

Many Claim the Bible Has Issues, by Daniel E Bourque © 2019

'Biblical Spotlight @ | Twitter' is trying to demonstrate that very point. The bible has been written by many authors and not listed in the exact timeline they were written. Unless we notice that the OT is in 'Four' parts, not just one continuous history line and secondly, 'Not' listed in the dating sequence they were written, will we discover, you can't read the Bible from cover to cover. It has to be displayed something like the Bible Reading layouts offered by the site noted above on page, Bible Study Plus. You may not find a revealing user-friendly approach offered like this anywhere else.

The research that went into this site goes out further than many sites who claim the same. Most prefer to stay on their individual agendas. This effort went way outside the safe zone and back in again. You'll find displays and explanations on items many won't go near, for fear of losing their favorite platform.

True, the Bible cannot be taken word-for-word in many places, but its dynamics still apply, if we can learn how to read between the lines and how it very easily relates to human nature as well as the natural Laws of Life, the Laws of Wisdom and how Faith in the Heavenly Father can indeed be a real strength. It serves little purpose to keep it reserved to one frame of thinking and restrained in a single bubble.

The Word of God means 'Everything', not only what we've been Taught. Jesus came to fix the corrupt conditions that were being enforced upon many of the innocent, during that time in Israel's history. Even he could not reveal how bad the situation was to all the folks and went as far as allowing himself to be taken, that maybe they could see the immoral status of their leaders for themselves.
