Dean's Column

by William Vaughan

Our annual dinner on Monday, May 22, at Congregation Sherith Israel was a great success! Thank you to Jonathan Dimmock (organ) and Angela Lee (cello) who played an exquisite and unique program. Thank you also to George Emblom and his Program Committee for all their hard work in creating this year's programming.

The evening opened with appetizers and wine followed by a delicious catered dinner in a spacious banquet room adjacent to the Temple. It was wonderful to see old friends and make new acquaintances. The evening flew by.

Towards the end of dinner, Jonathan Dimmock spoke about the program and the organ. During dessert, George Emblom and I led a short meeting reviewing the treasurer's report and hearing what the Special Projects Committee is up to. I then gave a few reflections on my first year as dean. In short, I have had a fun year getting to know you all, going to chapter events, and learning the organization.

We then proceeded up to the sanctuary. On the way up, we stopped by the blower room to see the belt-driven blower. One won't see another one like it. The floor vibrated when we were anywhere near the blower room, (even up in the organ loft).

Once in the sanctuary, one can't help but marvel at the beauty of the Temple. It is meticulously cared for. We made our way up to the rear gallery to hear and see the concert. We were joined by many congregants of the Temple.

Afterwards we all were invited to view the organ chamber and console. Again, everything was clean and well taken care of. This is a great picture of Andy Chislett viewing his smart phone while we are looking at an instrument over 100 years old. Then there is the picture of my little organ student, Tim, who is standing near the setter board inside the chamber. How time has stood still in this organ chamber and loft!

Thank you to all of you who came and enjoyed each other's company. It will be exciting to see you all at next season's events.

I have included some history of the organ and also the stop-list of this historic organ.

Among synagogue organs in the United States, the Murray Harris organ (The Los Angeles Art Organ Co.) at Congregation Sherith Israel is a standout. Both conservative and progressive, it exhibits a thoughtful tonal concept that has withstood the test of time since its installation in 1904. Voiced by the

Karen Haslag Moving to Missouri – but Not Leaving SFAGO

from Karen Haslag

Bill Vaughan asked me to write a few words, since my husband and I have decided to move back to my roots in Jefferson City, Missouri. I will be joining the Central Missouri AGO and continuing a dual membership with SFAGO. Why? There are too many friends and warm memories that I want to keep alive since I moved to San Francisco in 1972. Although it was later that I joined SFAGO, it has provided many opportunities to make life-long friendships through working together on committees.

In 1977 I became organist at St Charles Borromeo Church in San Francisco, and played a lovely nine rank Austin organ. I can remember how excited I was when Jack Bethards came over to work on it, and he took me inside the organ chamber. Shortly after that I attended an organ concert at the Civic Center Auditorium with Gerard Stafford and some others, and Gerry encouraged me to join the SFAGO.

In 2000 Robert Kerman was Dean and a group of us resurrected the floundering Hospitality program and made it flourish. Other members have faithfully worn that hat since then. Rob insisted on a “Martha Stewart” serving of wine at receptions so that we would have a managed food budget. Handling the certification process for one successful AAGO candidate was a later challenge and a very gratifying experience. A most memorable invitation was to be on the 2011 Regional Convention Steering Committee under the inspiring leadership of Pat During and working with a remarkably productive and cooperative team. Our Hospitality Committee became an army of organists and ‘groupie’ volunteers. During this past year I was on the program committee of the REAGO under the capable leadership of Paul Blanchard, and came to appreciate new friends in the Redwood Empire. About 2003 I remember phoning former Dean Paul Rosendall several times to sub for me at a funeral at St Elizabeth Church, and then would listen to him talk for hours about his aspirations for a POE in San Francisco. I think of the patience George Morten has when I email him a pesty question about a newsletter deadline.

Currently, I have the privilege of being the music director and organist at Kenwood Community Church (Kenwood, CA) and working hand in hand with Reverend Jim Fish, the guest speaker at the Opening SFAGO Clergy/Organist Dinner in September of 2012, under the creative leadership of Jerry Lenk. At the 2016 dinner at Original Joe’s I was touched by the down-to-earth friendliness of the current Dean, Bill Vaughan. I remember George Emblom emphasizing the importance of meaningful relationships among members at the September installation dinner in 2016. So what is all this about? By working together on projects, by engaging other members as volunteers, by appreciating the advice and successes of our peers and creating a hospitable and productive organization, we all thrive! Even a little participation goes a long way to make our world as organists better for everyone.

Karen has a B.A. in music from Benedictine College in Atchison, Kansas, an M.A. in Creative Arts Education from San Francisco State University and a life credential in Music Education K-12. She credits Dr. James Kosnik as her primary organ teacher. Besides her career in education and working as a church music director, Karen is a life-long calligrapher. She is a charter member of the SF Bay Area “Friends of Calligraphy” started in 1975 and has calligraphy represented in the Richard Harrison Permanent Collection of Calligraphy, Special Collections Department, San Francisco Public Library.

English voicer John W. Whiteley, the organ exhibits the exquisite string tone that thrived in the Anglo-American sphere in the mid-20th century. The “chorus sounds” of the organ are well-developed, with reeds that compliment the full ensemble sound — giving the instrument an English cathedral character. The three-rank Echo division, high in the dome, was the first in a San Francisco house of worship. We are fortunate to have the instrument in its original condition, including the original pitch of A=434.5. (A=440 didn't become the standard pitch until after WWII.) Perhaps one of the most notable things about this instrument, especially by today's standards, is the builder's attention to very soft sounds. Long before microphones and loudspeakers were dreamed of, synagogue organs (such as this one) needed to be able to play “under” the voice of the unamplified cantor's voice. Since the cantor might want to sing softly, the organ had to be even softer! Organs became part of the Reform musical tradition in 19th-century Germany, leading to a flowering of Jewish musical composition. Our sanctuary with its choir loft and organ showcased this rich musical heritage. In 1904 Sherith Israel purchased the organ for $18,000. Other organs by Harris's company include Stanford University's instrument built in 1901 and the core of the famed Wanamaker Organ in Philadelphia, originally created as the world's largest organ for the 1904 St Louis World's Fair. Behind the organ's magnificent, stenciled façade, a gigantic mechanism supports and controls more than 3,500 pipes that vary in length from six inches to sixteen feet. The organ blower room, with its 40-foot leather belt, is unique — something akin to what one might find in Thomas Edison's workshop of the same period. The organ contains over 15,000 board feet of choice

Special Projects Committee Report

by Helen Pereira

The 2016–2017 year of our SFAGO is coming to a close and I would like to inform you of the work of the Special Projects Committee this year.

First of all, I would like to thank committee members Lenore Alford, Donald Mulliken, Jerry Lenk, and John Karl Hirten for their input and support. The terms of Lenore and Donald have come to an end. Nominated to replace them are Steve Repasky and Natsuko Murayama.

Our business this year has included providing funding in the amount of $17,000 for seven grants and the placement of SPC ads in the booklets of five of the seven regional conventions taking place this summer, the ads costing a total of $770.

We are grateful to all of you who donate to our funds through the opportunity at membership renewal time, such as is taking place presently.

Donations are gratefully accepted at any time of the year. We especially thank Oscar Burdick for his generous annual donation on behalf of his late wife Dora's estate.

With more detailed information concerning the grants, I list them:

- David Pickering $3,000 Documentary film highlighting the organs and program at KSU.
- Velda Graham Bell $2,000 Sacred Heart Music Center in Duluth, MN. Silent film fundraiser for repair of Felgemaker organ in preparation for August Festival
- Erin Scheessele $3,000 Orgelkids, USA; a project sponsored by Eugene AGO; Curriculum & kit to build a 2-rank mechanical-action organ.
- Daniel Zager $3,000 EROI Festival projects
- San Diego Pro Arte Voices $2,000 Adding an organ scholar component to the annual San Diego Summer Choral Festival
- Richard Spotts $2,000 Tournemire research and recital in Paris; also coming to SF in 2017-18
- Adam Zagotti $2,000 Great Lakes Regional Convention Funds

Thank you again for your interest and support of this important part of our San Francisco chapter of the AGO. ~~~~~ white pine and hardwoods, more than 50 miles of electrical wire, five tons of metal and enough leather to make 10,000 pairs of fine lady's gloves. The keys and stops are made of pure ivory. The decoration of the pipes and the carving of the elaborate console were all completed by hand. The most unusual mechanical feature of the instrument is its electrical action. It uses the principals of telephone signals to control thousands of valves that operate the pipes.
