Season 1 (2015–16)

The episode titles for the first season are anagrams that reveal hints to the plot, which can be strung together to form a coherent paragraph.^[6]

No. overall	No. in season	Title / Anagram	Directed by	Written by	Original air date	Prod. code	US viewers (millions)
1	1	"Woe Has Joined" "Who is Jane Doe" ^[7]	Mark Pellington	Martin Gero	September 21, 2015	276092	10.61 ^[8]
A woman is left naked inside a duffel bag on Times Square, completely covered in recent tattoos, among which is the name of FBI Special Agent Kurt Weller. She suffers from a drug-induced amnesia. At the FBI laboratory, they can neither identify her, nor does Kurt know her, making her a Jane Doe. They also find an older Navy SEAL tattoo that was covered up. One of her tattoos is an address in Chinese characters, leading them to the terrorist Chao. Jane and Kurt stop him, which triggers a memory of Jane running a shooting course supervised by an unknown man. This man also appears at the hospital to kill Chao. A flashback shows how the same man has given Jane the amnesia drug at her request. A number on Jane's body matches a redacted file of Assistant Director Bethany Mayfair.
2	2	"A Stray Howl" "Taylor Shaw" ^[7]	Mark Pellington	Martin Gero	September 28, 2015	4X6302	9.11 ^[9]
Patterson has set up a computer program to constantly cross reference Jane's tattoos. It brings up the name Major Arthur Gibson, a pilot who wants to expose a secret domestic drone program. He attains control over an armed drone and kills both his former boss and another pilot who had turned him in as a whistleblower. Gibson intends to destroy the drone program by bombing the pilots' operation center. Patterson locates his signal and Weller and Jane stop him. Jane is haunted by flashbacks of killing a nun and suffers from remorse. She eventually remembers that it was really a disguised soldier from whom she took a USB key. Weller notices a scar on Jane's neck which coincides with a scar of Taylor Shaw, a childhood friend who went missing 25 years ago, and he becomes certain that Jane is Taylor. His father was accused of kidnapping and murdering Taylor, which split up their family. At night, Jane is surprised by the mysterious man in her apartment.
3	3	"Eight Slim Grins" "The Missing Girl" ^[7]	Steve Shill	Eoghan Mahony & Martin Gero	October 5, 2015	4X6303	9.06 ^[10]
When the unknown man in Jane's apartment warns her about the FBI, he is shot by a sniper, which makes Jane suspicious and cautious. The FBI is unable to identify his body. Patterson finds the number of the redacted FBI case file of gang leader Saúl Guerrero, which was led by Mayfair, who pretends not to remember. Casey Robek is injured while robbing a jewelry store. He has the same Navy SEALs tattoo as Jane. When he wakes up in the hospital after surgery, he signals Jane that he knows her, but then his brother Travis abducts him. Travis lets himself get killed rather than be arrested, and Casey whispers the word "Orion" to Jane before he dies. A DNA test confirms that Jane is Taylor Shaw, Weller's childhood neighbor. To Edgar's dismay, Jane becomes an official member of the team. Mayfair meets with Tom Carter, Deputy Director of the CIA, to discuss the secret operation "Daylight". Whoever tattooed Jane must have known about it, but only four people did and one is dead. Carter demands Mayfair make the situation go away.
4	4	"Bone May Rot" "Or Maybe Not" ^[7]	Karen Gaviola	Christina M. Kim	October 12, 2015	4X6304	8.45 ^[11]
Patterson's boyfriend David solves a puzzle on a photo of one of Jane's tattoos. It leads them to a CDC lab where two fanatic scientists are planning to release a deadly virus to save the world from overpopulation, but they are stopped just in time. Patterson asks Mayfair to see the non-redacted Guerrero file, but is denied, presumably to protect agents in the field. Carter demands to interrogate Jane himself, but Mayfair refuses. Kurt tells Jane about Taylor's past. However, a test that Patterson ran on Jane's tooth shows that she was born in Africa – this contradicts the DNA which matched Taylor Shaw. Tasha's bookie warns her that she has three days to pay off her gambling debts.
5	5	"Split the Law" "The Past Will" ^[12]	Mark Pellington	Brendan Gall	October 19, 2015	4X6305	7.82 ^[13]
During a dinner with Kurt's sister, Sarah, Jane cannot withstand the pressure to fill the role of Taylor Shaw. She has a memory from her childhood of being led into a basement filled with other children. A crime scene of what seems to be a hostage situation matches an address derived from one of Jane's tattoos, but it is really a CIA black site where Director Carter keeps bomb maker Dodi. Dodi is rescued by his team and builds a radiological bomb, but is stopped by the FBI. Carter shows up on site and is stopped by Mayfair from shooting Jane. He openly demands either Dodi or Jane for the CIA, so Mayfair gives up Dodi. Kurt's father, Bill, visits Sarah, but Kurt refuses to reconcile. Carter pays off Zapata's gambling debts and demands all the FBI's information about Jane in return.
6	6	"Cede Your Soul" "Cloud Our Eyes" ^[14]	Rob Hardy	Alex Berger	October 26, 2015	4X6306	7.91 ^[15]
The FBI shuts down a hacker app which can locate government vehicles. Jane has an erotic dream about someone who she thinks is Kurt, so she tries to keep her distance from him. However, the man in her dreams is not Weller and is observing her house at night. Tasha ultimately decides to pay her gambling debts by giving the money she got from Carter to her bookie. She tells him that she's out and doesn't want to bet anymore. Sarah tells Bill that Taylor is alive.

7	7	"Sent on Tour" "Trust No One" ^[16]	Steve Shill	Chris Pozzebon	November 2, 2015	4X6307	8.02 ^[17]
When being questioned by Weller about the file, Mayfair claims Saúl Guerrero (Lou Diamond Phillips) was an informant and she was his handler but then he started to work against the FBI, which is the reason why the file is redacted. David wants to move in with Patterson and he helps her follow a clue to the Brooklyn Historical Society, but Mayfair finds out about David and reprimands Patterson for giving a civilian access to classified information. Afraid, she breaks up with David. The team follows one of Jane's tattoos to a secessionist town in Michigan where they arrest Guerrero. After fighting the town's militia with the help of clues from multiple other tattoos, they bring him in to the FBI. When Kurt notices that Mayfair has never met Guerrero before, she tells him about Operation Daylight.
8	8	"Persecute Envoys" "Suspect Everyone" ^[18]	Marcos Siega	Chelsey Lora	November 9, 2015	4X6308	7.67 ^[19]
Five years ago, Bethany Mayfair met with Tom Carter, Deputy White House Political Director Sofia Varma, and the White House Chief of Staff Davenport. Now, Mayfair tells Weller about all of the valuable domestic intel the NSA collected illegally and that she was given orders to make the intelligence actionable. She used Saúl Guerrero to do that and they made him a front as a CI which let them put dangerous people behind bars. Kurt rails at her about all her lies, that she has the case, and why it is tattooed on Jane's body. Mayfair swears she knows nothing more, but her relationship with Weller may be beyond repair. A flashback shows how Sofia, who was her lover, committed suicide. Meanwhile, two NYPD cops were found shot down after being connected to the scene of the shooting of a young black teen that resulted in riots. The unit's numbered logo matches a tattoo on Jane's body. Their investigation reveals a dirty secret of the 65th precinct. Carter demands Tasha keep delivering more information about Jane, which she is reluctant to give.
9	9	"Authentic Flirt" "Lift the Curtain" ^[20]	David McWhirter	Katherine Collins	November 16, 2015	4X6309	7.74 ^[21]
Patterson decodes another tattoo that leads to a website criminals use to discuss their crimes. They are led to a location, and a shootout with an assassin-couple ensues in which the couple die. Allison Knight, a U.S. Marshall and Weller's ex-girlfriend, explains there was a hack at WitSec and the assassin-couple were to purchase a hit-list. Weller and Jane go undercover as the assassin-couple to get the list and arrest the man selling it. Jane and Weller are transported to the seller's island under high security. The team have to locate where Jane and Weller have been taken. Mayfair and Carter argue about Guerrero, with Carter wanting to take him out and Mayfair plotting to back date paperwork so he can't pin Daylight on them. However Carter orders a janitor to kill Guerrero. Zapata is pressured by Carter to place a bug in Jane's safe house, but she doesn't. Patterson meets with her ex-boyfriend David, who wants to reunite, but she wants to stay apart due to her high-level job. Later, David notices a person looking through a book of codes they had found together and follows them. After being led into an alley, he is found dead by a man following him.

Mayfair meets with Carter, and he tells her to get rid of Jane since she is the last link to "Daylight". Zapata gets a "last chance" from Carter to bug Jane's apartment. Following info from the book with a partial print, the team discovers a Russian sleeper cell. The team learns that the red-haired woman is one of them and her mission is to eliminate targets deemed unpatriotic to Russia. They find her and take her down in a heavy fight. Later, Jane ditches her FBI handlers and waits for Weller outside his apartment where she kisses him. She is kidnapped by Carter who waterboards her for information, causing her to remember that he is connected to "Orion." She is saved by the man with the tree tattoo who shows Jane a video revealing that "she" is the person who orchestrated everything, including her own memory loss.
11	11	"Cease Forcing Enemy" "In Case of Emergency" ^[24]	Rob Seidenglanz	Martin Gero	February 29, 2016	4X6311	6.85 ^[25]
Oscar, the man with the tree tattoo, tells Jane that she has to trust him, and that she was the one who gave the order for her to not know who she is and why she did all of this to herself. One of Jane's tattoos leads the team to an abandoned island, where they find a commercial plane that had disappeared and was presumed lost. Once there, they are apprehended by a group of terrorists who are using the island to keep the passengers hostage and are forcing them to create a device capable of disabling all U.S. GPS satellites. Meanwhile, Chief Inspector Fischer from the FBI Office of Professional Responsibility announces to Mayfair that he will be conducting an investigation into the death of Patterson's ex-boyfriend David.
12	12	"Scientists Hollow Fortune" "Follow These Instructions" ^[26]	Rich Newey	Alex Berger	March 7, 2016	4X6312	6.59 ^[27]

Jane is asked by Oscar to replace Mayfair's pen with a duplicate. When an army airborne Sergeant who was thought to be dead kills three people at an army base, it is revealed that his name is tattooed on Jane's leg along with the names of four other soldiers, all presumed dead. The team tracks him to his mother's old house and they realize that he was being experimented on by a private military contractor trying to make a super soldier. When he is kidnapped by the doctor who experimented on him, the FBI tracks them down to a storage facility in Brooklyn and Weller is forced to shoot him when he has a gun pointed at Jane.

After a tip reveals a mole within the FBI, the team must hunt for the operative while facing extreme scrutiny from Inspector Fischer. Fischer interrogates Mayfair and her team, probing for their deepest secrets. Fischer finds evidence that Jane's whereabouts were unaccounted for on the night of Tom Carter's disappearance and accuses her of killing him. An FBI informant identifies Jane as the mole and Fischer arrests her. Weller, certain of Jane's innocence, roughs up the informant for more information and learns that Fischer himself is the mole. He and his team attempt to free Jane and arrest Fischer. Jane breaks out of custody and kills Fischer when the latter reaches for his gun. Reade tells Weller about his and Sarah's relationship; Weller orders him to end it. Realizing that Fischer's case against Jane was highly plausible, Reade and Mayfair begin to wonder if she killed Carter. A furious and shaken Jane meets with Oscar, who says there is a time-sensitive tattoo on her body he needs her to decipher. Jane declares she is done with him and leaves.

A tattoo leads the team towards a massive shootout, which was a sting operation the team screwed up. They then stumble on a suspicious death-row guilty plea and a human-trafficking ring. Unable to postpone the execution, the team needs to arrest the people involved in the smuggling ring to save the inmate. Zapata takes the place of the next supposed victim, but is drugged and kidnapped, her tracking device removed. Jane argues with the FBI's therapist about whether or not to leave the FBI, but wants back in when she hears Zapata is in danger. The kidnappers find out that Zapata is not who they thought she was. The dirty politicians and businessmen involved flee in fear of being exposed, setting the building on fire with Zapata and the other victims inside. Zapata helps the others escape, but is trapped. The team gets there just in time, arresting the ring and saving Zapata. Edgar is knocked out by a masked man during his investigation into Carter's death. Jane refuses to be Oscar's asset in the FBI. Oscar warns that the people in charge will kill Weller if she doesn't cooperate.

Oscar gives Jane her new assignment: to place a tracker inside the team's vehicle. Edgar wakes with a gun at his head. The masked man warns him off investigating Carter's death. Patterson solves a tattooed clue: the burning rose. Investigation leads to a recently-robbed gallery. Kurt is injured by a bomb he finds inside a sculpture. Edgar and Jane search the artist's apartment, but are shot at by a sniper whom Jane recognizes in flashback. When the sniper escapes, Jane runs off as well. Kurt refuses treatment until Jane is safe. As the team follows a lead, Jane learns about the sniper from Oscar. At a shipyard, Kurt's team becomes trapped in the sniper's hideout. Oscar is directed to keep Jane safe, but, needing to know Kurt and the others are safe, she heads to the shipyard and is caught by the sniper. Kurt's team blast out of the trap as Jane fights the sniper. Oscar shoots the sniper and both fall into the water. Knowing Sarah is in danger, Edgar wants to stop investigating Jane and has to break Sarah's heart to protect her. At their meeting point, Jane finds Oscar alive. The sniper is also still alive.

As Kurt's relationship with Allie develops, his sister decides to move out of his apartment due to her anger over being dumped by Reade. It is also Taylor's birthday and Kurt gives her a pendant that belonged to her mother. When an armored truck carrying stolen Sarin gas is robbed, the team's investigation leads to a corrupt general who was selling the gas to South Korea. When Jane gets upset at Oscar for asking her to get closer to Kurt, he professes his love for her and they have sex. Meanwhile, Patterson struggles with memories of David when she gets a call confirming a reservation he had made for their one year anniversary. After some encouragement from Dr. Borden, she goes to the restaurant with David's last crossword. Speaking to a phantom of David, she solves the crossword, which reveals in a hidden message^[a] that David had solved another tattoo before his death.

The FBI must use the felon they put away, Rich Dotcom, to catch a criminal who is the banker for many terrorist organizations. His idea is to stage the robbery of 12 priceless black market paintings from the professor who stole them. Later, the entire heist turns out to be a scheme for Dotcom to escape custody. Meanwhile, Jane meets Weller's father and starts to follow Oscar's plan to pretend to remember things from her and Weller's childhoods. Mayfair's girlfriend Sofia, who was thought dead, turns out to be alive.

Zapata solves a tattoo which leads the team to Hudson University on a seemingly worthless mission to uncover scholarship fraud. Once they arrive on campus, a shooter starts a rampage. The team splits up and eventually apprehends the perpetrators who are revealed to be former football players abused by their coach, with whom Reade is close. The show also reveals details into the characters' lives: Weller and his relationship with his dad; Jane and her relationship with Oscar; Zapata and her gamblers anonymous meetings; and Reade getting over his breakup with Sarah and visiting his tailor. Meanwhile, Mayfair gives Sofia money to help her flee her pursuers. Sofia refuses Mayfair's offer of protection and asks her to run away with her; Mayfair declines and sends her away.

----	----	--	-----------------	------------------	-------------	--------	----------------------

Dr. Borden consults on the case of an autistic girl who draws extremely detailed sketches, one of which matches one of Jane's tattoos. The girl turns out to be the daughter of the leader of a terrorist group and her sketches provide valuable intel. When the girl's mother is murdered, the team takes her to Dr. Borden's aunt's cabin to protect her. There, they stop a group of men who come to kill her. The girl's sketches reveal a State Department diplomat, who was funding the terrorist group, sent the men in order to keep her from identifying him, resulting in his arrest. Zapata explains her suspicions about Mayfair to Reade. Jane steals data from the FBI at Oscar's request. While Mayfair is enjoying an evening out, her date is murdered and an anonymous phone call warns her not to investigate Carter's death.

When the FBI office is hacked, Patterson must lead the team with analog technology to find the perpetrators and stop them from killing Reade, Sarah, and a stranger stuck in an elevator. Meanwhile, US Attorney Weitz takes over the investigation into Alexandra's death and Mayfair realizes that he tried to recruit Zapata. Sarah tells Reade that she's moving to Portland. Mayfair is arrested for the murder of Alexandra, who wasn't who she claimed. Jane realizes that all of the missions she carried out for Oscar were pieces of a conspiracy to frame Mayfair.

When Jane accuses Oscar of using her to get to Mayfair, Sofia appears and reveals that a pre-memory-wipe Jane recruited her into the plot to bring down Mayfair. The team investigates the case of an abandoned baby and uncovers a ring of rogue scientists who are illegally creating genetically engineered designer children. Mayfair breaks out of house arrest to find out who framed her. The evidence trail leads her to Oscar's hideout and to Jane; however, Oscar kills her before she can expose Jane's involvement. Mayfair's boss, Director Pellington, expels Jane from the FBI and ends all investigations involving her tattoos, but promotes Weller to fill Mayfair's position permanently. Weller and Jane share a kiss. However, just before dying, Weller's father confesses that he did indeed kill Taylor Shaw, leaving Weller to wonder: just who is Jane Doe?

To track down Oscar, Jane enlists the help of Ana, a young hacker the team had previously saved. Weller and Sarah dig underneath the fort in their childhood home, where Bill Weller said Taylor Shaw was buried, but find nothing. Weller realizes that "fort" referred to an old family campsite; there, he digs up Taylor's bones. Jane finally catches up to Oscar, who knocks her out and captures her. When she awakens, he confirms she is not Taylor, explains their group's plans, and tells her that Shepherd is their leader. As he prepares to wipe her memory again, Jane breaks free and kills him. Reade, Zapata, and Patterson search for Mayfair, learning she was murdered. Decrypting a flash drive Mayfair had hidden in her house, they discover files labeled "Daylight," "Orion," and "M7G677." Upon Jane's return to her safe house, she is greeted by Weller, who is furious at her for pretending to remember childhood memories as Taylor Shaw and arrests her.

Season 2 (2016–17)

The episode titles of the first nine of the second season follow the same anagram formula as the first season. The titles from the tenth episode onward are palindromes; the center letters of the episode titles spell out the phrase "Kurt Weller SOS".^[6]

When Jane escapes CIA custody after being tortured for three months, NSA agent Nas Kamal recruits Weller's team to recapture her. Under interrogation, Jane explains her involvement with Oscar and the circumstances surrounding Mayfair's death. Nas reveals that Jane and Oscar were members of Sandstorm, a terrorist group, and proposes using Jane as a triple agent to infiltrate them. Though distrustful of Jane, Weller and his team agree to the idea in order to avenge Mayfair. Jane has the team shoot her to provide an alibi for her disappearance and meets with Roman, a member of Sandstorm. After treating Jane's wound, he takes her to Shepherd, Sandstorm's leader, who reveals that she is Jane's adoptive mother and that Roman is Jane's brother. Shepherd asks Jane, whose real name is Remy, to continue acting as Sandstorm's double agent inside the FBI. Using the NSA's resources, Patterson begins deciphering the files on Mayfair's flash drive, discovering an aerial photo of Jane lying unconscious on a battlefield. Shepherd has a discussion with Roman about their other mole inside the FBI.

Shepherd tells Jane to point the team at another tattoo which leads to them uncovering a Mexican drug cartel's plot to blow up a plane headed for LaGuardia Airport. They foil the plan, but Nas then tells Jane that every tattoo they solve has ripple effects and unintended consequences. They also learn that Shepherd has people inside the government, including the Department of Justice. It is revealed that Nas is secretly recording Jane's counseling sessions with Dr. Borden. Dr. Borden asks Patterson out to dinner. Allie tells Weller that she is pregnant and offers to let him be a part of the child's life, but Weller is uncertain about the idea of fatherhood. Reade talks to an old friend about testifying against their former football coach from season 1 and realizes that he himself might have been one of the man's victims. Frantic to protect Jane, Roman drugs and kidnaps her.

Jane wakes up in Sandstorm's hideout. Suspicious of her alibi for her three months in captivity due to Cade having been in Venezuela at the time she said he was keeping her captive and torturing her, Shepherd assigns her a test: to kill an engineer who failed to design a microchip for Sandstorm. When Jane is unable to kill the man, Roman does so instead and returns her to the FBI to await further instructions. The remainder of the team attempts to stop a sequence of bombings throughout New York. When Weller attempts to talk to the bomber to calm him, Nas shoots the man from a distance without warning, escalating tensions between her and Weller. Patterson and Dr. Borden share a kiss. Reade confesses to Zapata that he may have repressed memories of being molested by his former coach. Jane returns to Sandstorm and finds that Roman told Shepherd she passed the test. She thanks Roman, who warns her that future plans will be moving quickly and he will not be able to cover for her a second time.

Tormented by the possibility of his repressed memories, Reade has a mental breakdown, beating up a hacker for resisting arrest. Following a clue from one of Jane's tattoos, the team goes undercover at a museum gala where a terrorist murders two people. The terrorist is revealed to be an ex-CIA agent whose identity was erased after she attempted to expose corruption in the CIA, her victims corrupt agents. The woman believes her daughter was killed, but Weller's team finds her still alive and reunites mother with daughter. At Roman's urging, Shepherd recounts her tragic early life to Jane in order to bind her closer to Sandstorm and their mission. Zapata hires the hacker Reade attacked for an unspecified job. Nas shows Weller evidence that Sandstorm has been surveilling him for over twenty years.

Weller's team investigates an assassination attempt on State Senator Donahue. Evidence points to the Senator's terminally ill cousin, Patrick O'Malley, who claims the senator is the secret head of the Irish mob and arranged a fake hit on himself. Escorted by Weller's team and Allie, he collects evidence implicating Donahue, but Donahue's men come to kill him. In the ensuing fight, Allie is shot in the leg and O'Malley sacrifices his life to ensure her escape, as they had been friends for years. After Donahue is arrested, Allie tells Weller that she will have to take a desk job and suggests he do the same for their baby. Thanks to a tip from the hacker Zapata hired, Patterson decodes the M7G677 file, revealing emails between Mayfair and Douglas Winter, the whistleblower who exposed Orion. Jane recovers memories of a doctor who rescued her in Afghanistan and Shepherd explains how she made it back to the US; Shepherd's story is later revealed to be a lie. Obsessed with his former coach's alleged crimes, Reade assaults the man and breaks into his house, where he finds a videotape with his own name on it. Zapata finds Reade standing over the coach's dead body.

Despite being found at the scene of the crime, Reade insists that he didn't do it. As the coach's murder catches Patterson's attention, Reade and Zapata desperately try to cover up everything that could get Reade labeled a suspect. Jane joins Roman on a mission to steal a microchip for Sandstorm. While Roman keeps the security guards preoccupied, Jane tries to upload the microchip data to Patterson, but decides to stop mid-upload to save Roman. Meanwhile, Weller and Naz travel to Bulgaria in search of Douglas Winter and learn that the new deputy director of the CIA is on the same trail. When they find Winter, he claims to have been framed, as two masked individuals planted the incriminating evidence on his laptop, and provides an audio recording of the incident. Upon getting Winter back to the States, Patterson descrambles the voices in the recording, which Jane identifies as belonging to Shepherd and Roman. Additionally, Weller recognizes Shepherd's voice.

In a dream, Jane fights a long-haired version of herself whom she can't beat. Later, the FBI computer system is hacked by Rich Dotcom, returned from the previous season when he escaped from the team. Dotcom now wants FBI protection from an assassin called the Arcadian. The assassin kills two FBI agents and primes a chemical bomb in the elevator. Reade and Zapata are arguing over a case when the Arcadian attacks them both and vanishes with an unconscious Zapata. She is injected with a neurotoxin and the Arcadian informs the team that, in return for Dotcom, he will let them know which of three vials contains the antidote. Weller and Dotcom create a false camera loop to set a trap for the Arcadian. Jane's memory of her dream informs her which fight moves to use to beat the Arcadian, whom Weller kills. On the brink of death, Zapata taps Morse code on Reade's wrist to indicate which vial will cure her. Dotcom almost escapes again but, thanks to Patterson, he and his accomplices are finally caught. Meanwhile, Roman receives information that Jane's allegiance is with the FBI.

When Jane and Weller disappear while on an undercover mission, AUSA Weitz comes to the NY Office to investigate. He and the rest of Weller's team must piece together the conflicting testimonies of two criminals to discover what happened. They eventually find Jane and learn that Weller left to follow the notorious arms dealer funding the mission. When he is captured and auctioned off to the highest bidder, the team wins the auction and poses as the buyers to rescue Weller and arrest the arms dealer. After Weitz threatens to end her career, Nas gives Patterson access to all of her data on Sandstorm. The team enjoys a baby shower for Weller and Allison's baby. Zapata manages to return Freddie's knife to police evidence, while Reade helps Freddie leave town. Roman comes to Jane's safe house and tells her he needs her by his side as phase 2 of Sandstorm's plan begins.

While with Sandstorm, Jane alerts the FBI that their attack is imminent and Weller's team raids Sandstorm's headquarters. Roman knocks Jane out. When she awakens, Shepherd reveals she has long known Jane is a triple agent for the FBI thanks to Sandstorm's mole, Dr. Borden. Flashbacks reveal Borden's wife was the doctor who nursed a pre-memory wipe Jane back to health in Afghanistan; after she was killed by a US drone strike, Jane recruited him into Sandstorm. In the present, Shepherd tells Jane she pretended phase two was underway to lure out Weller's team; when the FBI arrives at Sandstorm HQ, she detonates a bomb, trapping them in the rubble. Shepherd orders Roman to kill Jane; when he refuses, Shepherd tries to kill both of them, but Jane and Roman escape. Weller manages to summon help and rescue his team. While treating Roman's wounds, Jane erases his memory, hoping to give him the same second chance she had. Patterson recognizes Borden's ring, realizing he works for Sandstorm. When she tries to arrest him, he fights back and a shot rings out; it is not shown who was hit.

The shot is revealed to have hit Patterson and, although she survives, she is captured by Borden and tortured for information by Shepherd. An amnesiac Roman escapes Jane's custody and is later rescued from Sandstorm's men by Jane and Weller. The FBI interrogates him for clues on Patterson's location, but he remembers nothing. Zapata finds a coded message from a Sandstorm operative, which leads the FBI to Borden's location. Director Pellington ejects Nas from the FBI for ordering the failed raid on Sandstorm. The FBI rescues Patterson just before she is killed, but Borden escapes. Reade makes romantic advances towards Zapata which are rejected. Pellington orders Roman be turned over to the CIA for further questioning, but relents and also reinstates Nas after Weller threatens to resign. Patterson cracks an encrypted phone and discovers a rough draft of Jane's tattoos that includes a mysterious tattoo not present on Jane's body.

When terrorist leader Anton Stepulov enters the US, Weller's team investigates. They learn he has been brought to the US by CIA Deputy Director Keaton to give information on a terrorist attack in exchange for a heart transplant for his son. Stepulov's son dies during the operation and the FBI is forced to stop the attack without his help. They deduce that the target of the attack is a high school basketball tournament where Keaton's daughter, Erin, is playing. Stepulov's men kidnap Erin and hold her hostage, but she is rescued by Weller and Keaton and the attack is foiled. Allie tells Weller that she is considering moving to Colorado with their child. Nas brings in a psychiatrist to evaluate Roman and she concludes that he lacks empathy. Patterson solves the puzzle of the missing tattoo: it leads to Kat Jarrett, a member of a biker gang, who has an unknown link to Roman.

Jane and Roman go undercover to infiltrate Kat Jarrett's biker gang, the Viper Kings. After Roman sees Kat, he remembers they were romantically involved and planned to run away together, but Remi forced him to abandon her. Jane and Roman arrange a fake heist to provide the Kings with explosives which they will sell to Sandstorm, giving the FBI a chance to arrest Shepherd. After the heist is successful, a suspicious Kat accuses Roman and Jane of working with the police; Roman confesses, but claims he only did it to be with Kat. Kat helps him and Jane escape the Kings, but is fatally shot, professing her love for Roman with her dying breath. The FBI raids the meeting between the Kings and Sandstorm, but finds Shepherd has already left with the explosives. Because of this, Nas breaks up with Weller, feeling their relationship is clouding their professional judgment. Reade becomes involved with Freddy's ex-girlfriend. Jane recognizes Shepherd in a photo from Weller's old high school yearbook and Weller remembers who Shepherd is.

Visiting his old military academy, Weller learns Shepherd's real name, Ellen Briggs, and that she funded his education. Weller's team investigates Jared Wisnewski, leader of a group of anti-government farmers planning a bomb attack, learning Wisnewski is an FBI informant who was entrapped by Agent Boyd. Weller allows Wisnewski to meet with his co-conspirators so the FBI can arrest them, but Wisnewski is shot and one of the conspirators escapes, planning an attack on a new target. Weller fires Boyd and his team manages to avert the attack. Weller interrogates Sean Clarke, a former colleague of Shepherd's who is disabled from a stroke, about Shepherd, but Clarke only rambles about baseball. Later, Patterson discovers Clarke blocked a promotion of Weller's on Shepherd's orders and Weller realizes Clarke's "ramblings" were a coded message. Patterson collapses from overwork, Reade uses cocaine to unwind with Niki, and Jane starts a relationship with Oliver Kind. Meeting again with Weller, Clarke mentions the "Truman Protocol," but he and Weller are then kidnapped by Shepherd. Shepherd kills Clarke and taunts Weller before escaping, saying they are very much alike and he will eventually have no choice but to join her.

Based on a tattoo decoded by Rich Dotcom, Patterson is able to link three tattoos to a notorious near-mythical smuggler. To follow up on the various leads, Jane and Zapata question an antiques dealer brought in on a manslaughter charge a few months ago, Weller and Roman infiltrate a prestigious clinic, and Patterson and Reade investigate another address. They discover that the antique business and the other address are used as fronts for a human smuggling ring that brings illegal immigrants to the clinic, where their organs are harvested for wealthy patients. Weller and Roman are captured by the smugglers, but the rest of the team finds them in time. Observing his actions during the case, Patterson attempts to confront Reade about his developing drug habit, but he rebuffs her efforts. Later, Nas receives a new call from her old Sandstorm contact but, when she goes to the dead-drop, she is attacked in her car.

Nas narrowly survives the attempt on her life and concludes that Sandstorm may have uncovered her informant. The team sets up a sting operation to catch him, during which Jane is attacked by Cade. When backup arrives, however, Cade reveals that he is the informant, having grown disillusioned with Shepherd's disregard for human life. He reveals the location of a fixer working for Sandstorm, but the man is killed before he can be extracted. Patterson discovers a transmitter hidden in her tooth and uses it to set a trap for Borden. Wounded, Borden kills himself with a grenade and his men commit suicide. Cade is set free, but refuses to assist any further out of fear for what Shepherd has planned. Zapata confronts Reade about his cocaine usage and warns Weller. While having dinner with Oliver, Jane is ambushed and tranquilized by masked men.

Afterwards, Oliver breaks up with Jane. Weller offers to let Reade take time off to get help, but Reade resigns instead. Weller arranges to allow Roman to live with Jane in her safe house. Roman recovers a memory of him retrieving money from a trust fund under Jane's birth name, Alice Kruger. Heavily traumatized by her experience with Borden, Patterson tears apart her apartment looking for surveillance devices. Reade is recognized as an officer by a group of drug dealers, who beat him up. Weller escapes the bunker with CIA Deputy Director Keaton. Patterson traces the explosives used in Shepherd's attacks to Zach Riley; under interrogation, he reveals Shepherd plans to crash a satellite into Washington, D.C., where she has hidden nuclear material. After Zapata and Keaton find the nuclear material in an ambulance, Jane and Weller go to confront Shepherd. While Jane drives the ambulance into a tunnel to minimize fallout, Weller searches for the beacon Shepherd is using to guide the satellite. Roman crashes a car into the ambulance, injuring Weller. Realizing Shepherd swallowed the beacon, Weller defibrillates her, disabling it and allowing Patterson to redirect the satellite into the ocean. Jane fights Roman, but cannot bring herself to kill him, letting him escape. Shepherd is arrested and placed in Nas' custody. The team celebrates and Jane and Weller consummate their relationship. Two years later, Jane is living on a mountaintop with monks, having left Weller and the FBI for unknown reasons. Weller comes to see her, asking for her help in finding Patterson, Reade, and Zapata, who have suddenly disappeared. He is wearing a wedding ring and has a sealed box marked with Jane's name, which opens when they both touch it. Inside is a metallic object that causes Jane's tattoos to light up.

Flashbacks reveal Jane and Weller married and began a family life, but were attacked by assassins seeking to collect a bounty on Jane. To protect Weller, Jane left him to stop whoever put the bounty on her. In the present day, Weller reunites with Jane, discovering that she is covered with new bioluminescent tattoos. A clue leads them to Venice, where they battle Roman, who is responsible for the new tattoos. Jane and Weller fake her death in order to get the bounty on her head lifted. It is revealed Zapata joined the CIA, Reade is head of the NY field office, and Patterson now works in the tech industry. The three of them are kidnapped by Venezuelan soldiers who demand that Patterson decrypt a CIA computer. They escape and are rescued by Jane and Weller. The FBI and CIA create a joint task force to deal with Roman and the new tattoos, reuniting Weller's old team. Zapata mentions a mysterious dragonfly tattoo to Keaton, which she wants to keep secret; Jane conceals a stash of money and passports from Weller; it is revealed Patterson has secretly been in contact with Rich Dotcom, who now works for the FBI. Weller is accosted by Roman, who threatens to tell Jane "what happened in Berlin" unless Weller does as he demands.

After Jane and Weller arrest a financial tycoon, Kevin Loewe, his lawyer insists he was framed by an anonymous hacktivist group, the Three Blind Mice. It is revealed Patterson and Rich Dotcom were formerly members of the group, but left when the third member, Kathy, began executing malicious hacks. The FBI interrogates Kathy. Patterson uses a backdoor in the app she created to help prove Loewe is guilty of corporate sabotage and Jane and Weller stop the saboteurs. Realizing Patterson and Rich were the other Mice, Kathy kidnaps them and tries to force them to perform criminal hacks. Patterson manages to signal the team for a rescue. Reade voices his suspicions that Patterson and Rich were the other members of the Mice, but says he cannot pursue them for lack of evidence, and suggests that Jane's new tattoos are intended to reveal secrets the team wants to keep hidden. Meanwhile, Zapata visits the blacksite where Hirst is being held, to get information about Crawford. Hirst reveals that Crawford has ties to Bresden's militia. After learning that Bresden has failed him, Crawford concludes that someone close to him has been working with the FBI. He stabs Victor to death. It is revealed that Roman swapped his memory's phone with Victor's to set him up. In an attempt to gain her trust, Jane shows Avery everything they have on Crawford and promises her to take him down. She later goes back to Weller's place for a talk, and decides to forgive him. Crawford tasks Roman with the mission to kill those who are interfering with his plans: Weller's team.

The team receives a visit from Nas Kamal, who discovered a clue on one of the tattoos: It points to a computer virus that has been recently stolen from NSA by Delilah Bunny, aka PopUpKid, an infamous hacker. The device has already been auctioned off to a teenage hacker who bought it for Iranian terrorists. Rich helps by posing as the winner of the auction and contacts Delilah to make the deal at a "secret hacker party" in an island. Reade reluctantly sends him to the party undercover, along with Nas, Jane and Weller. They cross paths with criminal Sho Acktar, who managed to avoid jail, and is planning to steal the virus. Sho manages to escape, but Jane retrieves the device from him. Back at the FBI, the team discovers that Nas has switched the virus to get her job at NSA back. Later, Nas calls Weller to inform him that she discovered that Avery's father had an illegal dealing with Crawford and sends him more information. Meanwhile, Meg reveals to Zapata that she is an undocumented immigrant. Meg later accepts Reade's proposal. In Brazil, Blake plans to crash a high-stakes poker game run by her old friend Christophe, with Roman posing as her bodyguard, to help her father get a new land deal. Blake and Christophe are kidnapped in front of Roman.

The team investigates the seemingly unrelated drug deaths of several Marines. After being caught in an explosion, Patterson is severely injured and lapses into a coma. Within her own subconscious, she relives the events of the day over and over again, doomed to do so until she solves the case. While sifting through the clues, she interacts with visions of various figures from her past, including David, Borden, Stuart, and Director Pellington, who help her deal with the guilt she feels for their deaths. Upon solving the case, she awakens and deduces that the Marines died during an unsanctioned covert operation, and their deaths were being covered up by a Marine general. Patterson confides in Zapata that her vision of Borden was different from the others in some way; it is revealed that Borden is in fact alive.

Ex-Sandstorm member Cade appears at Jane and Weller's apartment, having escaped from a crashed black flight after being imprisoned by the CIA. He warns them that the other prisoners are planning an imminent attack in New York. With his intel, the FBI manages to identify the leader of the attack: a CIA agent, Quinn Bonita, who is seeking revenge on the CIA for her husband's death, and then stop her and the prisoners. Crawford is inclined to pay the ransom for Blake and Christophe, but Christophe's father, Jean-Paul, insists on taking them back by force. Roman goes along with Jean-Paul's team; when he sees Blake and Christophe are unguarded, he kills Jean-Paul's men and rescues Blake and Christophe. Later, Roman tells Crawford he realized that he, Crawford, had ordered the kidnapping himself in order to cement Jean-Paul's gratitude after the rescue. Roman explains he killed Jean-Paul's team in order to keep them from exposing Crawford's involvement, and Crawford commends him for his loyalty. The body of Avery's adoptive father is dumped into a river by unknown men.

The dragonfly tattoo clue forces Zapata to reveal Borden is alive and working for the CIA to infiltrate a group of Serbian terrorists, and that she is his handler. The FBI captures Borden and injures one of the terrorists. Borden claims the terrorists are planning an imminent attack and gives the FBI an indecipherable flash drive. Interrogating the injured terrorist proves fruitless, and Patterson starts to break down due to Borden's return. After a pugil stick fight with Rich, she realizes a nonsense phrase the injured man uttered was the key to deciphering the drive. She learns the terrorists are planning to launch bunker-busting bombs on US cities, and the team stops the attack. Despite Borden's cooperation, Zapata sends him to prison for good. Patterson tells Zapata they cannot be friends due to her deception regarding Borden. Crawford confides his ultimate goal to Roman: creating a massive private army to act as his personal global peacekeeping force. When Roman suddenly collapses, Crawford takes him to the hospital, and the two bond. Rich's deal with the FBI is canceled, but the decision is reversed when the team vouches for him. Zapata confesses to Reade she is in love with him; he reacts by abruptly leaving. Patterson shows the team an invitation to an event Roman sent her, which she believes is key to bringing down Crawford.

The FBI team, along with Avery, goes undercover at a gala where Crawford plans to meet with Jean-Paul to conclude a land deal. There, Jane and Avery meet Roman, who explains his plan to help them record Crawford's deal and arrest him and Jean-Paul. However, a passionate moment with Blake convinces Roman to double-cross the FBI so he can keep his new life with Blake and her father. The FBI storms the gala and kills Jean-Paul, but Crawford escapes with Roman's help. Blake is shocked to discover her father's criminal activity, and Crawford becomes suspicious of Roman. Patterson begins withholding information from Zapata at work, drawing a reprimand from Reade. Reade attempts to reconcile with Zapata as friends, but she refuses, saying she cannot be his best man or attend his wedding. As Jane, Weller, and Avery enjoy a family moment, Roman issues an order to a group of assassins to kill all the members of the FBI team.

After a hard day at work trying to trace Crawford's new location, the team decides to grab some rest. Unfortunately, each of them become targets of Roman's assassins: Jane and Weller are attacked in an exclusive restaurant hacked by Rich after having a date by his suggestion, resulting in Jane getting kidnapped. Reade is attacked in his apartment after an argument with Millicent Van Der Waal, who was investigating him for his connections with Hirst. Millicent is killed by the assassin sent for Reade, but he manages to save himself. Zapata attends a memorial service for her ex-boyfriend Ricky in a church and is attacked, but the assassin is killed with the help of Ricky's sister, a rookie police officer. Finally, Patterson and co-worker Jack are attacked after having a date. They are saved by Zapata after injuring their attacker. The team reunites and with the help of Rich, they get a profile on one of Jane's captors, and manage to locate them and save Jane. After learning that his plan had failed, Roman decides to kill the team himself, but a woman named Kira tells him to focus on Crawford's new plan instead.

A flashback shows that Avery's adoptive father was developing a sonic weapon for Crawford. In the present day, a tattoo clue leads the FBI team to a conspiracy theorist, Daschelle Watkins, who believes the government has created a mind control device. With Watkins's help, they go looking for an engineer, Ganzman. Roman is also concurrently looking for Ganzman, who was involved with the sonic weapon. Both sides track Ganzman to rural New York. There Roman is joined by Blake, who wants to spend some personal time with him, and he must conceal his true mission from her while hunting Ganzman. The FBI and Roman find Ganzman simultaneously, and Roman kills him. Jane pursues Roman, and Roman taunts that she will not shoot him; she does, but her weapon is out of ammo and he escapes. Avery accepts Jane and Weller's invitation to move in with them, and Roman floods the Internet with misinformation regarding the tattoo clues, rendering them useless.

The FBI finds a clue in the body of Avery's adoptive father that leads them to one of Crawford's assassins, but Jane is forced to kill the man before he can be interrogated. Patterson's father (guest star Bill Nye) is brought on by the FBI to help her counter the effects of Roman's misinformation. Avery's godmother, Lynnette, invites Avery and Jane to sign some documents regarding her adoptive father's estate. Once there, Avery deduces that Lynnette also works for Crawford and that she was involved with her adoptive father's death, and Lynnette attempts to kill them both before Avery and Jane barricade themselves inside a panic room. Weller and the rest of the FBI arrive and Jane signals for them to move in, and the FBI arrests Lynnette. Megan breaks up with Reade after learning about Zapata's feelings for him. Roman begins to hallucinate visions of Remi and an alternate version of himself while he devises a plan to thwart the FBI. On Lynnette's laptop, Patterson and Zapata discover secret access codes to numerous Manhattan buildings, and realize that Crawford is planning an imminent attack.

A flashback to 1997 shows Remi and Roman playing mancala while being manipulated by Shepherd. In the present, Blake and Roman meet with the manager of the Hotel Cerulean in order to make plans for a charity ball. Roman immediately asks to see the security systems for the hotel. Meanwhile, the team is trying to determine Crawford's intended target with information gained from Lynnette's capture. A list of Manhattan building security codes were found in Lynette's computer. One of these buildings, a chemical manufacturer, was broken into and a large amount of dinitrogen tetroxide was stolen. with monomethylhydrazine. Since Shepherd is the only person who knows the location of the MMH, she is brought in to FBI headquarters for interrogation. She agrees to reveal the information if she is allowed to speak with Jane. Shepherd tries to convince Jane that she can't kill Roman. The team tracks the second chemical to UN Headquarters and discovers a bomb. Reade and Zapata disarm the bomb while the building is evacuated. With the help of Rich Dotcom, Patterson realizes the intended targets of the attack are the leaders of two African countries discussing peace terms and a proposed pipeline. Crawford wants them dead so the pipeline will have to be built on his newly acquired land. UN protocols dictate that these heads of state are to be taken to a safe house in the Hotel Cerulean. After a fire fight with Roman, Jane and Weller are able to save the day. In the aftermath, Zapata is caught stealing a phone for Keaton and is fired from the CIA. Zapata goes to Reade's apartment, and coitus ensues. Patterson shows Jane and Weller a video released by Roman which ends with him saying, "One last game, Sis. Winner take all."

The FBI team deciphers Roman's video, learning that he is in Cape Town. Zapata leaves the FBI and breaks up with Reade, saying that it is the wrong time for their relationship. Jane, Weller, and Reade travel to Cape Town, to the house where Jane and Roman were born, discovering further clues to the latter's location. Roman kidnaps Crawford and brings him to the orphanage where he and Jane spent their childhoods. Crawford reveals he built the orphanage as part of his program to create soldiers for his personal army. The FBI arrives, and Crawford agrees to stay behind to delay them while Roman escapes. In the ensuing fight, Jane kills Crawford and Weller is shot. Roman meets with Blake, who reveals she was told his true identity by a trusted confidante, and shoots him, saying he destroyed her family. Roman calls an unknown individual and entrusts this person with his money and his mission; then Jane arrives and comforts him as he dies. He bequeaths a necklace to Jane which contains new tattoo clues, and an explanation that he was suffering from the effects of the memory-erasing drug. Jane begins to display the same symptoms and is hospitalized. Blake flies away with her trusted confidante: Zapata. Jane wakes up in the hospital, having reverted to the persona of Remi. Remi learns Jane is married to Weller and he is recovering from major surgery, and smiles, realizing she is perfectly positioned to destroy the FBI from within.

Notes

- The message "Got One Patterson" actually appeared in The New York Times crossword puzzle on April 4, 2016, the same day as the episode's original airdate. The crossword was created by David Kwong who intentionally created the message as a tie-in to the show.^{[34][35][36]}
- In the weeks leading up to its airing, the sixth episode of the second season was originally titled "Her Spy's Mind".^[62]
