Hi, Friend!

I know you love animals like I do, so I thought you might like to know about Save The Giraffes (STG). Its mission is to guarantee giraffes are protected and preserved in their natural habitat.

Did you know, for every giraffe in the wild, there are 3.5 elephants? In the last 30 years, the wild giraffe population has declined 36-40%. In 2016, this decline was confirmed during a reassessment by IUCN's Red List of Threatened Species. Giraffe camelopardalis was reclassified as a species that is vulnerable to endangerment and extinction.

When you support STG, you are supporting worldwide projects to help giraffes. STG's vision is to support conservation research and education programs that strive to ensure the survival of giraffes and their ecosystems for future generations. Now that giraffes are officially classified as threatened, we have to act!

What can you do? Help us spread the word! Print a letter like this one from the website, and send it to a friend, or "like" us on Facebook and follow us on Instagram.
