Creating high performance teams

workshop overview
Creating high performance teams

Ask yourself

- How can I trigger a positive change in team performance?
- What would it take to improve operational efficiency?
- How can I create synergies across the organisation and build effective relationships?
- Do I really understand the difference between management and leadership?

Attending this workshop will help you to

- Understand the characteristics of high performing teams
- Develop the skills to raise individual and team performance
- Learn how to flex your management style in response to different situations
- See how to convert a ‘work group’ into a high-performing team
- Develop an approach to team management that is compatible with the business world of today
- Learn how to navigate through the dramas of team development

Who should attend?

- Anyone who manages a team of people and wants them to perform at a higher level
- Individuals who want to improve their skills in raising individual and team performance
- Individuals facing significant team performance challenges
- Managers looking to learn about up to the minute management techniques for improving performance

Recommended duration of this workshop
