2017 Indiana Derby is July 15

The date for the 23rd running of the Grade III $500,000-added Indiana Derby has been set. Indiana's richest horse race will be held Saturday, July 15 at Indiana Grand Racing & Casino.

The Indiana Derby began during the inaugural season of pari-mutuel Thoroughbred racing in 1995 at Hoosier Park and was moved to Indiana Grand in 2013 when the state established the Shelbyville track as the location for all Thoroughbred and Quarter Horse racing.

Over the years, the race has grown in status, displaying some of the best three-year-olds in the country. Last year's event was won by Cupid for Hall of Fame Trainer Bob Baffert, who scored his fourth win in the race in the past eight years.

The Grade III $200,000-added Indiana Oaks will join the Derby on the July 15 racing program that boasts more than one million in purse money each year. Indiana Derby Night will once again be complemented by other activities in the days surrounding the event along with other stakes races, bringing the attention of the horse racing world to Indiana during that time.

February HBPA Meeting Notes

The Board of Directors of the Indiana HBPA met February 13, at Indiana Grand. After President Joe Davis called the meeting to order, Mike Smith, executive director of the IHRC spoke.

He described several legislative goals for the current General Assembly session, such as establishing responsibility for overseeing the purse account. After a violation, purse redistribution is supposed to occur, sometimes the horseman has left the state, or refuses to give the money back. In those instances, the IHRC will take the lead in recovering the money, in cooperation with the Attorney General's office. Also, Smith would like to see fine revenues diverted to aftercare.

Samples will be sent out two times a week, starting this year, in hopes of accelerating the adjudication process, he said.

The board asked about licensing issues, like three-year license renewal (instead of annual,) and the challenges posed by limited office hours early in a meet when trainers have to be licensed for their workers to get their licenses. Smith said both items will be looked into. And, he said he would initiate changes in the claiming system, to simplify the process.

The IHRC has started online licensing, to help streamline participation in Indiana racing, Smith said. He also said that the Commission has added a communications staffer to help ensure information gets to horsemen in a timely manner.

After the IHRC executive director left, the board discussed the financial report, additional regulatory issues, and ongoing legislative activities. It is increasingly looking like the effort to gain table games at the track casinos will have to wait another year, as will the initiative to put in place ADW in Indiana.

The board also discussed promotions for the upcoming year. Promotions Committee Chair Tianna Richardville reviewed a meeting we had with Tammy Knox, of Indiana Grand. We will do the Saturday Grand Morning promotion again this year, and we will put in place some ongoing recognition for grooms and crews on the backside.

In other board items, the directors were briefed on the upcoming National HBPA Convention. Five people will be attending for Indiana HBPA. And the board voted to accept an increase in National HBPA dues assessment for this affiliate.

The board decided not to commit funds to the American Horse Council's economic impact study and okayed a $501 contribution to the Indiana Horse Council's Queen Contest for its Horse Fair.

The Indiana HBPA will be taking a look at how we should communicate with horsemen and women – currently through our newsletters, web page,

Facebook -- and examining whether we should add other means of social media. The board wants to hear from some third-party vendors on how to do this.

Directors also want to look into providing some type of health benefits for the organization's employees. Mike Brown will examine options before the next meeting.

After approving the benevolence financial report, and having no cases to discuss, the board set the next meeting for March 21, 2017, and adjourned.
