

The following picture I took many years ago from an Israel News paper. Most people know of the Alaskan HAARP American systems after they were declassified after 50 years of use, which is about 70 years total now.

The Russian Systems are never exposed by the fake news media in America.

Nasa was created to avoid the return of Jesus, as a result, they have altered the rotation of the earth as much as they can, extended the atmosphere 50+ more miles into space, etc., etc., etc. and have created global warming at a gigantic daily expense world wide...the most expensive military / depopulation program on the planet, what you can call world war 3 or in reality world war 2 never ended.

All humans were born on the battleground. All humans breath aluminum and titanium dioxides by design, with much much more unknown added chemicals.

We know a retired Harvard teacher that spent her adult life in the chem trail programs and her stories are too much for civilians to accept: people have a hard time understanding they are treated like unwanted insects.

An air force officer told me he sprayed the entire country of India from 1960-63 because the people are too old. He said at west point they teach you that all humans need to die by age 40. Going to the hospitals for medical help provided by gov medicare, etc. is a joke. Democrats and politicians that want to take all your $$, so you can all have gov welfare health insurance, is a scam. Global warming is a 100% scam. They spend billions of $$ every year to raise the temp of the planet; if the chem trail jets shut down, the earth would freeze.

Russian Weather Modification Worries West

By Mike Blair

The Russian military has made significant technological advancements in its ability to modify the world's weather, mostly for use as a weapon. This fact has become one of the most closely guarded secrets in the international intelligence community.

The Iron Curtain of communism has collapsed in Russia, but in the dark corridors of the Kremlin plans for influencing Earth's weather patterns persist.

For more than a decade, researchers have observed the massive radio antenna field in Alaska, part of the American military and scientific communities' HAARP project, which some believe is meant to modify weather by blasting a hole in the ozone layer that surrounds Earth.

However, the HAARP project and American work in the field of weather control is rudimentary when compared to the Russians, experts have told American Free Press.

AFP readers are familiar with the so-called "Russian woodpecker," a powerful radio beam that started emanating from south-central Soviet Union in the 1960s and soon became a familiar sound to short wave radio listeners around the world, many complaining it interrupted regular short wave communications.

Experts said the "Russian woodpecker" has played a key role in Russian weather modification studies for decades. It is, however, only the tip of the weather iceberg.

Russia offered to clear the air of several Asian nations, including Malaysia and Indonesia, in the 1990s by weather manipulation. The clearing of land by burning down thousands of square miles of forests created a cloud of smoke over the region that endangered the health of the people.

The Iron Curtain of communism has collapsed, but in the dark corridors of the Kremlin plans for influencing Earth's weather patterns persist.

For a price, the Russians told the countries of the area, they would create a massive typhoon that would blow the cloud layer away. They were turned down and the Russians went about their weather modification business undaunted.

The Russians are now deeply involved in what is known as scalar wave energy, which can alter weather anywhere on Earth from bases in Russia.

A retired air force officer, attached to the National Security Agency, told American Free Press that the Russians are capable of causing earthquakes, hurricanes or just changes in the rainfall over an American city, much of this through scalar wave energy.

In April 1997 Secretary of Defense William Cohen addressed the subject at a conference on terrorism: "Others are engaging in an eco-type of terrorism, whereby they can alter the climate, set off earthquakes, volcanoes remotely through the use of electro-magnetic waves. So there are plenty of ingenious minds out there that are at work building ways in which they can wreak terror upon other nations."

"It's real," the former defense chief said, "and that's the reason why we have to intensify our efforts. And that is why this is so important." ★

Beginning in the early 1960s, a series of large satellite radio antennae in south-central Soviet Union, known as "Russian woodpeckers," projected powerful radio beams that interrupted short wave radio listeners around the world and were believed to be able to modify the weather. Today, some weapons experts contend that the Russians have made significant technological advances in their weather modification systems that could significantly alter the Earth's climate patterns and could be used for military purposes.

China Could Cripple U.S. Infrastructure