Security

The security of your personal information is important to us but remember that no method of transmission over the internet or method of electronic storage is 100% secure. We take precautions to protect your information and have put in place appropriate safeguards to secure the information we collect online. The computers/servers in which we store personally identifiable information are kept in a secure environment.

Cookies

We use “cookies” to collect information. A cookie is a piece of data stored on a site visitor’s hard drive to help us improve your access to our site and identify repeat visitors to our site. Cookies can also enable us to track and target the interests of our users to enhance the experience on our site. Usage of a cookie is in no way linked to any personally identifiable information on our site. We may collect information about your computer, including your IP address, operating system and browser type, for system administration and to create reports. This is statistical data about our users' browsing actions and patterns, and does not identify any individual. Some cookies in use of our site are Google Analytics. Google Analytics is a web analytics tool that helps website owners understand how visitors engage with their website. Like many services, Google Analytics uses first-party cookies to track visitor interactions as in our case, where they are used to collect information about how visitors use our site. We then use the information to compile reports and to help us improve our site. Google Analytics collects information anonymously. It reports website trends without identifying individual visitors. You can opt out of Google analytics without affecting how you visit our site – for more information on opting out of being tracked by Google Analytics across all websites you use visit this Google page (<https://tools.google.com/dipage/gaoptout>).
