

To all clients with ongoing projects:

I am currently making progress inspections as normal to keep your project on track. However, I prefer to make these inspections alone where possible to allow me to more easily keep social distances.

To all new clients:

I am accepting new work and scheduling new initial property inspections as normal. However, I am following social distances protocol so I probably won't be shaking hands. These inspections can be done like this as close interface is not usually required.