West Monroe is a city in Ouachita Parish, Louisiana, United States. It is situated on the Ouachita River, across from the neighboring city of Monroe. The two cities are often referred to as the Twin Cities of northeast Louisiana. Its population was 13,065 at the 2010 census and it is part of the Monroe Metropolitan Statistical Area.

Since its establishment in 1883, West Monroe has prided itself as being a safe, fiscally responsible City with a small town atmosphere and big city amenities. Throughout the community, you'll still find neighbors visiting after Sunday services and picnicking in the park. You'll also find Louisiana's first nationally accredited police force, major food and retail chains, and innovative programs to preserve both our environment and culture. West Monroe-it's the place you've been hoping to find.
