River City Habitat for Humanity Board of Directors Commitment Agreement

I understand that if selected to serve on the RCHFH Board, it will require a commitment of time and energies on my part, including:

- to attend regular board meetings (normally 12)
- to review material related to organization functioning, and
- to uphold the “Responsibilities” of a director and other responsibilities as assigned to the best of my ability.

I understand that it is expected that all RCHFH Board members be “actively involved” in fulfilling my responsibilities as a member of the Board and not merely a supporter of RCHFH.

Signed:

Board Candidate

River City Habitat for Humanity Board of Directors Board Member Responsibilities

In order to be a productive and useful member of the Board of Directors of RCHFH, you will be asked to commit to the following:

- 1.) Desire to seek improvement in the lives of our partner families through the united efforts of the organization, volunteers, and board of RCHFH;
- 2.) Make available the time necessary to carry out board, committee and/or officer’s responsibilities (the Board of Directors meets approximately twelve times per year in Jefferson City). The seat of any director who has absented himself or herself from regular Board meetings on three (3) consecutive occasions may be declared vacant by the President.
- 3.) Think in the broader perspective of the needs of our families, volunteers, and the organization.
- 4.) Be a creative contributor;
- 5.) Develop a pro-active position, providing positive influence in decisions which affect the RCHFH and our mission;

Personal Disclosure Form

Complete this personal disclosure form and return with your River City Habitat for Humanity Board of Directors application. Your information will be reviewed and assessed by the Executive Director. If necessary to make a determination of eligibility, the information will be shared with the President of River City Habitat for Humanity. If selected, we will also perform a Sex Offender Background Check and potentially a Criminal Background Check.

The self-disclosure is a written statement by you of any prior incidents in your history that, if known, could cause harm to or reflect poorly on RCHFH or to the reputation of RCHFH. This is not meant to be intimidating or difficult. Examples of things to disclose and not to disclose are listed below. This list is not finite but is meant to give you some guidance.

Don't Include:

- * Minor traffic violations
- * Municipal infractions
- * Library fines

Include:

- Convictions, SIS or SES of crimes committed in other states or countries
- Negative publicity you have received or publicity that a reasonable person would consider negative.
- Any other offenses that may not be discovered through a criminal background check
- IRS or DOR tax evasion charges
- Licensure revocation
- Pending criminal charges

You may use this disclosure page as the disclosure or a document of your choosing.
