Chair International Centre for Urban Planning & Transport (ICIUPT)
and Facilitator

Ken is a strategic transport planner and stakeholder engagement expert with over 20 years' experience in both the private and public sectors. Ken's experience as a facilitator includes numerous international transportation and road safety conferences, community workshops, public exhibitions and inter-agency stakeholder engagement programs. His facilitation clients have ranged from the Olympic Roads and Transport Authority, state government agencies and councils, to private consultancies and advocacy groups.

Ken has developed a unique facilitation style which mixes friendliness and professionalism with solid topic knowledge and a sense of humour.

Ken's knowledge of transport and planning related issues stems from his longer-term experience as a strategic transport planner; having worked as Sydney City's chief strategic policy planner, South Sydney's principal transport planner and strategic planning team lead, as well as some 10 years in private consultancies.

Ken prefers to refer to himself as a "facilitator" rather than a "moderator" because runs events in a manner which facilitates a constructive exchange of information and a growth of skill sets, rather than simply moderating an event so that it "runs on time".
