About Us

MISSION

Seeking to put God's love into action, Habitat for Humanity brings people together to build homes, community and hope.

HISTORY

South County Habitat for Humanity (SCHH) was founded in 1990 as an affiliate of Habitat for Humanity International. We dedicated our first home in 1992 and in 1994 completed a Blitz Build of two homes in Charlestown in the span of a week. Also in 1994, the SCHH-URI partnership was formalized when the University of Rhode Island Campus Chapter was established. The first women-built house in 1997 recruited many women volunteers, some of whom still serve on the Women's Crew today. The completion of the Operations Center and the establishment of a Habitat ReStore in 2007 put SCHH on firm financial footing for the future. SCHH has continued to expand. Now after 28 years in operation, we have completed 54 homes and helped 66 South County families improve their lives through access to safe and decent housing.

SERVICES

South County Habitat provides numerous services to area residents and organizations. In addition to helping provide decent and affordable housing to hard working families, we also host homebuyer education classes for future homeowners, so they better understand the requirements of homeownership. We have established various partnerships with other area agencies to extend our offerings to a broader population, including neighborhood revitalization, job training opportunities, and an aging in place program for our 65+ year old area residents.

Habitat's Reach Across Washington County

We believe that strong and stable homes help build strong and stable communities.

We build self-reliance.

From the Executive Director

As we reflect on this past year of accomplishments and celebrate our successes, we should all take pride in knowing that each and every home we build and every house we repair is having an impact, not only on the families we are directly serving but on our community as a whole.

South County Habitat is known for its strong and sustained commitment to home building. However, when it comes right down to it we are building so much more. We are building a community of volunteers, supporters, neighbors and families. We are building a springboard for deserving families to get a hand up in life, and the opportunity for them to thrive and become contributing members of our community. Often, we focus on the immediate and tangible outcomes. There are many and they are very important. However, it is also important to take a step back and look at how the efforts from three years, ten years, twenty-five years ago are still having a positive impact today. While we rejoice with the two families in South County who have a new place to call home this year, we also celebrated when one of our homeowners was able to pay off their Habitat mortgage in full. Other homeowners shared the news of high school graduations, holiday feasts, new jobs and new friends. The impact of Habitat's work and mission last long after we hand over the keys.

As the new director I have enjoyed being able to hear these stories of how the work of our volunteers and supporters has changed lives and continues to do so every day. I want to thank everyone for their support of Habitat over this past year and for welcoming me to South County. Change is not always easy or smooth, but thanks to our dedicated volunteers, staff, and supporters, we have been able to have a very real impact. I look forward to another great year with Habitat and the opportunity to help support our community.

Sincerely,

Colin Penney
Executive Director

From the President

This past year at South County Habitat for Humanity is often referred to as the year of transition. That term refers primarily to the change in leadership but it also captures the completion of several mandated revisions to our operating model. It has been an exciting and challenging year.

Our Executive Director, Colin Penney, joined the organization in late October 2017, and in less than a year has proven to be a knowledgeable leader focused on our vision of “a world where everyone has a decent place to live.” Colin has won the respect and confidence of the staff, volunteers and board and has already established himself as an advocate for Habitat throughout South County and the State of Rhode Island.

Now that the leadership transition is complete, we are again fully focused on fulfilling our mission of bringing people together to build homes, community and hope. The stories and statistics shared in this Annual Report illustrate our past successes, all of which were achieved with the assistance of generous volunteers and donors. Going forward, we plan to continue the tradition of building new and rehabbing existing homes for qualifying families. With several projects currently underway, including the construction of a duplex home in Exeter, the future looks bright.

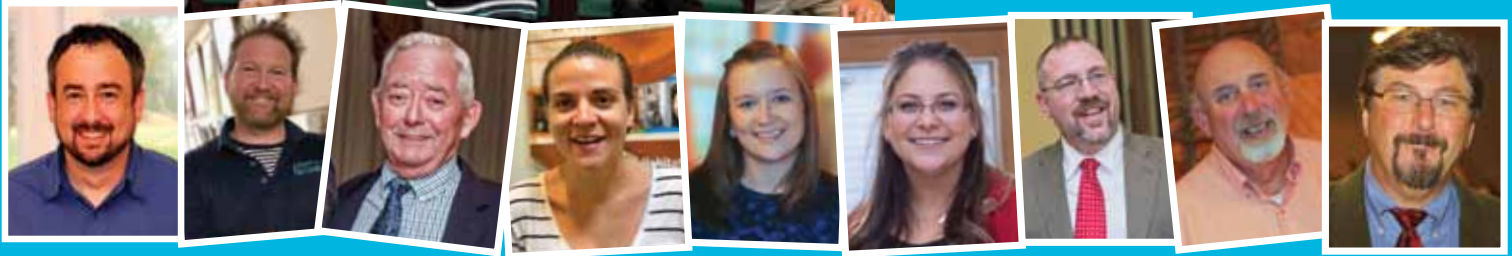

Habitat’s ability to serve more families depends on individuals like you who give time and resources to help us build and rehabilitate homes for qualifying families. If you choose to be involved, I can promise it will be one of the most rewarding experiences of your life.

Valerie Henry
President

Families

Over the last 28 years, the focus of South County Habitat for Humanity has been to provide each new qualifying family with a fresh start and a pathway to a better future.

Since 1990, over 144 children and 85 adults have ventured down the South County Habitat path. Past and present, their journeys continue. Young children have grown. Some are the first in their families to graduate from college. Many have started successful careers. Habitat has made an impact on their success and their lives.

And for the parents, in addition to providing a secure and welcoming environment for their families, they too have had a chance to flourish. Some have been able to buy a more reliable car to get them to work, from the saving of having an affordable mortgage payment. Others have saved for that vacation they never dreamed of having. And then there are those who have used the opportunity to go back to school and further their education and career prospects.

Some families like Becky and Rick have paid off their mortgage, providing them additional financial freedom. And our most recent families like Lisa, the future of the Habitat benefit fully awaits them. Life is a journey and the path provided by Habitat continues to rewards those families from the past, the present and the future.

PRESENT Homeowner

"My son is a happier child, more social and especially more independent. He didn't have his own room before. Now we have more structure and personal space. We are able to have company over and he has friends sleepover!"

Tiea - Habitat homeowner since 2017

FUTURE Homeowner

“For me, the security of having a home that I never have to leave again has done something to my soul. I don’t feel insecure, I feel rooted and complete – the security is the overall feeling. Coming home to our own house – it’s like when you have a flower you want to grow in good earth, and I feel that we have been planted in good earth.”

Lisa - Habitat homeowner since 2018

PAST Homeowner

“It’s nice to be able have the things everyone wants in life, and because of Habitat we get to be normal... but the difference between me and everyone else is that our house was built with love... we are so grateful we had this opportunity.”

Rick & Becky - Habitat homeowner since 1998

University of Rhode Island

Habitat for Humanity Chapter

Everyone deserves decent shelter.

The University of Rhode Island Habitat for Humanity chapter is the collegiate affiliate associated with South County Habitat for Humanity. It is open to all students and staff who are interested in volunteering. Along with working on construction sites and volunteering in the ReStore or in the office, their chapter is involved with many on-campus events. This includes First Night and Homecoming/Family Weekend, where they reach out to the University community and share what Habitat for Humanity is all about. Last year, the URI student chapter contributed over 500 hours, which is equivalent to a donation of $12,493.

They also help organize several on campus fundraising activities on behalf of South County Habitat throughout the academic year. This includes partnering with the URI Greek Life community on a very successful fundraising event each year that raises in excess of $100,000 annually.

This past year, 108 URI participants were involved in an "Alternative Spring Break" program, and spent their entire spring break in either Baltimore, MD, Flagstaff, AZ, Houston, TX, Guatemala or in various RI locations working with local Habitat for Humanity affiliates in those areas. Additionally, 13 students also volunteered during the URI January Term at our construction warehouse in Peace Dale.

Received from URI Greek Life Fundraiser Fall 2017 $71,000+

The Lou Raymond Building Endowment Fund

In 2017, with the retirement of Executive Director Lou Raymond, we established the Lou Raymond Building Endowment Fund, a sub-fund of our South County Habitat for Humanity Endowment. The initial deposit to the fund was approximately $11,000 and was made possible by numerous contributions from attendees to Lou's retirement party. Funds from this new endowment are to be used for projects to support the mission of South County Habitat for Humanity.

Community Support

South County Habitat for Humanity, with the continued help and support of the community and corporate sponsors, currently has one new duplex house under construction along with 3 rehabilitation projects underway.

These projects, like all the houses Habitat has built over the last 28 years, are possible because of a broad coalition of community supporters. They have helped provide funding for these houses and are providing the labor to build and rehab these homes in partnership with a local family.

We would like to acknowledge and thank the generous community organizations and companies listed below, and on our donor pages, for their support of our mission to build homes, community and hope.

PAST

Alex and Ani is well known for their humanitarian efforts across the globe. They are eager to volunteer to make a difference through employee engagement, along with providing financial support to numerous organizations both locally and around the world.

They have partnered locally with Habitat for Humanity for many years. Be it on one of our construction sites, or engaged with one of our committees, Alex and Ani is there to help. In 2017, they designed the Queen Bee Charm as part of their Charity by Design program. They are donating 20% of all sales of the charm to Habitat for Humanity.

PRESENT

For more than 90 years, Westerly Hospital has been providing residents of southern Rhode Island and southeastern Connecticut with a full range of inpatient and outpatient services in a community hospital setting. They sponsor, develop and participate in a wide variety of community-based programs and services to promote health and wellness throughout the area.

In 2018, they provided a substantial grant to South County Habitat in order to renovate local properties and improve access to affordable housing in the community. In addition to financial support, more than 100 hospital employees and family members have volunteered their time and labor to work on one of our area rehab projects.

FUTURE

Bank of America is committed to supporting equitable solutions that will help vulnerable communities grow and prosper. Access to affordable housing remains a challenge for many communities. That's why they support the work of organizations such as Habitat, as they work to preserve, and increase access to a mix of affordable housing options and connect individuals and families with the tools and resources to achieve their financial goals.

In 2017, Bank of America established a local partnership with South County Habitat. Throughout the last year, numerous teams of bank employees have volunteered their time and talents at various South County Habitat sites. Volunteerism is part of their company's DNA and we look forward to further developing and expanding our relationship with them in the future.
