Divorce

Marriages don't always work out. Sometimes, no matter how much effort is expended, a relationship simply cannot be saved. In these cases, a couple may be left with no other option but to file for divorce.

Divorce can be one of the most trying times in a person's life. The thought of dividing up property, assets, and, most importantly, custody and visitation with a child is a scenario you do not want to face alone. You need experienced guidance to assist you in making the choices that are in the best interest of your future and the future of your child or children. Attorney Lilly A. Plummer, P.C., is that attorney. She has over 20 years experience in representing divorcing spouses, and she understand the difficulties divorces cause families. She also understands how judges in West Texas think, and she will work with you to fight for the most favorable outcome possible.

Divorces can be very expensive. Attorney Lilly A. Plummer acknowledges the financial burdens involved in a divorce, and she will work with you to attempt pre-divorce negotiations to prevent the cost of a full blown court battle. But, if a court battle is what is required, rest assured that Lilly A. Plummer, P.C., Attorney at Law, has the experience, skill, and determination required to stand up for your best interests.

One of the most pressing issues facing divorcing couples revolves around custody of and visitation with minor children. Attorney Lilly A. Plummer has extensive experience in working with families. She will work with you to protect the best interest of any children of the marriage.

Custody

In the vast majority of divorces occurring in West Texas, the parties to the divorce (husband and wife) are named as joint managing conservators of the child, and one party is granted the right to determine the place of residence of the child. In simple terms, the child lives full time with one parent, and the other parent is granted visitation with the child.

For more on this subject, please download our free informational letter titled "Contested Child Custody."

Child Support

The party with whom the child will live usually is awarded child support from the other parent.

There are two components of child support: monetary (most often the form of monthly payments to the custodial parent), and health insurance. Lilly A. Plummer, Attorney at Law will work to ensure that the amounts paid and received are fair for both parties, legal in their effect, and in the best interest of the child.

The best interest of the child is ALWAYS the top priority in the Law Firm of Lilly A. Plummer.

Spousal Support

Often, the court will award spousal support, which, in this moderately conservative area, is usually paid by the husband to the wife. Lilly A. Plummer, Attorney at Law, has in-depth experience representing husbands as well as wives, and, no matter which party she represents, promises to put her experience, knowledge and skills to work for you to ensure the most favorable possible outcome.

Property Division

In the event pre-divorce negotiations and/or mediation fail to produce an acceptable agreement, Lilly A. Plummer, Attorney, stands capable and ready to represent you in a court of law. (For more on pre-divorce negotiations and mediations, download our free informational letter titled "Pre-divorce Negotiation and Mediations"). She has practiced law in West Texas courts for over 20 years. She has won tough cases against tough lawyers. This experience endows her with the skill to navigate the complexities inherent in presenting, and winning, a case tried before a judge.

During most divorces, a division of the community estate will take place. The community estate consists of any property and or assets accrued during the marriage, along with any debts accrued by the married couple. Lilly A. Plummer, Attorney at Law, possesses the knowledge and skill required to ensure a fair division and to maximize your share of the assets and minimize your portion of the community debts.
