

Heavenly Father, We Need You

God is the evolutionary coexistence of all things and the force that binds them. He is indeed the spiritual drive of all things and why His presence is felt by those who are close to Him. He is the source from which the prophets have received words, visions and signs of hidden truths and/or places, either of the present times or those to come. Of this I have heard, of this I have read and of this I have witnessed. It is also from which the power of healing, the capacity of wisdom, the potential of love and the strength of determination have done great things.

You are made up of atoms of the Earth with life breathed into you by the Heavenly Father. That is His gift to you. Your love for Him is knowing that He is the greatest part of your existence, representing a level far above our limited understanding. He draws us to keep reaching towards that plain and rewards our efforts to that which we have been able to obtain, but does not deny us approval for the mere subtle efforts we did make, for He recognizes that we tried. Always strive to be better at what you do or who you are. Don't take your good looks as your gift in the face of others; for this is how vanity is born. Equally, many a hard looking with warm hearts have never looked lovelier.

The ultimate sacrifice is performing to the best we can with what we were born with, whether or not those gifts are yet clear to us. None of us are the same, so do with your share what your share can do. That being said, it is fruitless to compare yourself with others, so do not be envious of them, for what you could achieve in your own lifetime could very well make them envious of your successes. (Check out what some 'armless' people can do or look up the successes of Helen Keller).

Never be content you're at the top of your game. To stay still is to stop growing. Grow yes, but not for the sake of greatness, for it slowly turns you selfish and detached. Do not let those filled of intimidation convince you how much they know, for their integrity is equal to that of ant colonies. Their bold attempts eventually end up at a stop sign. The true wise merely point you in a relative direction. It's up to you to check it out or work on it.

The spirit of understating is truth, and the desire for it is love. Not all receive visions, see into the future or have the gift of healing. But then again, the right words at the right time, a helping hand, skillful know how or the ability to see truth through the clutter should not be overlooked. Whether you bring food or care to those in need, teach someone self-reliance, march a city away from an explosive volcano or reveal a hidden reality, you are still a savior in their eyes. Awareness to the true energy around you is the most powerful thing. You might not have known it, but the God presence may have been there all along.

Stay focused and always believe that the Heavenly Father will be there in those times when you need Him and pray He reveals His truths to you. Be humble and loyal to His greatness and gradually He will allow you into His kingdom.
