Oral Health

*“By three years of age, most dogs and cats have some evidence of periodontal disease.” -AVDC (American Veterinary Dental College).
Meanwhile wild animals rarely, if ever suffer from gum disease.*

A raw diet will help:

- Clean and scrub teeth
- Reduce gum disease
- Lessen chronic inflammation

Performance

“Healthier, happier dogs live longer [when fed raw] and in the case of working dogs, they’re easier to train and work better. For police, army and customs dogs working well depends on a highly trained and efficient sense of smell.” -Dr. Tom Lonsdale.

A raw diet will help:

- Protect your dog’s sense of smell
- Allow better trainability
- Increase longevity

Medicinal

“Dogs and cats on a raw diet enjoy a glossy coat, healthy skin, lean muscle tone, a robust immune system, sweet-smelling breath, healthy teeth and gums, increased energy, better digestion, a strong heart and more energy. They can be expected to live longer and to suffer less illness and disease.” -RawFoodVets.com.

A raw diet will help:

- Promote a healthy coat and skin
- Better digestion
- Robust immune system.
