Wi-Fi to Wiegand Reader

WiFi To Wiegand Reader Info

Revenue Control Systems has designed a device that allows customers to enter their gate code via their cell phone instead of manually typing a code into the keypad. Customers can connect to the RCS Wi-Fi device within the keypad and transmit their codes to the unit as they approach the keypad. Simply save the RCS app to your phones home screen and enter your code one time and it will be saved for future use. Each

This option allows customers to enter their gate code before approaching the gate. No hardware is needed for this option. A web server will run on the office computer that will let customers enter their code from any location through the internet. This is handy when tenants have other personnel, like moving trucks, coming to the facility. The tenant can enter their code and open the gate for the person without leaving their time you enter the facility and automatically connect to the Wi-Fi, click the send button on the app and the gate will open. This is a handy feature for customers because there is no need to roll a window down and manually enter a code into the unit, especially when its raining.

home. This also allows managers to control access to the facility through their phone remotely in case of an emergency. Along with code access, managers can see a real time transaction log for their facility.

Tips and Tricks: Check the chain and the attachment bolts on your sliding gate operators at least once a month. If there are more than 4 inches of play at the center of the chain you should have it adjusted as well as the gate limits. Have the limits adjusted so that there are at least 2 inches of clearance at the catch post when the gate is closed as well as when its fully open. We recommend spraying it with a light oil as opposed to a heavy grease. Although the light oil requires more frequent spraying, it doesn't clump up and accumulate dirt and grime like a heavy grease.
