That Christ the Son of God could have spread his Gospel of peace and love, his message of eternal salvation, to the whole world without human help need not be proved. He could, for instance, have written the Gospel in the sky—over each country in its own language. He could have gone to every part of the earth, after his resurrection, and taught his doctrine to all peoples, confirming his words with extraordinary miracles. Yet he chose the weaker but the more human way of evangelizing men—he sent their own fellowmen to bring them the message. This choice showed his divine love and understanding of weak human nature, much better and much more effectively than the use of any of the supernatural means which he could have employed.

God gave man the gift that we call freewill. Man is able to choose between alternatives. God wants man to choose heaven as his eternal home, but he wants him to choose it without compulsion or coercion. The man who chooses heaven must choose the means for going there. By appointing mortal men to bring the news of salvation, the news of heaven, and the means of getting there to all of us, Christ has given us the chance of exercising our freewill and therefore of meriting heaven. Refusal to accept would hardly be possible if Christ informed us miraculously or taught us in person. If some extraordinary individual could persist in refusing, his refusal would be utterly inexcusable.

God's mercy and love can reach into the darkest corners and produce fruit from the most unlikely and apparently most neglected of orchards.

While we thank God from our hearts today for having been put on the road to heaven, let us remember in our prayers our fellowmen, God's other children, who are trudging along through the fields and hedges. May God continue to show his mercy and divine understanding toward them!

Excerpted from The Sunday Readings by Fr. Kevin O'Sullivan, O.F.M.

No es necesario probar que Cristo, el Hijo de Dios, pudo haber difundido su Evangelio de paz y amor, su mensaje de salvación eterna, al mundo entero sin ayuda humana. Podría, por ejemplo, haber escrito el Evangelio en el cielo sobre cada país en su propio idioma. Pudo haber ido a todas partes de la tierra, después de su resurrección, y haber enseñado su doctrina a todos los pueblos, confirmando sus palabras con milagros extraordinarios. Sin embargo, eligió la forma más débil pero más humana de evangelizar a los hombres: envió a sus propios discípulos para llevarles el mensaje. Esta elección mostró su amor divino y su comprensión de la naturaleza humana débil, mucho mejor y mucho más eficaz que el uso de cualquiera de los medios sobrenaturales que podría haber empleado.

Dios le dio al hombre el regalo que llamamos libre albedrío. El hombre puede elegir entre alternativas. Dios quiere que el hombre elija el cielo como su hogar eterno, pero quiere que lo elija sin compulsión o coacción. El hombre que elige el cielo debe elegir los medios para ir allí. Al designar hombres para traer las noticias de la salvación, las noticias del cielo y los medios para llegar a todos nosotros, Cristo nos ha dado la oportunidad de ejercer nuestra libre voluntad y, por lo tanto, de merecer el cielo. Negarse a aceptar sería difícilmente posible si Cristo nos informara milagrosamente o nos enseñara en persona. Si algún individuo extraordinario pudiera persistir en negarse, su negativa sería completamente inexcusable.

La misericordia y el amor de Dios pueden llegar a los rincones más oscuros y producir frutos de los huertos más improbables y aparentemente más descuidados.

Mientras agradecemos a Dios de corazón por haber sido puestos en el camino al cielo, recordemos en nuestras oraciones a nuestros semejantes, los otros hijos de Dios, que están caminando penosamente a través de los campos y setos. ¡Que Dios continúe mostrando su misericordia y entendimiento divino hacia ellos!
