What's That light?

Recently a strange bright light has been seen in the sky in the north eastern corner of Brunai. Locals are baffled as to what the light is, but it seems to be getting brighter and more colorful as time passes.

People who have been unlucky enough to pass under these lights while traveling at night have become increasingly ill.

Some poor souls have reported family members dying from an unknown disease while trying to locate the origin of this light, while others have simply not returned from their venture to find it. It's claimed that the area may be home to a nest of monsters. Though most agree that said monsters aren't capable of a phenomenon such as what is being seen.

What ever this light may be, for the time being the local authorities are urging people to avoid that area until someone gets to the bottom of this.

THE KINGDOM CHRONICLES

Dear Alura:

I recently found a large green egg by a cave in the forest near my farm. I brought it home with the intention of cooking it the next morning, but much to my surprise, it hatched! What came out was the cutest little green lizard I ever did see, so I decided to keep it. So I fed it, kept it warm, and made it a little bed. The very next day I wake up and my tiny cute little lizard is about 4 feet tall, has eaten everything in my kitchen, but has also seemed to accumulate a large amount of cooking pots and silverware, along with a handful of coins and other shiny things. She (I'm assuming it's a she because it lays eggs) also keeps laying eggs everywhere. I find them in the strangest places. I really don't know what to do, I've had her for about a week and have grown very attached, and they seem quite friendly to me. I don't want to just toss them out into the cold, but my house is getting a bit over run by these little guys...

I really don't know what to do...

Sincerely

Scaly and Concerned

Dear Scaly and Concerned,

Oh Dear... I'm very sorry to tell you this sweetie but those are Kobolds....

People generally classify them as monsters or vermin. Most would call in a exterminator of some kind, though I'm sure you don't want to hear that.

I'm very concerned that it's laying eggs so rapidly, and all by it's self...

I highly recommend contacting the appropriate authorities immediately.

Other than that, my advice is to keep them fed as well as possible and warn your neighbors to keep their children and small pets inside.

MADAM GANTA'S RECIPE CORNER:

Today I will be telling you how to make: Eggplant caviar

Ingredients

4 eggplants (unpeeled)
5 cloves of garlic
5 tablespoons of olive oil
3 tablespoons of vinegar
1/2 teaspoons cumin
a pinch of salt

Recipe

Remove the stem portion of the eggplants, but don't peel them. Cut the eggplants in large slices. Steam for 15 min with cloves of garlic whole and unpeeled.

After cooking, crush the garlic to extract the juice. Place the cooked eggplants and the flesh of garlic cloves into a flat dish. Add oil, vinegar, salt, and cumin. Mix together.

Keep in a cool place. When ready, serve on grilled bread as an apéritif or on plates as an appetizer.

The Brunai Trade Syndicate is in mourning for the loss of the beloved Lord Sala.

He was found murdered in his winter home while trying to heal from a vicious pirate attack. The evidence shows that Lord Sala fought bravely even though he was already grievously wounded. His team of master healers were also killed in this horrific assault.

All of Orlon weeps in anguish over the death of this great man, who gave his precious time, love, and money to help the downtrodden people of the world. He consistently gave large donations to orphanages, and homeless shelters all over Orlon, and could frequently be found handing out food and medicine to destitute families.

Beyond his charitable acts, he also hired on a very racially diverse staff at his many homes, most of whom were not able to find well paying work elsewhere due to racial discrimination. When interviewed they were all extremely upset about his death and declared him to be the best boss they ever had. Thankfully in his will he left each, and every one of them, three years salary, to make sure they are still being taken care of even after his passing.

He is survived by his six Wives and twenty seven children, many of whom were so grief stricken that they were unavailable for an interview. He was described as a loving and doting father and husband, always making time for his family and putting their needs above his own. Somehow sensing his own demise he had handwritten letters to each of his wives and children, telling them how much he loved them, and how sorry he is that he will no longer be there for them. They were found in a hidden box at the brutal crime scene, with instructions about their delivery. So far the Brunai Trade Syndicate has remained tight lipped as to who they think might have committed this travesty.

We at the Kingdom Chronicles will be wearing black for the next 30 days to symbolize our heartfelt grief over this tragic loss.

Lord Sala was truly a king among men and there is no telling how many people will suffer from his passing. Hopefully some equally generous soul will step in to fill his massive shoes. Metaphorically speaking of course.

THE KINGDOM CHRONICLES

Tragedy Strikes Hopes Folly!

After a rather large explosion and numerous monster attacks, Hopes Folly was in the process of being rebuilt when tragedy struck!

A massive fire broke out, seemingly from no where, leveling several building and killing many of the workers. Others on site have simply vanished into the woods, never to be seen again.

We sent one of our best investigators to the scene to find out more.

He reports that the remaining workers are spooked and that they say it feels as if a dark cloud hangs over the town.

He spoke to a one armed Pixie, wearing oddly colorless clothing, who seemed to be in charge, the Pixie assured us that everything was fine and that he and his associates looked into the matter and assured us that it was just a freak accident.

Our investigator found nothing to the contrary, though he did say that it felt like the remaining townsfolk were hiding something. Something that also struck him as odd, was the fact that the town seemed to be completely devoid of the heroes that once called Hopes Folly home.

One can only wonder where they are in these strange times...

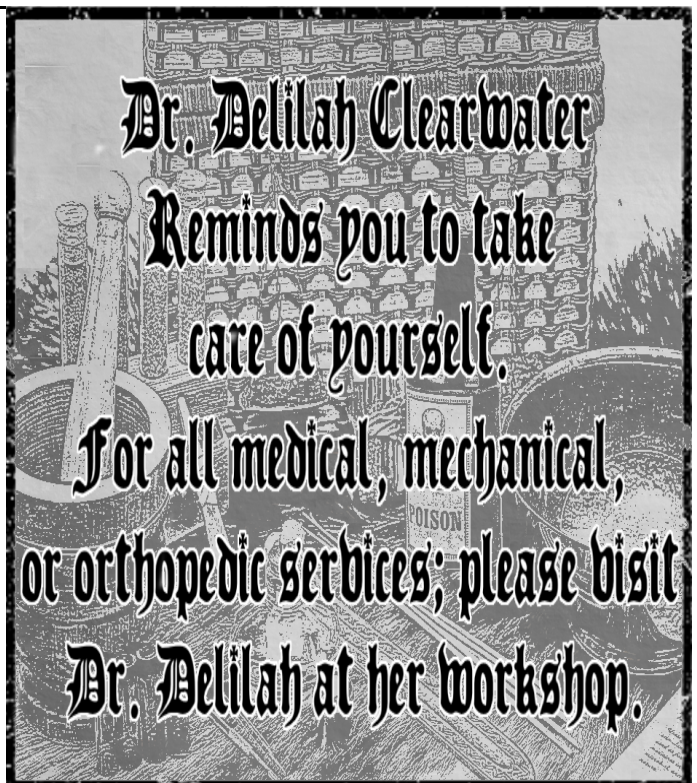

Kobold Population On The Rise...

For a reason unbeknownst to the writers at The Kingdom Chronicles the local population of kobolds has been drastically increasing as of late.

This generally wouldn't be much of a problem, except that they have recently snuck into our news rooms and stolen several metal pieces from one of the printing presses...

This has caused many late nights of using our old manual printing press. Thus why we haven't had many newspaper deliveries lately.

We apologize for any inconvenience.
