

Cretors Joins TCG Staff

Angie Cretors, a long-time member of the NCAA Enforcement Staff and most recently the Senior Associate Athletic Director for Compliance Services to the University of Connecticut, has been hired as a Senior Consultant at The Compliance Group (TCG). Cretors will join TCG full-time in August. Chuck Smrt, President of TCG, commented, "We are very fortunate to have Angie join our staff. Her extensive national office and on-campus experience will be a valuable asset to our clients." TCG is a national leader in providing institutions assistance in the NCAA infractions process and compliance reviews. Smrt commented that Angie's experience at the NCAA and at Connecticut directly relate to these two areas.

For the past four years, Cretors has been responsible for managing the day-to-day operations of the compliance office at Connecticut. She also was a sport administrator. Prior to that time, she was at the NCAA national office for ten years as the Assistant and Associate Director of Enforcement, primary involved in the agent, gambling, and amateurism areas. She has an undergraduate and a master's degree from the University of Kansas.

"I am thrilled to be joining TCG, as it is considered one of the leading national companies in providing compliance services, and I want to thank Chuck Smrt for offering me this opportunity. I have known Chuck for a number of years and appreciate the opportunity to work with one of the top compliance experts in the country. I believe my knowledge base from my work at the NCAA and on-campus will be beneficial to the great work TCG already is doing."
