

WIND METERS

Wind meters are another great tool; however, I believe they are a better way to identify the environmental. Wind is going to affect your shot. The wind meter will give you the opportunity to correct for it. Wind can be different at different distances to the target, so relying on the wind at the place you are shooting from is not always the best choice.

