

BREATHING

Breathing is a part of shooting, even though many people do not think of it. People have been taught many ways of breathing over the years, and most of them were wrong. The US military used to teach a half out and hold breath technique, however they have since revised that. The best option is to take a deep breath in and try to coincide the break of your trigger as you are at the bottom of your breath.

