WHAT WE DO:

Project Archimedes LLC, has been formed and designed under two separate but joined divisions to provide solutions and applications to our business interest. Outside the overall administrative and legal functions, these two divisions provide the exacting services and products presented here:

FRONTLINE DIVISION:

This Division serves our business interest in the humanitarian sciences, and develops the products, provides distribution and application of disaster relief services globally. Key development highlights critical to Frontline missions are:

- Manufacturing Center of five primary product lines for worldwide application and distribution
- Operational (QRT) Quick Response Teams trained to handle disaster response requirements
- Platform Delivery System by all transport means in singular size and application units
- Specialized reaction platforms of mobile relief ship, rapid response air assets, and storage facilities

HARVESTER DIVISION:

This Division serves our business interest in the environmental sciences, and develops the equipment and facilities to provide numerous ocean vessel applications thru a single hull vessel with modular change abilities. Key development priorities are:

- Single ocean vessel design/modification to accommodate modular mission quick change
- Modular development of ocean trash recovery for recycling and building product materials
- Modular development of ocean kelp and seaweed harvesting for pharmaceutical applications
- Modular Development of ocean oil containment and cleanup for debris/chemical applications
- Modular development of high demand ocean scientific research platform

WHO ARE OUR CLIENTS:

As might be expected our products and services are unique, even to the industries we serve. Our client base is derived from current users within our industry as well as governmental agencies throughout the world, supported by financial institutions established thru the IMF, UN, WB, EU, and Asian alliances which number in the hundreds.

Funding to purchase our products and services requires specialized coordination within these many platforms and groups to maintain Company growth, but for all essential understanding we have access to over a trillion dollars to assist those in need of our abilities to maintain a healthy future even in a depressed economy.

WORKING WITH US:

As with any company on a rapid growth profile, Project Archimedes must obtain products and services of other small businesses. Our policy for vendors, consultants, contractors, service providers and suppliers mandates that every posted need by our organization obtains at minimum of three (3) blind bids for award. Current needs or offered service providers may contact our offices to register for our current or future bid list. The Company maintains over 200 active vendors to service our needs.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES:

Project Archimedes is an active EEOC employer, and solicits handicap, veterans, graduates, elder citizens and individuals wanting career employment. Currently there are over 300 professional disciplines needed, and hundreds of semi-skilled opportunities for job seekers and career minded individuals seeking a new direction. Active opportunities may be found at <http://investmentinourworld.wordpress.com>

OUR FUTURE:

The Company will be making several transformations over the next few years, and will essentially move from the private sector to the public offering (IPO). As expansion allows or dictates, management has made provisions for early investment, long term investment, and public offering to insure the funding needs. Current investment opportunities may be found on our Investor only web pages at <http://ehinvestor2014.wordpress.com>

The addition of new product lines and services will be dictated by the economy, and can easily expand into several critical humanitarian and environmental needs we currently do not address. We shall endeavor to work with charity (501C-3) organizations as well as developing country needs to meet these new requirements, when and where requested.
