Let us, on this second Sunday of Lent reflect on the word privilege. A privilege is a right or benefit enjoyed only by a person or by particular persons and not by all others. Let us examine the privileges we have as Christians, having a merciful and loving God. Of the billions of people in the world, let us also examine the various privileges we have as individuals and even as a community. However, every privilege comes with some challenges. In the Gospel of today, among all those who followed Jesus, He chose Peter, James and John to experience His Transfiguration. What a privilege for these three apostles? Their desire was to remain in the wonderful presence of Moses, Elijah and our Lord. All of us want to remain in good or privileged situations. Jesus did not accept this. He expected them to go back home and face the challenges of bringing others to God; to carry their respective crosses. Abraham was chosen by God amongst all other people in his days. What a privilege? Yet his challenge was to travel widely, to sacrifice his son and to manage other social crisis. His faith in God brought him enormous blessings and success. As we share in the blessings of Abraham, let us face the world with complete faith and trust in God.

Permítanos, en este segundo domingo de Cuaresma reflexionar sobre la palabra privilegio. Un privilegio es un derecho o beneficio disfrutado solo por una persona o por personas particulares y no por todos los demás. Examinemos los privilegios que tenemos como cristianos, teniendo un Dios misericordioso y amoroso. De los miles de millones de personas en el mundo, examinemos también los diversos privilegios que tenemos como individuos e incluso como comunidad. Sin embargo, cada privilegio viene con algunos desafíos. En el Evangelio de hoy, entre todos los que siguieron a Jesús, El eligió a Pedro, Santiago y Juan para experimentar su Transfiguración. ¿Qué privilegio para estos tres apóstoles? Su deseo era permanecer en la maravillosa presencia de Moisés, Elías y nuestro Señor. Todos nosotros queremos permanecer en situaciones buenas o privilegiadas. Jesús no aceptó esto. El esperaba que volvieran a casa y enfrentaran los desafíos de llevar a otros a Dios; para llevar sus cruces respectivos. Abraham fue elegido por Dios entre todas las demás personas en sus días. ¿Qué privilegio? Sin embargo, su desafío era viajar mucho, sacrificar a su hijo y gestionar otras crisis sociales. Su fe en Dios le trajo enormes bendiciones y éxito. Al compartir las bendiciones de Abraham, enfrentemos el mundo con completa fe y confianza en Dios.
