Volunteer Couples Enjoy Double Duty

People Who Care is fortunate to have many dedicated individuals who volunteer to help Neighbors, and we are doubly blessed to count a number of couples among those volunteers.

Phil and Carol Clayton

These four couples are among the many who serve Neighbors in a number of ways. They schedule volunteers, take Neighbors shopping, conduct home intake interviews, provide transportation and serve on committees. They serve in different ways, but their motivation is the same – help make someone's life a little better.

Carol Clayton learned about PWC 10 years ago through her church. "I knew about the agency, and I knew it was a good organization."

She provides transportation and shops with her Neighbors. She also has a regular appointment to read mail for a Neighbor.

Her husband, Phil, began volunteering four years ago after a good friend and PWC volunteer passed away. "I wanted to honor his memory."

Phil provides transportation for grocery shopping trips. "The folks I assist are so appreciative, and I appreciate their upbeat, positive attitudes."

Having the flexibility to volunteer when you can is important to

Wanted: Chino Valley Volunteers

As Chino Valley has grown in recent years, so has the need for People Who Care volunteers.

With new housing developments on the way, Marie Bernardo, People Who Care's Chino Valley Program Director, sees the need every day.

"We're working on reaching out to our homeowner association groups, faith and community groups to find volunteers to help. That's the main idea behind this organization, helping our Chino Valley People Who Care Neighbors in your own community."

Volunteer Suzy Davidson knows how important that mission is. She moved to Chino Valley from and liked what they heard, especially the flexibility in volunteering.

Hugo mainly takes people to medical appointments.

Susan does home intake interviews to meet with prospective Neighbors.

“I get to meet some of the most amazing people and hear their stories. Oftentimes, we form a bond,” she said.

Both find that shopping with their Neighbors is a great way to help others.

“People are so grateful,” Hugo said. “It’s a good way to get out of the house, and for some people, it’s their only chance,” Susan said.

“We’re a community that does a lot of volunteering, and what a difference it makes. You can see how it helps,” she said.

Dave and Judy Seelye began volunteering in 2013 after attending an orientation meeting.

“PWC offered both of us areas of participation that we both thought would be a perfect fit, thus allowing us to be flexible in our schedules and our desire to travel,” Judy said.

Judy volunteers weekly in the PWC Prescott office, taking requests from Neighbors and contacting volunteers to set up appointments.

Dave and Judy Seelye

Three years ago, she joined the Gala Fundraising Committee, and has been serving on the auction subcommittee ever since.

“I feel blessed that my time and energy help others have a fulfilling and joyful life,” she said.

Dave likes to shop, so much so that he shops for as many as three Neighbors a week.

“After a while, I know the exact items my shop-for Neighbors like at the grocery stores. If an item is on sale or I see an item they might like to have, I call them while shopping to ask,” he said.

He calls his volunteering “paying it forward” and hopes one day when he needs assistance someone will be there for him.

Gil Walter and Susan Coffroth joined PWC in 2016 after attending an orientation meeting.

When they heard that the Marketing Committee needed assistance, they immediately raised their hands. They work to publicize People Who Care’s good work through various mediums.

Gil also provides transportation to doctors’ appointments and shops for and with his Neighbors in Prescott Valley.

“This organization does so much for our community members. We’ve seen how a simple shopping trip and weekly visits can make a huge difference in people’s lives,” Gil said.

“Our goal is simply to share the good works of People Who Care with members of our communities so more people will volunteer to help their Neighbors,” Susan said.

Executive Director Fritzi Mevis said, “Volunteering in your community is a wonderful opportunity for people who have recently moved to our area and are new retirees.

“The benefits are numerous – learning about your community, meeting new people, finding your way around and, most importantly, filling your retirement with purposeful and fulfilling days helping our Neighbors or sharing your experience by working on a People Who Care committee.”

a fairly isolated small town in Colorado with no transportation. Now, she drives people to doctors' appointments and shops with Neighbors.

"I enjoy meeting people from all walks of life. I've even met people from my old hometown," she said. "I make friends with my Neighbors and do things outside of People Who Care."

A busy woman, Suzy always finds time to help her Neighbors. "It's a small thing, and people are so grateful."

Mary O'Neil is a People Who Care Neighbor who benefits from Suzy's caring – and driving.

Mary's physical limitation requires her to have transportation to her doctor appointments during the week. "I don't know what I'd do without People Who Care volunteers," she said. "It's been nothing but wonderful!"

One of her favorite parts of her relationship with PWC volunteers is the personal treatment she receives. "It makes me feel comfortable. I love that about them," Mary said.

She also appreciates that the volunteers stay with her during her appointment. "Suzy even teases the nurses. That makes it wonderful. And, I never have to worry that I'll miss an appointment."

Become a People Who Care Volunteer!

Volunteer Orientation and Information Meetings are held monthly on the third Wednesday of the month from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the Prescott office on the Prescott United Methodist Church Campus, 505 W. Gurley St.

Chino Valley and Prescott Valley/Dewey meetings are held routinely throughout the year. Come and see if this is something that you would like to do.

Join your family and friends for a yummy meal at the Prescott Area Lions/Lionesses clubs' 38th Annual Pancake Breakfast.

The breakfast will be 7 – 10 a.m. Saturday, June 9, during Prescott Territorial Days.

Couple Gets Help, Gains New Friends at Stroke Support Groups

When her husband had a hemorrhagic stroke, Carol had to make some immediate adjustments in their lives. Any stroke is life-changing, but one in which no treatment is available can be fatal.

After months of speech, physical and occupational therapy, Carol and her husband found the People Who Care Stroke Support Groups and began attending in November 2016.

"It's vitally important that stroke survivors and family members be in two groups because the issues that we were both going through were so different," she said.

"We were able to talk openly to others who are going through almost the same issues. We helped each other."

Carol and her husband still attend the groups, and her husband is now walking, talking and even driving. "We have gained so many new friends through the group," she said. "I feel People Who Care has saved our lives and our relationship."

In fact, Carol was so grateful for the support they received that she now volunteers for People Who Care, taking Neighbors to doctors' appointments or shopping.

The Stroke Support Groups are facilitated by caring volunteers with professional healthcare backgrounds. Attendance is free.

For more information, call People Who Care at 928-445-2480.

Ways Our Volunteers Help Neighbors

People Who Care volunteers help their Neighbors in so many ways. These are some of them:

- Rides for healthcare and business appointments, support group meetings and visits to a family member in a healthcare facility.
- Rides for a grocery shopping trip and any help needed in the store and with carrying in groceries at home.
- Shopping for groceries for Neighbors who are not able or comfortable leaving their homes.
- Assistance with reading mail, writing checks to pay bills, reconciling the checkbook or writing personal notes to family and friends.
- Relief for full-time family caregivers for a few hours a week in order to give them a little time away and time on their own.
- A weekly friendly visit from a volunteer, just spending time together sharing their lives past and present.
- Phone calls during the week to check in to see how everything's going this morning.

Did You Know?

Throughout the year, more than 500 enrolled client Neighbors receive assistance to help them to be able to stay in their homes and continue living in their communities. People Who Care volunteers are truly the hearts and hands of a caring community.

Popular Course Offers Strategies for Living with the Challenges of Low Vision

People Who Care is again offering its popular, free low vision course this spring and summer. "Confident Living with Low Vision" is free and open to Quad-City area residents.

If you are struggling with low vision, this six-week class may help you learn how to deal with and live more confidently with this life-changing challenge.

Among the topics that will be presented by vision professionals are:

- Understanding medical conditions of the eye, research and treatment, and vitamins make a difference.
- Orientation and mobility, guide dogs.
- Getting organized, safety steps, reading and writing and lighting tips, "Your home is your castle."
- Community resources.
- Dealing with life's changes.
- Audio and other useful technologies.

Funding for the course is provided by St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

Because the class size is limited to 30 participants, registration is required. Call 928-445-2480 right away to reserve you're spot. A close family member or friend is welcome to participate with you. Transportation is provided for People Who Care Neighbors.

The six-week course takes place from 10 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in the Douglas Meeting Room on the Prescott United Methodist Church Campus, 505 W. Gurley St. Call 928-445-2480 for course dates.

Noon Lions Recycling Effort Helps PWC

When you take your newspapers and magazines to one of the Noon Lions trailers throughout the Prescott area, not only are you helping the environment, you're helping People Who Care.

Last year, the Noon Lions earned enough money from their recycling program to fulfill the grant requests from 30 charitable organizations, including People Who Care.

According to Mike First, who is the club's paper project chairman and PWC president, it takes about 60 Lions a week to do the work of sorting and recycling. The money they raise – about $40,000 in 2017 – stays in the community. "It's a lot of hard work, but the payoff is great. Our profits support our community," he said.

PWC Executive Director Fritzi Mevis said, "We couldn't be more grateful for the support we receive from the Area Lions Clubs and from the paper recycling project. It takes so little time and effort to recycle your paper, and it helps so many charitable community organizations to continue helping all of our neighbors."

Give the Gift That Keeps on Giving Legacy Gift Helps People Who Care Help Neighbors

People Who Care is working hard to grow its endowment fund helping to ensure that People Who Care will be helping community neighbors far into the future.

Our endowment fund with the Arizona Community Foundation is a critical part of our financial strategy.

People Who Care receives the majority of its funding from community members who support our mission to provide caring, nonmedical assistance to adults unable to drive because of physical limitations in order to help them continue living independently in their homes.

The endowment has a restricted amount of money that is invested in different funds at the Arizona Community Foundation and earns a percentage of interest that can be returned each year to People Who Care.

We may choose to use the interest to support program costs or have the interest reinvested in the endowment fund. The fund will continue to grow in perpetuity.

Talk with your financial adviser about establishing your legacy gift, or call our office at 928-445-2480, for more information.

What you do today can make a difference that lasts forever.
