

SEND

transition support

A hands-on approach to training, suitable for Early Years practitioners to KS1 teachers from entry level to leaders and managers.

This course will support practitioners to understand workstations, speech and language development, target setting and self-regulation, taught by a highly experienced team with a specialism and passion for inclusion. This course is tailored to the needs of the children and the skills of the practitioners.

There will be practical tuition, discussion and materials to use in your setting to implement training and start benefiting from it straight away.

Objectives

- To improve outcomes for children with ASC during and after transition to school.
- To enable teachers and leads to plan effectively for inclusion of children with ASC.
- To promote systems leadership and collaborative working.

About the trainers

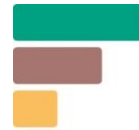

This course is delivered by a team of highly skilled practitioners in supporting a range of Special Educational Needs. They have current, hands on experience that builds on evidence based research. They also have a proven track record of school improvement across other schools.
