We are 6 moms with a passion for sharing resources, tools and education with other adults are intermingle with children and their devices. We know technology changes daily, we as adults have to be educated enough to keep up with the consistent changes. If we don't know how do we teach our children.

The mission of Mobile Mamma is to ensure that everyone from age 5 to 95 are educated well enough to be safer and smarter online while using their mobile or smart devices. The purpose of Mobile Mamma is to provide a valuable educational resource hub for children and adults. Mobile Mamma understands that technology is one of the greatest advancements of all time, however technology imposes dangers equal in measure to our youth.

NUMBERS THAT SPEAK

- Instagram is the number one platform for online bullying

- In 2016, 1 in 6 missing youth are involved in sex trafficking

- 1 in 7 students k-12 are a bully or have been bullied

- 160,000 students will intentionally miss school in fear

- 83% of girls and 79% of boys report harassment

- 40% of boys that were bullied in grades 6-9 have 3 or more arrests by the age of 30

- 75% of shooting incidents have been linked to bullying

- 64% of students that have been bullied don't report it

- In 2017, 12% of students surveyed said they have sent an explicit image of themselves or another person to someone else

- 15% of sexing is now done by 12-year old's or younger

By educating adults in the following areas we CAN be the resource. Education does not discriminate against race, sex or age. Ignoring that there are issues is as bad as supporting it.

What's For Supper?

We have lost the 'human" connection in our family units. Families now are so caught up in this electronic world, they don't make time to put down their electronics to say "hey, what's for supper" anymore.   Our goal is that we can offer the tools and resources to open up the lines of commu-nication with our youth and remind them of the dangers that can and WILL be lurking out there for them.   To get back to "Sunday supper" again, if for no other reason then to communicate "safely"

Talk To The Hand

How many adults have heard or said " When I was your age..."? Or heard the words "At your age I never had..."? Today's youth have the   ability to communicate with each other on a whole new level. There is no such thing as picking up a phone and calling your friends. Now they have Snap Chat, Facebook, Messenger, Instagram, Marco Polo, and Facetime. Those are just a few ways that our youth are connecting with each other. As adults, we often feel that we no longer have the ability to communicate effectively with our youth unless it is through an application on their electronic device.

How Dangerous Can A Phone Be?

Shockingly, the average age of a smartphone user is 10.3 years old. Adults are giving youth phones at a younger age everyday without really knowing or realizing the dangers that are lurking each time they use their device.   Some adults will say, "Really? A phone? How and why can they be dangerous?" There are some adults that cannot see beyond the fact that a "smart" phone is NOT just a phone any longer. Electronic devices are a very powerful, effective communication source for hacking and trolling. Predators use this source to communicate with our youth today. With having such a tool in their hands, adults must realize the dangers that may follow.

WHO AND WHAT ARE WE PROTECTING

Mobile Mamma has identified a need that is occurring locally, nationally, and globally. As Internet use by children and teenagers increases, so do concerns about their online safety. Providing a safe environment requires an in-depth understanding of the types and prevalence of online risks young Internet users face, as well as the potential solutions for mitigating risks. Every parent worries about online predators at some point. Of course, it's natural to be concerned when your kid goes into an unknown world. But instead of acting out of fear, arm yourself with the facts so that you can help your kids be smart, cautious, and savvy.   (CNN poll)

In a 2013 study by the CDC entitled Adolescents, Technology and Reducing Risk for HIV, STDs and Pregnancy", a teen participant stated, ""I multitask every single second I am online. At this very moment, I am watching TV, checking my email every two minutes, reading a newsgroup about who shot JFK, burning some music to a CD and writing this message." – 17 year old boy,

It's the future generations we are protecting
