

A Message From Angel Ariel About the World Angel Grid

Channeled by Stevan Thayer

It is with great joy and gratitude that we speak with you today. The gift that you have given to us through your participation in the creation of The World Angel Grid is beyond measure. Because of your generosity and support, we have been able to give a gift to the world for those who will accept it. The gift is love. From the angelic realm, this gift of love looks like a shimmering liquid flowing constantly around your world through the World Angel Grid and touching the heart of every person.

As with all things angelic, it is our joy and duty to obey human free will and the World Angel Grid that you have allowed us to create follows this same angelic principle. It will not force anyone to open to the love, healing, and transformation that is being offered. Rather, it beckons, invites, and calls to all people. It calls them to open their hearts to the power of love.

Love is something that all people crave. They need love to live. They need love to love. Yet many people fear love, and will not embrace it when it is present. Love is the most powerful healing force in your world. And once embraced, love will always heal what needs to be healed.

We see within your world a cosmic dance taking place. Some people in this dance are embracing the angelic energy of the World Angel Grid and are opening their hearts immediately. These people are feeling empowered and alive. They are also feeling as if they have been awakened from a dream. Awakened to the reality of your world. Awakened to the need for change. Awakened to the ways of change. It is as though some inner guidance, that once lay dormant and unknown, has awakened and is now known. It is now clear to them what has not been working. It is now clear to them what needs to be done. Once they embrace love, they can see the truth and they are willing to share the wisdom of that truth with others. They act with strength that is guided by wisdom to bring acts of loving kindness and compassion into the world.

The other part of the dance involves people who are not yet able to embrace the love that surrounds them. These are the people who possess a strong self-will that is primarily driven by fear. These people strive in your world to achieve personal fame, glory, recognition, power, and prestige. They also strive to maximize their personal wealth and fortune. What is more, they do this at the expense of others. They do not act compassionately in the world and they do not use their position or their wealth to help others. What these people often find is that no amount of fame or fortune can heal the underlying fear that drives them. No matter how famous or how wealthy they become, they do not find peace. Only the power of love can heal their fear and help them find peace. And while they may initially fear and resist the love that is present, ultimately they will accept our invitation to open to and embrace the love that we offer.

The World Angel Grid has increased the energy of love in your world and this energy of love creates a division. People will either be open to love and they will embrace the energy of love, or they will be closed to the energy of love and they will remain in the energy of fear. The stronger the love, the bigger the division. The love that you have allowed us to instill into your world is so strong that in the near term the division will widen. But please don't be alarmed by the near term effect that this division may have on the cosmic dance in your world. For as you will see, the division itself will ultimately become the path to healing and reconciliation. Please let us explain.

On one side of the division you will see those who are open to love, in resonance with love, who embrace love, and who act from love. These individuals will be inspired to bring to the world the most wonderful acts of healing and kindness, as well as the most wonderful solutions to your world's problems. We see this happening already on the smallest as well as the grandest levels. We see people being kinder to their family and friends. We see wonderful spontaneous acts of loving kindness being offered. We see old angers and grudges being forgiven. We see love deepening within relationships of all kinds. We especially see children responding to the increased energy of love with increased harmony, creativity, joy, and playfulness. And we see older people experiencing higher levels of peace and contentment. We see leaders at all levels, from business to politics, championing activities that benefit the many not just the few. We see old wrongs being investigated, and the course of justice being set to make them right. But above all, we see these as acts of love, filled with forgiveness, whose goal is to unify. These acts are not done out of a desire to manipulate, control or punish, but rather, they are done to bring the giver and receiver of these acts more peace, more joy, and more love.

On the other side of the division you will see those who are not currently open to the energy of love acting out of their fear in even grander ways. You will see their anger intensify and their acts of desperation increase. Please do not judge them negatively or hate them. These souls want exactly what everyone wants. They want love. They want safety. They want peace. They want to feel fulfilled. They want family. They want friends. They want dignity. But they believe that the current circumstances of your world are preventing them from having these most precious things. As their fears and anger become even stronger it may seem to them that violence is the only expression of power they have available to them. But violence will never bring peace. Violence will only bring more violence. Only love will bring peace.

As the level of love increases, those who are stuck in fear can become so afraid that their fear will ultimately become their salvation. For it is human self-will that blocks the energy of love and it is human self-will that is driven by fear to act violently in the world. Yet, it is this same human self-will which, when the fear has become large enough, will see the situation as hopeless and will figuratively fall down on its knees and surrender. An internal surrender. A surrender to the soul. And at this moment of internal surrender, all of the emotional armament that has blocked their heart from receiving the love that is available to them will crumble. As their armament crumbles, the love from the World Angel Grid will flood into their heart, and they will be transformed. They will move in the cosmic dance and shift to the love side of the division, and they will act compassionately in the world inspired by the energy of love.

In the short time since the World Angel Grid has been operating in your world, we have already begun to see this shift take place. This shift will continue to take place, one heart, and one life, at a time. If you pay attention, you will see yourself, and people in your life around you, having a sudden change of heart and acting in more loving ways for the greater good. You will see businesses refocus to do what is right for the workers who make their business possible, rather than just what is right for their profits. You will see governments transform and serve their people, and not simply their bureaucracy. You will see businesses and governments alike taking better care of your planet and its environment. And you will see women taking a more key role in leadership at all levels, for women are naturally more open to having the energy of love channel through them into actions that bring about harmony, fairness, equanimity and peace.

The rate at which your world changes is unpredictable. Human free will is a powerful force, and fear can dominate a life for an entire lifetime. But it takes only a small amount of love to illuminate and transform a large amount of fear, and every person who moves from fear into love will further intensify the energy of love in your world and accelerate the rate of change.

We would ask you not to focus so much of your energy on what you see that is wrong in your world, but rather focus your energy on making your personal world right. Start by bringing more and more peace into yourself and your life. Use the energy of the World Angel Grid to forgive yourself, to stop judging yourself, to support yourself, and to love yourself. Channel the energy of the World Angel Grid through you to others as you stop judging them and start forgiving them. Then channel this energy into actions of loving kindness that support them. And finally, simply love them. You will see that this will not only transform your life, but as more and more hearts join in and do the same, it will continue to transform your world as well.
