

FLORIDA HEALTHCARE ENGINEERING ASSOCIATION CERTIFIED HEALTHCARE ENGINEER

REQUIREMENTS FOR CERTIFICATION

The "Certified Healthcare Engineer" certification program was developed by the FHEA in 1979 and launched in 1980 as a way to provide specific objective guidance for FHEA members who wish to excel in the field of healthcare facility engineering and management.

The CHE application utilizes a point system that covers a broad array of activity, educational, and experiential requirements. In completing the application which requires substantiating each point, the successful individual demonstrates a high standard of integrity, proficiency and professionalism in the healthcare engineering field. The CHE is both recognized by his peers as a certified, goal-oriented professional, and valued by the healthcare facility industry as a whole as a way to discern the profession's most qualified individuals.

Certification is available to all FHEA healthcare facility professional members who meet established standards of proficiency, development, and continuing education. Applicants can achieve the required points in any number of ways; however the one requirement which must be met and for which there is no accepted substitution, is attendance at a minimum of one-half of the district meetings in the previous calendar year. Certification period is the calendar year of application, and must be renewed annually.

CHFM's: Individuals with the CHFM certification need not complete the entire form nor provide all documentation. Complete the top of the form through Item #2 and submit form with copy of CHFM certificate, district meeting rosters, and certification fee to the FHEA office.

For each item listed on the application, documentation must be provided and submitted with the application. Examples of documentation/substantiation are:
