

Nina Womack Bio

“A leader has the vision and conviction that a dream can be achieved. He inspires the power and energy to get it done.”

— Ralph Lauren

Nina Womack is owner of Queen of the Nile Enterprises and Transmedia 360. As an award-winning actress, filmmaker & event planner since 1996, Nina’s expertise spans through two decades of media, music and event production.

Born in Los Angeles as Nina Hairston, she made her precocious entrance into the entertainment industry at the tender age of five years old as an actress and print model when she was "discovered" in an elevator by an agent from the Dorothy Day Otis/Jack Rose Agency. As a gifted child, she landed several guest-star roles on television, print modeled for major department store catalogs and performed on various stages in L.A. In her early teens, Nina took a long hiatus from acting and was engulfed into the world of music.

At age 18, she married her high school sweetheart, Cecil Womack Jr., son of the late Motown legend, Mary Wells and Cecil Womack, brother to the late R&B legend, Bobby Womack. Her father-in-law, Cecil Womack remarried Sam Cooke’s daughter, Linda Cooke where Nina spent those years around this iconic musical family at home, in various studios and backstage at concerts. This period of her life taught her much knowledge about the business of music.

Eventually, Nina returned to her childhood passion; acting. She attended Los Angeles City College Theater Academy and then transferred to California State University, Northridge. During her schooling, she was on the honor roll, won the President’s Award, an Outstanding Minority Student Award, several Drama Awards, and even a Certificate of Commendation from the City of Los Angeles for her creative contributions.

She has appeared on TV shows such as; Melrose Place and Pacific Palisades to name a few, movies such as Power of Love starring actress, Vivica Fox, tons of stage plays and much more. In addition to acting, directing, and producing, Nina's creative writing skills has penned her as a published poet, screenwriter, she also writes treatments, website copy, articles, blogs and business proposals.

While pursuing her entertainment industry dreams, she has worked through the years in related fields such as; marketing, advertising, fundraising, locations, real estate, catering and sales which gave her valuable skills to add to her creativity.

Her mission is to utilize her talents in the arts to promote love, peace, and self-empowerment globally. Nina aims to continue helping others to become their best selves. Her philanthropy has included directing and producing a gang prevention documentary and event coordinating the children's areas for Los Angeles based community festivals since 1999. Providing fun family entertainment to an audience brings Nina great joy.

Her event planning skills has also landed her jobs as wedding planner, party planner, and workshop coordinator. Nina is currently in development on launching an upcoming Television Satellite network as well as in pre-production on a short film and murder mystery play coming up in March 2015.
