Giving Back at Holiday Season

By Nancy Bronner

This year for Christmas we helped 6 families. In some way one member or more has kidney problems. Our total amount of Gift Cards was $3000.00 divided among the families.

Our Candy Bags started with 60 pounds of Sugar Free Candy which made up 1825 bags. That is divided out between 14 dialysis locations here in Douglas and Sarpy County's. The candy is just a token of something sweet, while they are setting, for some 3 to 4 hours for their dialysis.

NCCC Convention in Omaha
July 2016

This year we were at Clancy's Bar and Grill on 168th and Center. Long time members and contributor Gene and Patty Fisher own this location as well as the location in Phoenix Az.

At 2:45 we had our Presentation of the Club Donation to Tim O'Neal, who is the Chief Executive Officer of the Nebraska Kidney Foundation. A check of $7000.00 was presented.

The Social Worker's that submit from their pool of cases were also there. About 50 to 60 people were in attendance with Plenty of Good Food and Dessert. Of course if you missed it, you didn't get any of Dave Franc's Rum Balls. Think I heard he made at least 6 or 7 dozen.

From the Omaha World Herald Newspaper

Steve Skidmore, age 62: “I was one of those kids. If we have the ability to help them, why would you not?”

THE BUILDER

By Cindy Gonzalez / World-Herald staff writer

Monday, November 23, 2015

It was college information night at his son’s high school.

Steve Skidmore sat through hours of discussion about higher education options, but got stuck on one thought: What about the kids who aren’t college-bound?

His mind drifted back to his own graduation jitters. Where’s the compass, he wondered, for those not cut out for a career predicated on a four-year bachelor’s degree?

That Millard evening in 1994 turned out to be transformational all right — not only for son Eric, who was nudged toward the university route. But also for the father, who bounded down a path that over the next two decades would offer hundreds of local teens construction-related resources designed to connect them with a decent-paying job, even without a college degree.

Skidmore hasn't been paid a dime, supporters say, for years of coordinating the Builders of the Future mentoring program he founded with the Metro Omaha Builders Association. (Especially early on, he pitched in his own cash to keep things running.)

Neither does his State Farm Insurance business benefit directly from the pipeline of skilled craftsmen the program aims to expand.

When asked why he does it, the Benson High alumnus says: "I was one of those kids." "If we have the ability to help them, why would you not?" he says.

Seniors in the Gretna High School vocational building construction class construct a backyard shed as part of the Builders of the Future program, founded by Steve Skidmore with the Metro Omaha Builders Association. Working atop the shed are Jake McMahon, left, and Kyle Morbach; below them, from left, are Matt McMahon, Tyler Kudlacek, Dylan Berube and Justin Hines. KENT SIEVERS/THE WORLD-HERALD

For a guy who preferred to play elaborate pranks in school rather than study algebra, Skidmore has done the math: Twenty years later, he says, about $130,000 in scholarships have been awarded for additional training in industrial arts.

And more than 1,300 young people — on average 100 students a year — have become better builders through the initiative, which pairs participating schools and community partners with a professional mentor.

The program also provides construction materials so teens can engage in more hands-on experience. The capstone project has each group creating, from the ground up, a mini-house or shed.

Donations and mentors from places such as Andersen Windows flowed in only as Skidmore and other supporters beat the pavement seeking support, said Ted Grace of Grace Custom Homes, one of the big drivers behind the program.

It's not all been smooth sailing.

When the housing market collapsed in 2008, so did Builders of the Future. Skidmore said he didn't want to fold — “I was angry” — but acknowledged that many industry financial backers were in a slump. They were cutting workers, not hiring.

With the market churning again, Skidmore gladly stepped back when MOBA members asked for help reviving the program. He does it while running his own business.

“He takes such a personal interest, and doesn't let go of it,” said Barry Larson, a retired general contractor. “He's like a dog with an old bone.”

Grace said he and fellow builders hope the program helps to re-energize the short supply of skilled labor that worsened during the Great Recession.

This year, he said, support is better than ever. The nonprofit Builder Foundation run by MOBA and industry leaders will contribute up to $70,000 in materials and scholarships, said Larson, also the foundation's executive director.

Skidmore recruited, and the foundation will cover, the salary of the program's first paid facilitator, Kirk Skiles, a retired industrial technology teacher. The new post reflects the program's maturity, and the intention to take it into more schools and “to the next level.”

“He takes such a personal interest, and doesn’t let go of it,” Barry Larson, a retired general contractor, said of Skidmore. “He’s like a dog with an old bone.” KENT SIEVERS/THE WORLD-HERALD

Skiles stressed that the program enhances classroom instruction already provided by traditional schoolteachers. The bonus comes, he said, as students connect with professional mentors — who have real-world tips and jobs waiting.

This year, more than a dozen homebuilding professionals are volunteering to mentor the latest batch of participants: nine schools, a Goodwill Youthbuild group and a Metropolitan Community College class.

Skidmore kicks off each year with a visit to each school, and recently caught up with the Gretna High School vocational building construction class.

His adrenaline pumps when mingling with the next generation of builders. A self-described risk-taker — he loves rock crawling on four-wheelers — Skidmore likes to see the “light go on” when a kid who fidgets in math class easily figures the correct angle for a shed piece.

If a teen is eager to learn and work outdoors, Skidmore tells them: “I can get you a job that pays $18 an hour.”

Skidmore, who washed and sold cars before owning his own insurance business, explains that an entry-level framer or masonry job builds confidence and experience and can lead to more. It's not that he's advising against college; his own two sons went. But if not, there's an alternative: "Start as a carpenter. End up a Ted Grace (who owns a building company) or an insurance executive," he said.

Dylan Berube, 17, said it's the hands-on work that makes the class worthwhile. "It gives us real-world experience as opposed to being stuck at a desk," said the senior who has enlisted in the U.S. Marines to work on aircraft mechanics.

Teacher Jason Novotny said the financial boost from Builders of the Future comes in handy, as not all schools have what can add up to $5,000 to build the type of playhouse constructed as part of the program.

After the class designs and constructs its mini-house project, it will market and sell the structure. Skidmore recommends the class use the proceeds to enhance the school's shop program. Previous participants have produced playhouses in the image of a firehouse and a log cabin. One looked like Mother Goose's "Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe" house.

On a different school visit, Skidmore, 62, glowed at a framed photo of a playhouse created by a class he mentored: a replica of a 1950s Sinclair service station.

Nothing beats the feeling of running into a former student, though, he said. It happened recently when Skidmore helped his son pick up a refrigerator he bought through Craigslist. They didn't know the seller's identity, until Skidmore recognized her: Leslie Reimer from Bellevue East's Class of 1995.

"He gave me a big hug," Reimer said, and fussed over her being one of the first scholarship recipients.

Now 38, Reimer recalled being the only girl in her four years of shop classes. To this day, she has a wood shop in her garage, and has used her construction know-how to flip three houses. Although Reimer went on to be a business coach, she said the career calls for teamwork, design and project management skills. They're many of the same, she said, she honed while learning construction. What Reimer said she mostly gained from mentors like Skidmore, and the scholarships they offered, was confidence.

"It's that intangible power of having somebody believe in you that really didn't need to believe in you," she said.

You don't want to miss this!

Message from the President

Hi Everybody,

We will be closing the books for twenty fifteen before you know it!

It's time to celebrate. CCC has accomplished, beyond a doubt, what no other club can match. Check out these statistics. Since 1966, fifty one years, CCC has been in the top 10 thirty three times. Been in the top fifteen 31 consecutive years. We are the number one Club with a total of 10 years. CCC has had one previous individual points champion, well that's about to change. Joe and Teresa Eller have climbed to the top and will be the Champions for 2015. Congrats also to Gene & Kathy Gau, and Gina Ogle for placing in the elite top 15.

The BOD met recently and is putting together another fantastic year just full of events for you to enjoy. From socials to racing to enjoying friends, you're sure to have good time. Forgot to mention, Convention 2016 is in the middle of all that fun.

As I mentioned above we have a lot to celebrate, let's do it in grand style. PLEASE join us, Jan 30, 2016 for CCC's annual Awards Banquet. See ya there.

In closing, I want to wish you a Merry Christmas, Happy New Year and "Save the wave".

Happy Holidays, Jerry & Kathy

Message from Your Governor

No updates or reports for this month.

General Meeting Minutes
November 19, 2015
Bel Air Banquet Room

Jerry Koraleski, President, welcomed a large crowd to the meeting and led the members in the Pledge of Allegiance. President Koraleski mentioned that Kris Bevin's mother, Eleanor Anderson, has passed away as has Jolene Jankowski's older brother, Jerry Purintun. John Vinardi, former member of CCC also passed away on November 10. Jayne Sainz was hospitalized the past week, and as a club, we have sent cards to these folks and encourage club members to remember these people with their prayers and cards. Sharon Renshaw is to undergo surgery this week.

Nancy Bronner sold 50/50 tickets for the Nebraska Kidney Foundation and at the beginning of the meeting there was $118.00 in the pot. Jerry then asked Kathy Gau to read off the birthday list which had quite a few names. Hmm, "People were busy about 9 months before November", says Jerry. (I'm pretty quick—counted backwards and wouldn't that be around Valentine's Day?)

President Koraleski gave a friendly reminder that all ballots for the election must be in the ballot box by 7:45 so counting may begin.

Jan Gunderson, Secretary, received a motion to accept the general meeting minutes as published in the newsletter from Jayne Reit and seconded by Jon Manz. Jan extended an invitation quickly to the members to observe the live Nativity Scene at her church the first part of December.

Marie Manz, Membership Director reported that Chris Tooker has done it again! This month he has sponsored John Leise who owns a 1981 Corvette and Todd and Pauline Seamore with a 2007 Corvette.

Marie directed Chris to the "King of Commissions", Kevin Reit, who will pay the commission for all these new members. I don't know what ever started the battle between Manz VS Reit, but it is comical to say the least! After lots of laughter out loud, Marie continued to announce that John and Rhonda Harris have also joined. We all raised and clapped for all the new members Marie introduced.

Renewals are done, as grueling as it was. When all said and done, 346 memberships were sent into NCCC.

President Koraleski commended Marie on her work of sending out Membership Updates letting us all know "when, where, who and how".

Tim Ogle, Vice President, and Webmaster, mentioned that CCC's Award Winning Newsletter is posted and his updating responsibility is done.

Tom Horeis, Treasurer, began his report by discussing the Nebraska Kidney Families we sponsor. These people are needy families and thus far $300-$400 has been collected. CCC usually collects $2,000, so if you didn't bring your checkbook tonight, go ahead and write your check and mail it to Tom this next week so that he can get debit cards to give out to these family. Tom gave a positive report as we are below budget even though $1,000 was lost at the Kearney races.

At this time, George Horst's group began to count the votes.

Jon Manz, Governor gave an interesting report from the Governor's meeting recently held in St. Louis, MO. NCCC is no longer associated with the National Kidney Foundation. NCCC lost $10,800 on the last car raffle; therefore some changes have been made to the fundraising process. The new charity has not been announced, but 2,000 tickets at $50 each will be sold for a pot of $55,000.

The 2017 National Convention will be held at Bowling Green, Kentucky.

The Board of Directors for the West Region is:

- RE Larry Beebee
- RCD Joe Eller
- Membership Director Sheila Wyman
- Treasurer Linda Homer
- Secretary Chris Beebee

The 2016 West Region banquet will be held on March 19 in Des Moines and will be planned by the Corvette Club of Iowa.

Don Angeroth, Competition Director, stated that there are a few kinks in the proposed event schedule, however, the following low-speed auto cross events are scheduled:

- May 14 & 15 Low-speed auto cross driving school—classroom on Saturday with an opportunity on Sunday to get on the track.
- May 21 & 22 Low-speed auto cross event – Lincoln

Don guaranteed that if you don't like the school, he'll refund every penny you paid for the class and if you do like it, he'll refund all the money you pay for it! (Well, something like that—in other words, it's free).

President Koraleski injected some disappointing information at this point in regard to the parking lot we've been able to rent from MidAmerica Center in Council Bluffs. According to what the press has released, it appears; that a Sports Complex is going to be built on the parking lot CCC's rented for so many years. Jerry will verify with his MAC contact, and other venues may have to be explored. The Board may be looking into splitting costs and cement with SCCA at a Lincoln location.

Pat Swift, Public Relations Director, in his usual calm way went to the front and announced that we've lost two Contributors:

Premier Countertop and Ming Auto Beauty Center. Got Contributors? Tell Pat and he'll talk to them.

Jerry complimented Pat for his work as Public Relations Director.

- Candy Wrapping party for Nebraska Kidney Foundation
- Christmas Tree Contest for December meeting-Kathy Brisbois reported on the contest

Jayne thanked everyone for the cards and prayers—"Something worked!" says Jayne.

Bill Cashell, Editor, reminded everyone that there are articles in the newsletter about the events that are listed in Jayne and Kathy's report. He thanked Tim for posting the newsletter and for the articles written by Carolyn Edmundson; "The Fall Color Run", Allen H. Sohl; "Summer Festival Remembrance and Rod Penner for the Brownsville Trip".

President Koraleski replied to Bill's report with "Great job! Great job!"

Jayne Sainz, and Kathy Cashell Co-Social Director, came to the front and we were all so happy to see Jayne at the meeting let alone come to the front after the scare she gave us this last week! The report was on:

- Toys for Tots-bring your dancing shoes
- Road Trip to Fairfield-postponed until Spring for nice weather

JB Benedict, Points

Chairman- Another gentleman, who puts an outrageous amount of hours into calculating and reporting points for CCC and has done so for very many years, came to the front with his report--Our Point Chairman, JB Benedict! President Koraleski applauded JB for the endless hours and indicated it was a privilege for Jerry to work with JB in past years, as you can count on him to do a great and accurate job.

JB not only put a report on the back table, but sent 50-70 emails out to members in an excel spreadsheet so that any changes that members felt needed to be made could be addressed.

JB didn't just sent one report, he sent several sorted in different ways for review. What a lot of work.

It's the time of year when only JB knows where each member ranks. JB also wanted to let everyone know that the report does not include the Kearney events. Those points could make a difference in your ranking. Per JB, "You'll have to go to the awards banquet to find out where you stand."

JB has a passion for Hearts United for Animals in Auburn, NE and the last group of puppy mill dogs was pregnant and there will be a surge of puppies at the shelter. The shelter needs old blankets and old comforters for bedding. JB asked for CCC's help. He will pick up these items from the club at the next meeting. No towels, please.

A special from JB's book club is offering "How to Build a Car" for children ages 6-12. The book costs $15.00, minus 50% club discount coming to $7.50. With tax, about $8.00 a book. If you want one, just email JB at jb.benedict@cox.net.

President Koraleski reminded members that if you have a complaint or issue, to contact the members at large which at the current time are Perry Dawes and George Horst.

George Horst, Member at Large- no report.

Perry Dawes, Member at Large-no report.

Ervin Gunderson, Summer Festival Chairman, no report.

Ray Kennedy made his way to the front and had a fun time presenting Tim Ogle with a "Tim the Timer" sign to put in his motor home window.

Ray also introduced Deb Minor from the Daughter of the American Revolution, "DAR" who presented Jayne Reit with a beautiful certificate to show appreciation for her support of her beloved husband, Diego Sainz, who served in the Vietnam conflict. Deb also presented and pinned her with a beautiful pin recognizing his service.

"DAR" was more than willing to have a booth at the 2016 Convention. Deb told us that "Gene had me at 15 seconds, when he began to tell me about your convention!"

Ray also announced that there is a canned food drive for Heartland Family Services at 1716 Charleston Drive, in Papillon and President Koraleski is giving the canned goods that came into the meeting tonight to that drive.

Gene Gau 2016 Convention Chairman; enthusiastically announced that the promotional video for the 2016 Convention was a “smash hit” at the Governor’s meeting. Shirts for the convention are for sale and copies of the video are $5. The wrap for Ray’s car is about to “wrap-up” and the car will be offered for display to all of the dealerships in Omaha after its back from display at the Corvette Museum in Bowling Green, KT.

Old Business- Kevin Reit came to the front to talk about donations for door prizes at the Convention. Perhaps you would like to donate something, or someone you know would like to donate something. Remember, there will be a lot of sales after Christmas where you might be able to pick up a bargain to donate. Another thought was that you could donate gift cards you might get as gifts for Christmas! Happy people, winning stuff.

Kevin also indicated that the “Commission Pot” for memberships is running low. Kevin planned to use the entry fees Don Angerorth generated for his driving school, but it looks like that’s not a viable plan. (See the Competition Director’s report).

Gene Gau then showed the “take outs” of the promotional video which generated lots of laughs. He asked the club in general if they wanted to see the whole video, so he did.

New Business- Vic Larson’s dream came true when Mary Ann Laaker drew his name for the birthday prize and he had the chance to wear the birthday hat!

President Koraleski then brought the club to a serious intersection of discussing the possibility of the club buying a new club trailer. A motion had been made at the October BOD meeting to bring a presentation of moving forward on presenting this to the club. Due to not having enough time to prepare, the motion was put on hold until the November general meeting. Jerry explained that there had been a committee formed from the BOD to looking into this possibility back in March. VP Tim Ogle and Governor Jon Manz had been asked to present this idea to the club. After the presentation was completed, a motion to proceed to purchase the club trailer was made by Ray Kennedy and seconded by Kathy Gau. President Koraleski called for a vote and an overwhelming majority of the members were in favor of the purchase. Three voted against the motion and there was one who abstained.

George Horst, Member at Large announced

next year's Board of Directors as follows:

- President Jerry Koraleski
- Vice President Ray Kennedy
- Governor Jon Manz
- Secretary Jannette Gunderson
- Treasurer Tom Horeis
- Competition Director Don Angeroth
- Social Directors Committee headed by Kathy Cashell
- Membership Director Marie Manz
- Editor Bill Cashell
- Summer Festival Director David Ferguson
- Public Relations Director Pat Swift
- Member at Large Perry Dawes
- Member at Large Chris Tooker

Nancy Zimmerman graciously volunteered to draw for the 50/50 drawing and red (well they all were red) ticket number 4365226 won $132.00. The holder of that ticket was Tom Horeis. Tom's been a member of CCC since 1996, so I suppose he's made his share of monetary contributions in "his day". Although Nancy tried to sit down after the 50/50 draw, she continued to draw for the gifts on the table that had been donated by CCC members in order to raise money for our charity.

Motion to close was made by Tim Ogle and seconded by Jon Manz.

Respectfully Submitted,

Jannette Gunderson

FUNNY SIDE UP

A RETIREE'S LAST TRIP TO COSTCO

Yesterday I was at Costco buying a large bag of Purina dog chow for my loyal pet, Necco, the Wonder Dog, which weighs 191 lbs.

I was in the check-out line when a woman behind me asked if I had a dog.

What did she think I had...an elephant?

So, because I'm retired and have little to do, on impulse I told her that no, I didn't have a dog, I was starting the Purina Diet again. I added that I probably shouldn't, because I ended up in the hospital last time, but that I'd lost 50 pounds before I awakened in an intensive care ward with tubes coming out of most of my orifices and IVs in both arms.

I told her that it was essentially a Perfect Diet and that the way that it works is, to load your jacket pockets with Purina Nuggets and simply eat one or two every time you feel hungry. The food is nutritionally complete, so it works well and I was going to try it again. (Now I have to mention here that practically everyone in line was now enthralled with my story.)

Horrified, she asked if I ended up in intensive care, because the dog food poisoned me. I told her no, I stopped to Pee on a Fire Hydrant and a car hit me.

I thought the guy behind her was going to have a heart attack he was laughing so hard.

Costco won't let me shop there anymore. Better watch what you ask retired people. They have all the time in the world to think of crazy things to say.
