Luther’s insistence that the unconditional promise of God’s love in Jesus Christ frees us to love and serve our neighbors. This counter-cultural message is as fit for us today as it was for Christians 500 years ago.

On this day, and into God’s future, we are called to be a public witness to how God is continually at work, in and through us, re-forming the body of Christ in a world broken by sin. Thanks be to God.

Dwelling in the Word
All Saints, November 5, 2017
Revelation 7:9-17

"After this I looked, and there was a great multitude that no one could count, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, robed in white, with palm branches in their hands. They cried out in a loud voice, saying, "Salvation belongs to our God who is seated on the throne, and to the Lamb!"

The Gospel reading for All Saints is Matthew 5:1-12, the Beatitudes. However, I love Revelation and always rejoice in any opportunity to preach from it. What better day than All Saints?!

This Sunday you will undoubtedly name and the names and tell stories of some of these saints. There are people every nation, all tribes and languages. Yes. Heaven is the ultimate refuge, God's sanctuary, that place where asylum seekers find a true home.

"Salvation belongs to our God who is seated on the throne, and to the Lamb!"

Amen and Amen!!

Pray, Fast, Act

This day also serves to remind us that the Saints are not just the “greats” of faith like Peter and Paul, but they are also you and I. In our baptism and by our lives we witness to the faith, to the Christ. You and I also respond with, “Here!” when the roll call of saints is listed.

In this light we remember those from our congregational, and extended family who have been gathered unto God in the past year, those who have been faithful and have run with perseverance the race that was set before them, who now celebrate the life promised to them in their baptisms.
