RCS teachers without contract since June

Parents turn out to voice support at board of ed meeting

By Melanie Lekocevic Capital Region Independent Media

RAVENA-COEY-MANS-SELKIRK — Parents turned out in force to voice support for a salary raise for RCS teachers, who have been without a contract since June.

The board of education's Nov. 17 meeting drew parents looking to speak out in favor of giving teachers a pay hike.

"These teachers are here to invest in the future of our children, and it is now your turn to help us invest in the future of our teachers," parent Jessica O'Connor told the board during the public comment segment of the meeting. "My only hope is that you could see the teachers through my eyes, not through the eyes of an employer or an accountant, but through the eyes of a parent. Maybe then you will see that these teachers are irreplaceable and should be valued."

Biology teacher Matthew Miller, president of the RCS Teacher's Association, said teachers have been working without a contract since the previous one ended five months ago.

"Our contract expired in June of this year, so we are without a contract right now, but we are trying to work towards a new one," Miller said after the meeting. "We have been in negotiations since January. For most of the summer, we were at an impasse.'

Contract negotiations began in January and stalled over the summer, Miller said. After months without negotiations, the district, board of education and the teacher's union reopened talks last Tuesday. A second round of contract negotiations is expected in early December.

"We have another meeting coming up Dec. 7," Board of Education President Edward Reville said Wednesday. "I think last night's meeting went well."

Numerous parents went to the podium at Wednesday's board of education meeting to ask the district to give teachers a pay hike, the major sticking point in negotiations.

Parent Melanie Potter is an RCS alumna and has had children in the district for 13 years. She spoke of a high school math teacher who has had a major impact on her kids and their education.

"This teacher has had both of my two older children over a span of three years before, during and coming through COVID," Potter said. "Not only is she an amazing teacher who thinks very differently about grading and presenting her lessons, but she also cares about her kids deeply and wants to make sure she doesn't just get through a lesson, but that each child understands to their own fullest capacity."

The teacher's impact on children goes beyond the classroom, Potter said.

"We desperately want and need to keep quality teachers like this in our district," she added.

Community cheers on their Indians

By Melanie Lekocevic Capital Region Independent Media

RAVENA-COEY-MANS-SELKIRK With the RCS Indians headed to Middletown on Saturday to face off against the Pleasantville Panthers in the state semifinals, the community is showing its support for its hometown team.

"I read this quote somewhere and nothing sums up how we feel better than these words: 'I never knew being a cheerleader on the sidelines to your games and your journey would be one of my most cherished roles in this life!" said George and Jennifer Kennedy, parents of player Brendin Winfield.

The Indians have been on a tear in the postseason, defeating opponent after opponent. The latest was the Peru Nighthawks, where the RCS team came out on top by a score of 39-21, scoring multiple times in the waning minutes of the game to pull far ahead on the scoreboard.

Running back Franky Broadhurst scored the Indians' first two touchdowns in the game against Peru on Friday and was named Offensive Player of the Game.

Linebacker Erik Chapman was named Defensive Player of the Game. Chapman's mother said her son first stepped onto a football field for Pop Warner play, and it has been quite a journey.

"I've been watching some of these boys play football since age 5 when they first strapped on their flags in Pop Warner," Erika Chapman said. "It's been so much fun to see them develop into not only the talented football players they are today, but into the amazing young men they are, both on and off the field. As a parent, you obviously get so excited to see your son make a huge play during the game to help their team win, but it's even more gratifying when you see them helping a player from the opposing team up after a big hit, or comforting a teammate that got injured or made a mistake on the field — that's what really makes your heart swell with pride. This year's team is full of kids like that, and it makes me so happy that their reward is having a playoff run that hopefully ends in The Dome!" The Indians would have to win Saturday against Pleasantville to make it to the state finals, which will be held at The Dome in Syracuse. RCS has a season record of 10-2, and Pleasantville is undefeated. The Indians have been solid on both offense and defense in postseason play.

Pleasantville won Saturday against Port Jervis by a single point, by a score of 23-22. The victory came following a game-winning 22-yard field goal with just over two seconds left in the game, setting the stage for this coming Saturday's game against RCS.

For many in the community, teamwork has made the Indians' postseason victories possible.

RAVENA — More than 100 turkeys were handed out to families in need during a holiday food giveaway organized by Capital Region Independent Media.

The company, which publishes the Ravena pulled News-Herald, together sponsors and local not-for-profit groups that serve those in need for the "Feed Your Mind, Feed a Family" program to make the Thanksgiving holiday a bit brighter.

The program is the brainchild of Warren Dews Jr., publisher of Capital Region Indepen-

"Every time somebody bought a subscription for the newspaper, we bought food for a family in need," Dews Jr. explained during the food giveaway at Shop 'n Save, 2481 Route 9W. "We partnered with these organizations that are here today — we couldn't have done it without our sponsors."

The program is one Dews Jr. has brought to other communities, and this was the first year it was done in Ravena.

said teachers were particularly helpful during the transition back into the classroom after the COVID shutdowns of the 2020-21 school year.

"If it weren't for the teachers and staff at the school. I'm not sure we would have survived the transition," Kalney said. "They were in it with us until it got better. They provided support and reassurance, not just to my kid, but to me, too."

As negotiations reopen, the salary for teachers is among the biggest issues, Miller said. A decision made several years ago during the Great Recession of 2008 still impacts teachers today, he said.

"The biggest thing is salary. From 2008 on, we did not put any money on our step schedule, which stayed the same for 10 years because that was during difficult economic times," Miller said. "We thought that would help the community out and we were able to not have any layoffs, like a lot of other schools did. That compounds, so we got to a point where we drifted away from other districts, so what we are looking to do is make ourselves competitive again."

As teachers gain years of experience, they advance along a "step" system. Teachers at RCS earn significantly less than teachers at neighboring districts that are on the same "step," Miller said. An RCS teacher earns about $15,000 less than a teacher with similar experience in the Coxsackie-Athens school district, Miller said.

For some teachers, that salary difference has led them to leave the district, parents said. Joy Iafallo said her children cried when they learned their physical education teacher resigned.

"When she said that she was leaving it was for $15,000, and if that amount wasn't bad enough, she called it 'life-changing money,' which made me want to drive to her house and give her $15,000," Iafallo said.

Jennifer Milano is an involved parent in the district and said teachers make sacrifices for their craft and should be paid accordingly.

"I know firsthand how much time, effort and energy goes into the education of young minds," she said. "I know how much of themselves teachers pour into their students, how much of their personal time is dedicated to their students, how much of their own money goes into their classroom to make it a home away from home where their students feel welcomed and loved."

She urged the district to make teacher's salaries in the district competitive.

"We need to show our teachers their value with raises that allow them to see the direct relationship between our respect for their profession and the monetary compensation they receive for providing an excellent education for our children," she said. "Give our teachers the raises they so desperately deserve."

Parent Chelsea Hildebrandt agreed.

"My heart hurts knowing that our teachers are so undervalued in this district by the administration," Hildebrandt said. "We have amazing teachers in this district and if we do not show appreciation and pay them what they deserve, we will see more putting in resignation letters and going to other districts."

Reville said members of the board of education are district parents themselves and appreciate the work teachers do. Contract negotiations continue, he said.

"We are working and hopefully in time we will come to an agreement," Reville said. "None of us argue with any of you we agree we do have great teachers."

the true meaning of team on and off the field," Denise Lyle, mom of player J.T. Lyle, said. "A strong sense of community has helped form a bond that translates to seamless plays and morale."

Deb Misetich said her son, Luke Misetich, started out in another sport but found he loved football.

"I've been watching Luke play baseball since the first grade and never imagined him falling in love with another sport," she said. "What I've learned is that it isn't necessarily about the sport but about the people he's playing with. He's so happy and energetic when he's on that field. He loves and respects his teammates and his coaches. It's scary and invigorating watching him. I couldn't be more proud."

For player Landen Cardone, determination is key, his parents Michael and Julie Cardone said.

"There's no fear or hesitation in his game," they said. "No matter the size or talent, Landen is making the tackle."

Melanie Potter, from the RCS Sports Association, said her son Kaden Potter moved up to varsity this season and made the transition with the help of his teammates.

We are proud not only of their talent on the field, but of the way they work together and support each other on and off the field." Melanie Potter said. "My son is a sophomore who was moved up to varsity from JV a few times during the regular season and starting on defense for the championship games. The varsity players treat him and the other sophomores who were moved up just like they were part of the team the whole season! It's a great group of players and no kids deserve these wins more.'

The Indians will head to Middletown on Saturday, Nov. 27, for a 3 p.m. semifinals game against the Pleasantville Panthers.

Village waiting on DEC results for 'gritty' coating By Melanie Lekocevic contact" about the uniden-Lafarge.

Capital Region Independent Media

RAVENA — Village officials at press time were awaiting results from the state about the source of a "gritty substance" that has been found around the community.

"People have found a gritty dusting," Deputy Mayor Nancy Warner said Thursday. "People have said it sticks right to the paint on their cars and trucks and it can't be washed off easily, if at all. People said they have turned on their windshield washers and it just smears."

The material, which has been found on cars, homes and other sites, has been found around the community several times in the past few weeks.

"It happened in August and then Halloween weekend, and then a couple of times since then," Warner said.

The Department of Environmental Conservation sent representatives to the village to test the material and results are still pending, Warner said.

Mayor Bill Misuraca said in a statement the village has been in "constant tified substance.

"It has coated cars, houses, anything outdoors," Misuraca said. "It's incredibly resistant to conventional cleaning, as we've found out. I am not going to speculate, nor point fingers, until I have the full story."

While the source of the substance has not been determined at this time, the Lafarge cement plant has released a statement regarding the material. "We are aware of the complaints regarding fugitive dusk on private property in the Ravena area, and we have been in ongoing discussions with the state Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) about this matter," according to Lafarge. "As a long-standing and engaged member of the local community and the largest employer in Southern Albany County, we are deeply committed to being a good neighbor and protecting the environment while providing good-paying jobs."

In response to numerous complaints, the company has launched a new initiative to address local concerns, according to

"We take all concerns and complaints about the plant very seriously, and we aim to operate in a manner that causes zero harm to employees, workers, contractors, customers and visitors," according to Lafarge. "We have been in communication with impacted residents and recently launched a new initiative to better engage with members of the public so we can build on the already strong foundation established over our close to six decades of operation." Anyone with a complaint about the plant, including "occurrences of materials on vehicles or other property," according to the statement, should email Lafarge at Ravena@lafargeholcim.com to assist the company in collecting data and determining what the material is and its source.

The village and town shared a link on social media to a complaint form on Lafarge's website where residents can contact the company with their concerns. The link can be found at https:// www.lafargeravenaconnect.com/contact-us.

Hochul: Vaccinate for a chance at free college education

By Melanie Lekocevic Capital Region Independent

Media ALBANY — Students ages 5 to 11 who get the COVID-19 vaccine have the chance to win a free college education.

Children who receive their first dose of the vaccine by Dec. 19 will be entered into a random drawing to win a full scholarship to a State University of New York or City University of New York institution.

Gov. Kathy Hochul on Nov. 9 announced "Vaccinate, Educate, Graduate" vaccine incentive to encourage families to vaccinate their children against the virus.

Scholarships apply to both two- and four-year colleges, and cover tuition, room and board.

There will be 10 winners statewide each week, with the final 10 winners announced Dec. 22.

"Finally, the COVID-19 vaccine is here for young New Yorkers age 5 through 11," Hochul said. "Our critical work to make the vaccine accessible and available to all eligible children and their families is underway and we will creatively support and celebrate those who get vaccinated. The 'Vaccinate, Educate, Graduate' program is an extraordinary opportunity for children to win free tuition to a SUNY or CUNY college or university, and I urge parents and guardians to help their children get vaccinated and enter into this once-in-a-lifetime program."

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommended Nov. 2 that children ages 5-11 be vaccinated against the virus with the Pfizer-BioNTech pediatric vaccine. The CDC's recommendation made about 28 million children eligible for the vaccine, according to the agency.

"Together, with science leading the charge, we have taken another important step forward in our nation's fight against the virus that causes COVID-19," CDC Director Rochelle Walensky, M.D., M.P.H., said in a statement Nov. 2.

Winners of the SUNY or CUNY scholarships will receive full in-state tuition and non-tuition costs including room and board, books, supplies and transportation. If on-campus housing is not available at the school the student attends, they will receive the same allowance as students living on campus.

Lafarge Plant Manager David MacLauchlin said the company was happy to sponsor the program.

"We are here helping out with donating and handing out turkeys for the community," MacLauchlin said. "Lafarge likes to help with the community when we can."

Several not-for-profit groups were on hand to pick up turkey meals, which they later distributed to families in need. Melanie Collins, a volunteer at the food pantry at Trinity United Methodist Church in Coeymans Hollow, picked up meals to help those in need.

forward to my daily trips to the supermarket. Being retired means you have to take your entertainment where you find

With no agenda or schedule, I have time to wander, explore and learn. I am amazed at the number of countries represented by products in the market. There are chemical plants all over the globe doing nothing but making additives and dyes to stuff into the cans, bags and bottles they send us. It's amazing!

I spent some time exploring in the water aisle. I'm always agog when I scan down the row upon row of different bottles of water. Who knew there were so many different kinds?

They, too, come from all parts of this big mud ball we inhabit. I've taste tested several and I'll be darned if I can see any difference between the $2.50 a bottle kind that comes from France from the $0.89 kind from Scotia. In fact, the water that comes from the well in our backyard tastes better than any of the bottled ones I've tasted. Maybe I should drag out the hose and start filling bottles and export them to foreign countries.

Twenty years ago, if you had told me that someday I'd be buying water in little bottles at a buck a pop, I'd have had a memorable belly laugh. If you had continued and said that there would come a time when a bottle of water would cost more than a bottle of soda or even a bottle of beer, I probably would have recommended a rest time in a rubber room for you.

Last year the bottled water industry raked in billions. Wish I had thought of doing it!

WHITTLING AWAY

BROOKS

Never having been one to let my small portion of gray matter sit fallow, I pushed my cart up and down the aisles of the market, the front wheel fluttering back and forth, and tried to get ahead of the curve.

What would be the next big fad? They buy water — how about air? I could bottle air! The air in a lot of places, especially places with a lot of people in them, doesn't smell so good. City folks would probably pay good money for a few good sniffs of our country air. I could sell air from the mountains, fresh-plowed ground air, just-cut grass air, brewery air, locker-room air, barn air, bakery air — the possibilities are endless.

All I need now in an attractive bottle, a catchy label and a way to distribute the stuff. I could label it "organic," especially the barn air people will buy anything organic. It's also no fat, no carbs, non-gluten, no sugar — who wouldn't want to buy it? I'll be the Donald Trump of air!

I pushed my cart up to the checkout, paid for the few items I had in it and almost blinded by my own brilliance, tried to find my car in the parking lot.

Next trip, I'll work on world peace.

Thought for the week — If you try to fail and succeed, which have you done?

Until next week, may you and yours be happy and well.

This is most likely my GARDENING TIPS last column written from New York in 2021, as I prepare to head to Florida for the winter.

I just found my clipboard with my garden notes from this past season and I am glad I took the time to write things down! I used to assume that I will recall the details of what I did just a few months ago, but the truth is, the older I get, the less I remember. Hopefully, I will learn from my mistakes and not repeat them next

Writing things down is a great habit to get into for all gardeners! The 2021 gardening season began on schedule, around May 10, with my first asparagus harvest. The two all-male varieties I grow, Jersey Giant and Jersey Knight, continue to yield very well, even after 18 years. My 5 foot by 8 foot raised bed yields more than I can possibly eat, but I have learned that no one refuses a gift of fresh asparagus!

As a kid, I would not eat asparagus at all, because the only option was canned. Canned asparagus, like canned peas, are a poor substitute for fresh. Even frozen asparagus is not a close substitute.

After 40-plus years of seriously trying to grow what is now one of my favorite vegetables, I have learned a few things.

I choose the all-male varieties because they do not produce seed, which allows the plant to direct its energy into the roots for storage and not into reproduction. Female plants produce red berries that sometimes produce seedlings. While producing new plants may seem like an advantage in terms of increasing the number of plants present in the bed, it is not necessary if the existing plants are healthy.

A healthy asparagus "crown" is capable of sending up a dozen or more harvestable shoots each spring and does not require the care and nurturing that seedlings do. Managing an even aged bed is a lot easier than dealing with plants of different ages and matur-

Asparagus does not compete well with weeds, in general. It is worth the effort to remove all perennial weeds as they appear, while maintaining a heavy mulch to smother most weed seedlings. After a bed is well established, table salt can be used to help prevent weed growth, since asparagus is quite tolerant of salt while most annual weeds are not. I also believe that the salt provides a bit of disease resistance for the crowns.

Just yesterday, I cut off the asparagus fern as it is starting to turn yellow after the hard frost last weekend. I will add as much as a 6-inch layer of mulch on top of the bed for the winter. My preferred mulch is sugar maple leaves if I can get them! I have also used clean straw or woodchips some years. Asparagus can easily push up through six inches or more of soft mulch.

On May 21 I planted red cabbage, potatoes. onions and four Big Beef tomato transplants. I already had a fair crop of "volunteer" potatoes growing in two different raised beds from 2019 and 2020 plantings. No matter how conscientiously I try to dig all the potatoes each fall, I always seem to miss

As it turned out, my potato crop was a disaster this year. The plants grew fine, but sometime in late summer I noticed lots of tunnels in most of my raised beds and I spotted a few voles scurrying in and out of them. I blame chipmunks and moles for creating the tunnels that the voles took over. I probably should have harvested the potatoes sooner than early November because almost all of the tubers had been eaten or, at least partially eaten by the voles.

I think I may back off on growing potatoes next season unless I am sure I have the voles under control. I don't want to risk my beet or carrot crops! Once critters like voles become established in a garden, they are very hard to get rid of.

The red cabbage grew fine, just needing a few insecticide sprays for cabbage worms, and I harvested the last head this past week. Setting out tomato transplants anytime in May is generally not a good idea in my cold location, but I had a well prepared, raised bed covered with black plastic mulch and my purchased transplants were getting seriously overgrown. I reserved four transplants for a different bed.

As I expected, the early transplants languished in the cold soil and I harvested the first ripe fruit from them the same day as from the four I set out on June 5. As usual, Big Beef was outstanding in terms of overall yield, fruit quality, d resistance and taste!

Giant killers

Everybody loves a good story about an underdog who overcomes impossible odds.

Many movies are made with the central character as the underdog. This is the accepted structure of most screenplays in Hollywood today. The protagonist must be up against impossible odds, facing a literal or a figurative giant.

Real-life underdogs include George Washington, Susan B. Anthony, Harriet Tubman, King David, Rosa Parks, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King and Gandhi, to name a few.

Only a tiny percentage of us want to slay giants. If you are called to battle giants in a given industry or profession, learning lessons from those who have done the same will be necessary.

Ivan Arreguin-Toft is a political scientist who Positively Speaking calculated the odds of weaker countries winning wars against stronger countries. He found that when weaker countries fight by the same rules as the stronger countries, they only win 28% of the time. When they fight using unconventional methods, they win 64% of the time.

Vivek Ranadive never played or coached basketball before. In his first year as coach of his 12-year-old girl's basketball team, he brought his inexperienced team to the national championships and almost won. How was this possible? He refused to play the traditional game of basketball. Instead, he taught his girls to play using unconventional methods.

George Washington sometimes fought the British using conventional warfare, but often used guerilla tactics to win. If he had fought only using European-style tactics, he wouldn't have won.

Never play by the giant's rules.

My favorite underdog is King David of ancient Israel. He was unappreciated by his family and considered unworthy of greatness. Until he decided to become a giant killer, he spent most of his time alone in the pastures tending his father's sheep.

During this time, the Israelites were at a standstill against the Philistine army and were powerless to stop a giant named Goliath, nine-and-a-half feet tall.

Every day, Goliath emerged from his tent dressed in armor, carrying a spear, a sword and a weapon slung on his back. Daily he terrified the Israelites and challenged their best soldiers to face him in battle. Nobody was up to the challenge.

One day David was called out from the fields and sent to bring food to his brothers. When he arrived, he learned of Goliath's challenge and accepted. He was mocked and made fun of, but David paid them no mind. He prepared himself for the fight of his life.

The Israelites tried to outfit David with traditional battle weapons like heavy armor, a sword and a spear. They wanted to get him to fight the way Goliath wished to fight. David found the weapons awkward; it was then he decided he wasn't going to play by Goliath's rules. David opted to use a sling and a stone.

Slings in David's time weren't like the slingshots we used as kids. Ancient slingers could defeat infantry armed with swords and armor most of the time. A good slinger could penetrate the skull of his enemy.

When the contest began, David didn't hesitate. He sprinted to the fight, quickly finding a few smooth stones. Swinging his sling, he released the rock and sunk it straight into Goliath's forehead. David walked over to Goliath and chopped off his head using Goliath's sword.

This was a great victory that cemented David's position as a giant killer, and he went on to become the greatest king in Israel's history.

How did David win? He refused to play by the giant's rules. Indeed if David had approached Goliath dressed in full armor and armed with a sword, David would have lost his life.

Giant killers in modern times won't be using slings, swords and spears. Our weapon will be the knowledge of the giant's weakness and a refusal to play the game the way the giant wants to play it.

If you choose to be a giant slayer, then remove all doubt and replace it with faith. People will laugh at you but do not pay attention. Sprint into battle, knowing your victory is secure.

TCI NY committed to community every day

Investing in Coeymans, creating new jobs, and helping those with need

By Mark Westcott November 18, 2021, Coeymans, NY

During the height of the Covid pandemic last summer, TCI NY was deemed an essential industry for New York state and was allowed to stay open. Their customers are the power companies and utilities that keep our lights on. This little-known company located right here in our back yard is making a big impact.

"We were fortunate to remain open, but it was a challenging time for everyone not knowing the outcome of the pandemic and working to keep people safe," says Brian Hemlock, President TCI NY. "We decided to continue moving forward expanding our business and increasing efforts in the community to help people with need."

Investing in Coeymans and Creating New Jobs

TCI's first plant in Coeymans opened on September 14, 2014, and the company hasn't looked back since. Last August TCI built a new expansion facility a 35,000 square foot, state of the art addition that added new capability to the existing plant. New jobs were created. Jobs that used to go out of state were brought to Coeymans.

"When we came to Coeymans, we only had 10 employees. Now we have 40 and as far as we are concerned, this is only the beginning," said Mr. Hemlock. "We have a philosophy to promote from within. This shows our people they can move up through hard work."

Brett Margiasso came to TCI through the Albany BOCES program affiliated with RCS High School. He interned two years ago, was hired full time and now is responsible for offloading all the trucks containing transformers.

"It's a huge responsibility," says John Barr, Operations Manager. "Brett inspects the product and determines what can be salvaged and repurposed. It can be very demanding. He is twenty years old."

"The expansion shows when local government and industry work together, there is nothing we cannot achieve," said George McHugh, Coeymans' Town Supervisor. "The result of this collaboration is good paying jobs with benefits to employees, many of whom are Coeymans residents."

Tom Bronchetti, TCI's Controller says, "Our operation is beneficial to the regional economy through our employment, tax payments and spending with other local businesses. TCI pays a living wage with strong benefits."

Providing jobs in the community promotes growth and stability for all of those who live in the area. The company pays approximately $75,000 per year in local taxes, and spends more than $250,000 annually with local businesses, from grocery stores and diners to gas stations and hardware stores.

Recycling and the Environment

"We strongly believe in our obligations to our neighbors and to our community," says Mr. Hemlock. "We are committed to operating our business in a manner that is safe, unobtrusive to our neighbors and protective of the environment."

Today, 99% of all the materials from transformers are recycled, re-purposed or refurbished. It used to all go into landfills. It is a true American success story. One that has benefitted many lives and protects the environment.

Hard Hat meets Textbook

TCI works with RCS High School to create good paying internships that can lead to full time jobs upon graduating from high school. The company awards scholarships to RCS High School Seniors, supports the school's drama and athletic programs.

"We decided to pay students because they do a great job and deserve to be compensated," Mr. Hemlock says. "We require the students to keep their grades up while working here."

Lisa Patierne, Principal at RCS, said, "It's a great partnership and a great opportunity for students who elect not to go to college. TCI gives these students worked based learning opportunities through internships that can lead to a promising career."

Committed to Community

During the challenging summer months last year, TCI stepped up to sponsor the Kindness for Kids Summer lunch program, which provides thousands of lunches to kids with need. TCI and its employees also work with the Hope Full Life Center Blessing Bags, Helping Harvest, VFW Post 9594, RCS Library, Ravena Rescue Squad, Historical Society, and the Ravena Friendship Festival.

Every year TCI assists the Riverview Baptist Church annual Block party, youth programs and summer camp. The campers learned how TCI built its state-of-the-art facilities and how electrical transformers are recycled. They meet administration and operations staff, some of whom are family members and neighbors of the campers.

Pastor Roxanne Booth said, "It's important for our kids to see what's on display at TCI. It is a national company proud to be in Coeymans and a successful, growing business operation. Plus, the folks at TCI make it a fun excursion."

Training Center

TCI goes to the utilities with specialized trailers to pick up transformers and then off loads them at the plant where they go onto highly modernized production lines to separate the materials. The process requires highly skilled workers who are trained and educated. There needs to be strict attention to detail. It has been challenging finding people to fill the slots.

"Many businesses including ours are struggling to find the workers to run our operations," says Mr. Hemlock. "I felt we needed to do something drastic and decided a training center was essential to creating a sustainable pipeline of workers for our businesses."

Mr. Hemlock approach Carver Laraway from Carver Companies to partner on a new initiative. The Joint Training and Certification Center is now in the development stage to provide training and job opportunities to underserved communities in the region.

"What will make the JTC Center unique is the combination of paid internships, multiple certifications and upon successful completion of the program a guaranteed job offer," said Mr. Hemlock.

The company is committed to Coeymans and will continue to invest in the community with further expansion plans in the works.

annual Bethlehem Central School District's Caring and Sharing Program began collecting food donations and grocery store gift cards Monday.

The district organizes and runs this program with one goal in mind: to assist families in the school community who may be struggling to make ends meet by providing food and grocery gift cards for the December holiday break and throughout the school

"Caring and Sharing is an annual event that helps us provide all children with what they need to make every day suc-

BETHLEHEM — The cessful, not stressful," said Superintendent Jody Monroe. "The district works with families to find available resources to help cover the cost of things like food, toiletries, and school supplies for our students. Each year, we have found great support for Caring and Sharing from students, staff, families, businesses and other community partners who are always here to lend a helping hand."

> Each school in the district collects certain food items in late November and early December. High school students organize the items into holiday bags that are distributed to families the Saturday before the December holiday break. Community members and businesses also donate to support Caring and Sharing.

Monroe said everyone at one time or another may experience periods of economic stress that are unexpected and overwhelming. However, the lingering effects of the pandemic and the rising cost of food and other necessities have made this year especially difficult for some families.

"Every school in Bethlehem has staff who can help connect families with resources all year long," Monroe said. "We want our families to know that. Caring and Sharing helps us to get that message out there."

If you are interested in supporting the BC Caring and Sharing Program, please watch for information from your child's school on how to participate. If you are a community member or business who would like to make a donation, please contact Sherri Fitzpatrick in the district's Special Education and Student Services (SESS) department at 518-439-8886 or by email at sfitzpatrick2@ bethlehemschools.org.

If you are a family who could use assistance this year or you know of a district family that could benefit, check out the school district website, www.bethlehemschools.org.

If you cannot complete the enrollment form electronically, please contact the SESS Department at 518-439-8886 or email Sherri Fitzpatrick at sfitzpatrick2@bethlehemschools.org.

Families who enroll will receive the donated food and gift cards as part of the 2021 BC Caring and Sharing Day on Saturday, Dec. 18. Pick-up will take place from 9 a.m. to noon at Bethlehem Central High School.

Bethlehem Chamber kicks off holiday shopping

DELMAR – As many plan to get out this year for holiday shopping, the Bethlehem community is ready to welcome customers back and kicked off the shopping season with the presentation of the Bethlehem Holiday Shopping Card on Nov. 19, at the National Bank of Coxsackie in Glen-

The Holiday Shopping Card features 29 businesses with specials

This year the Bethlehem Chamber will be adding a special bonus customers turning in receipts from six participating businesses on the card by Dec. 20, will have their name entered to receive gift cards from some of the participating businesses.

The COVID pandemic took a toll on many businesses and business owners. Jen Anderson, owner operator of Fitness Potential in Delmar, had to close her business and take another job classivice position.

"When I was able to open back up it was slow, but things are coming back now," said Anderson, who is an exercise physiologist who works out of her home as a personal trainer. "More and more clients are coming back, and new ones coming on. I have a lot of local contacts in the area who can refer people to me as well, and I can refer to others if I'm not what they need."

Restaurants are also seeing a revival of sorts.

"Since we opened up after being shut down, we have been delivering to many more new addresses and have new people coming in supporting our restaurant," Elisa Arteche, owner of Shogun Sushi & Sake Bar.

The Bethlehem Chamber represents more than 300 businesses varying in size from large industry to sole proprietors. The Chamber serves as a Neighborhood Champion for Small Business Saturday, which encourages people to look local following the Thanksgiving holiday.

Goodemote received the Academic Achievement Class of 2022 award, which recognizes outstanding students from undergraduate classes who have achieved the highest cumulative GPA in their classes.

BCS reviews power project PILOT

The Bethlehem Central School District has received notification from the Albany County Industrial Development Agency (IDA) regarding a proposed Payment in Lieu of Taxes, or PILOT, for the Champlain Hudson Power Express Proj-

The proposed $177 million project is an underground transmission line that would deliver renewable energy from Canada to New York City.

The proposed PILOT related to the project would provide the district with approximately $9.5 million over 30 years.

The local portion of this project covers 24.24 miles and spans four towns, two villages and four school districts, including Bethlehem.

The proposed PILOT apportions payments to each taxing jurisdiction based on the number of miles of pipeline installed within each area. Approximately 2.14 miles of the pipeline are expected to be located within the Bethlehem Central School District.

If constructed, the project would transport 1,250 megawatts of renewable energy underground from a converter station in Quebec, Canada, to a plant in Astoria, Queens, in New York City, running about 333 miles.

Construction is expected to take about three years and the project is anticipated to be up and running in 2025. It represents one of the largest infrastructure investments in the state's history, according to the company's website.

The county IDA is required to notify and solicit comment from the school district anytime the structuring of a PILOT agreement deviates from the Uniform Tax Exemption Policy (UTEP). Since the proposed terms of payment under the PILOT is a 30-year agreement rather than a typical 10- or 11-year term, the school district was able to review the terms and provide comment, if necessary.

The district reviewed the information publicly during the Board of Education meeting Nov. 17. In its review, the district found the terms of the PILOT agreement to be reasonable and recommended that no comment was required.

The project description, proposed abatements and estimated PILOT amounts were shared with the Board of Education during the Superintendent's Report at the Nov. 17 board meeting.

Bee-friendly lawns

By Thomas Christopher For Capital Region Independent Media

What if, instead of being environmental offenders, lawns could be contributors to the well-being of our landscapes? That's the question Dr. Eric Watkins has been addressing in his work at the University of Minnesota, and he is coming up with some intriguing answers.

For almost a decade now he's been creating lawns that are not only more sustainable, requiring far less inputs to remain green and growing, but also hospitable to native bees and other pollinators.

The grasses on which Dr. Watkins has been basing his lawns are various mixtures of the species known as fine fescues. This group includes a number of different types: hard fescues, creeping red fescues, chewings fescues and sheep fescues. They have long been an important component of the "shady mixes" of grass seed you'll find at the local garden center or big-box store, although they actually grow quite well in situations of full sun as well. As the name suggests, they are finer textured than most other turf grasses, with thin leaf blades.

I've planted a few lawns composed of mixtures of these grasses and found them quite adaptBe a Better GARDENER able, though they won't tolerate poorly drained, consistently damp soils.

They have several advantages over other turf grasses. I was interested in them because they are naturally short and so need far less mowing – I mow my own fine fescue lawn about once a month, and a friend for whom I installed such a lawn, who doesn't mind a somewhat tousled look, mows just twice a year, once in late spring and again in late summer.

A lawn's need for fertilizer, as Dr. Watkins points out, will vary with the soil on which it is growing, but he has found that a fine fescue lawn typically needs just a half to a quarter the amount of fertilizer as a Kentucky bluegrass lawn would on the same site.

The fine fescues and Dr. Watkins likes to plant mixes of the different types to increase the genetic diversity and adaptability of the resulting turf – as a group are outstandingly drought tolerant once established, although they do require irrigation during periods of prolonged heat and dry weather. If you select fine fescue seed that contains endophytes, a beneficial fungus that lives within the grass, the lawn will also be naturally resistant to diseases and to many turf-eating insects.

An interesting characteristic of the fine fescues is that they are clump-forming, growing as a collection of discrete plants. As they establish themselves, they will fill in to make a solid and weed-resistant carpet, but they can coexist with sprinklings of low-growing flowering plants that make them hospitable to pollinators: "bee-friend-

Dr. Watkins has been experimenting including white clover, creeping thyme and self-heal (Prunella vulgaris). Increasing the biodiversity of the lawn in this fashion greatly increases its attractiveness to pollinators; the University of Minnesota researchers have found over 50 species of native bees visiting their bee lawns.

To maintain populations of the flowering plants, the bee lawn cultivator must avoid the use of broadleaf weedkillers, another advantage from environmentalist's perspective. Applications of insecticides will kill pollinators, and so these a smaller carbon footprint because they require so much less mowing, fertilizer, and water.

The state of Minnesota has taken a hand in encouraging such plantings with a "Lawns to Legumes" program that offers grants to gardeners hensive instructions of for free down oad from its Board of nd Soil Resources website that is most easily located by conducting rch for "Lawns to Legumes. Choosing to become more aware of God

By Dr. Billy Holland For Capital Region Indepen-dent Media

The Bible refers to a joy that is unspeakable and full of glory, but what does this mean? I believe one answer would be the contentment of the conscience for those who know God and have decided to live in the awareness of His presence.

How can we do this? We can train our minds to think about God the same as we learn and become skilled to do anything else. Repetition and commitment are the building blocks of being proficient and in the Christian faith, self-discipline is the path to spiritual transforma-

It's important to awaken each day with prayers of thanksgiving for having the opportunity to communicate with the one who loves us and created us. We can approach Him boldly in faith, asking and seeking His wisdom and understanding.

LIVING ON PURPOSE

Entering into a deeper relationship with Him requires, as the Bible mentions in I Thessalonians 5:17, to pray without ceasing. The previous verse encourages us to rejoice always as our human nature finds these demands to be somewhat unrealistic. However, the Lord is saying relationship has everything to do with staying focused on Every moment can plead for spiritual sensitivity as we realize the moment we take our eyes away from the prize, we begin to fall away and become lukewarm. This sense of urgency is a vital component for the mind to be renewed and conformed to the mind of Christ.

Many have not taken the opportunity to ask for His divine appointments and His discernment that we might know His thoughts as we comprehend the critical importance of developing a higher level of spiritual sensitivity. Without this passionate craving to be close to God, we will be unable to walk in His Spirit. We must become one with Him for Him to move through us.

Without this revelation, our hope for an intimate relationship with Him will not exist. Constantly reminding ourselves to concentrate on Christ is the path that leads to the secret place of the Most High. Within our free will, we must demonstrate a fierce and fervent determination and relentless perseverance to absorb and be possessed by Him.

"That he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man; That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, May be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; And to know the love of Christ, which passes knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God. Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that is at work in us" (Ephesians 3:16-20).

We realize this message is not for the casual religious person. It is for those who pant after God like the deer that pants for water.

"As the deer pants after the water brooks, so pants my soul after thee, O God. My soul thirst for God, for the living God: when shall I come and appear before God?" Psalm 42:1-

This is the way of holiness for those who have a passion to be purified by the refiner's fire. Those who have decided to take up their cross no matter what pain and rejection it will bring are the ones who are nauseated with their sin and have turned away from the temptations and love for the world. They have chosen the path of the overcomer and have become a member of a radical and extreme remnant.

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.' (Romans 12:1-2).

So if spiritual joy is available, then why does it seem that very few have it? Because only a small number of individuals have allowed God to be their shepherd. Those who refuse to surrender the control of their decisions cannot enter into the deeper chambers of spiritual intimacy which is the foundation of our covenant relationship with Him. You see, whoever sits on the throne of our heart is the Lord our conscience.

May the Lord continue to give you His wisdom and understanding.

"Despite the uncertainty and added stress brought on by supply-chain and other pandemic-induced challenges, no doubt many people will get caught up in the spending spirit this holi-day season," said Michael Sullivan, a personal financial consultant with Take Charge America, a nonprofit credit counseling agency. "But overextending yourself doesn't help you, your family or friends. Smart budgeting and some shopping tricks can get you into the spirit without a financial hangover."

Sullivan shares six tips to ensure you don't overspend this holiday season:

Stick to a budget: Before you start shopping, set your holiday budget, including spending ceilings for everyone on your nice list. Keep your budget realistic and aligned with what you can afford. Stick to the plan by avoiding unnecessary extras or accessories that can add up and easily bust your budget.

Buy last year's model: From TVs to mobile phones, manufacturers introduce new models every year. But for most people, the latest and greatest features don't justify the extra cost. Gift last year's model to save on devices and gadgets.

Look for online coupons: When shopping online, take some time to search for promo codes on sites like Groupon, RetailMeNot and Honey. Many services also offer browser plugins that automatically detect discounts as you shop at various online stores.

• Use price comparison tools: When shopping online, use price comparison tools like Google Shopping, Biz-Rate or NexTag. Some sites even allow you to set up alerts for when items hit a certain price. If shopping in-store, download apps like ShopSavvy or RedLaser that let you scan product barcodes to check prices on items at other retailers.

Ask about price matching: Many stores will match competitor prices to keep from losing a sale. You just need to ask. Generally, you must provide proof of the lower price, usually in a newspaper flier or online deal.

Consider non-traditional gifts: Rather than spending money on a gift, consider offering your time or talent. Perhaps you're crafty, love babysitting or would extend some manual

Paying SS tax while still working

Dear Rusty: Upon being let go in 2009 at age 65 from my full-time job of 30 years, I immediately applied for Social Security for my wife and I to live on while seeking employment.

Not finding anything full-time, I ended up working part-time for the past nine years driving a school bus for an hourly

Even though my wife and I are collecting Social Security, my wages are still being taxed for it. While I don't feel this is fair, the real rub (to me) is the fact that my Social Security payroll deductions for the past nine years do not seem to be resulting in an increase in the amount of Social Security we receive.

Meanwhile, a friend, who is our age and a business owner, mentioned the amount he is taxed for SS as a sole proprietor is somehow being returned to him from time to time. Therefore, could you please explain what's happening here and whether we are due some kind of adjust-owner his self-employment SS tax is somehow being "returned to him from time to time." I can, however, tell you that the rules for business owners are the same as for those who do not own a business, except that a business owner pays both the employee and employer portion of Social Security employment taxes.

Essentially, the only way paying into Social Security now (via payroll taxes or self-employment taxes) will increase your SS benefit amount is if your income in any recent year is more than your earnings in any of the 35 highest earning years over your lifetime used to compute your SS benefit.

When your Social originally computed, all years in your lifetime earnings history through age 59 were adjusted for inflation and the highest earning 35 years were selected to develop your "average indexed monthly earnings" (AIME). A formula was applied to your AIME to determine your "Primary Insurance Amount" or "PIA," which is the amount you get if you claim benefits to start in the month you reach your full retirement age (FRA). If you claimed at age 65, your SS benefit was slightly before your FRA.

Although you have been and are still working part-time and you're paying into Social Security while doing so, your personal SS benefit will not increase unless your current earnings are more than any of those in the 35 years originally used to determine your benefit when you claimed.

The inflation adjustment influences your past years' earnings more than you might expect; for example, $50,000 earned in 1990 would require more than $125,000 in today's earnings to Remember that your contributions to Social Security while you are working do not go into a personal account for you. All who work are required to pay into Social Security, and the money paid is used to help pay benefits to those already receiving Social Security. And that doesn't change when you start collecting SS if you continue to work you must still pay Social Security tax and the money you pay goes to help pay benefits for all recipients.

The forgotten vitamin

When you think about vitamin supplements, which ones automatically come to mind? Most people will say vitamin C, D or E.

But of the 13 vitamins essential for optimal health, we rarely hear about the importance of vitamin K and its vital role in the prevention of cardiovascular disease, cancer, Alzheimer's, diabetes and osteoporosis.

While it's not known to be one of the most common deficiencies (like vitamin D), it can be very serious, causing issues like bone loss, excessive bleeding in the GI tract, blood in urine and more.

"And older adults — particularly older men — are the age group that consumes the least amount of vitamin K," said Sarah Booth, Ph.D., from the Jean Mayer USDA Human Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University.

Discovered in 1929 by Danish scientist Henrik Dam, vitamin K is actually a group of compounds, the most important ones being vitamin K1 and K2.

Produced by plants, Vitamin K1 plays a key role in helping the blood clot and is also essential for building strong bones and osteoporosis prevention. Vitamin K supplements are not absorbed well by the body. So your best bet is to include lots of foods rich in vitamin K such as broccoli, Brussels sprouts and dark leafy greens in your diet.

Vitamin K is also a natural cancer fighter and is effective in reducing the risk of prostrate, colon, stomach, nasal and oral cancer. One study found that high doses of vitamin K helped patients with liver cancer stabilize and improve their liver function.

A study in Integrative Medicine points out that vitamin K helps prevent hardening of arteries because it keeps calcium out of the arteries, not allowing it to form into hard, dangerous plaque deposits. Studies have also shown that people who increase their intake of vitamin K have a lower risk of cardiovascular disease and stroke mortality.

Can vitamin K stop Alzheimer's disease or dementia? Not necessarily, but studies have shown that eating leafy greens keeps individuals' minds a decade younger. In a cognitive study of over 950 older adults, researchers found that individuals who ate one or two servings of mustard greens, spinach, kale or collards daily had the same mental ability as individuals 11 years their junior.

Please recycle this

There is mounting evidence that vitamin K2 can improve bone health and reduce the risk of bone fractures, especially in postmenopausal women who are at risk for osteoporosis. According to recent research, men and women with the highest intake of vitamin K2 are 65% less likely to suffer from a debilitating hip fracture compared to those with the lowest intake of vitamin K2.

Vitamin K2 is produced by the good bacteria in your gut and can also be found in high fat dairy and fermented foods such as sauerkraut.

Just like salt goes with pepper and wine goes with chocolate, vitamin K should always be paired vitamin D whenever possible. However, if you use blood-thinning medication, please consult your health care practitioner.

The Lafarge Ravena plant is launching a new initiative to better engage with members of the public. This is part of an ongoing effort by plant officials to strengthen ties with the Ravena-Coeymans community and facilitate an open dialogue about facility operations.

Since its opening in 1962, the Ravena plant has been proud to serve as the largest employer in Southern Albany County. We appreciate the local support we have received, and we strive to be a good neighbor by investing time and resources in community projects and programs.

We take all concerns and complains about the plant very seriously and aim to operate in a manner that causes zero harm to employees, contractors, customers, and most of all, local residents, in keeping with the core values of our parent company, LafargeHolcim US.

To meet that goal, it is critical that we are able to respond to any issues in a timely manner. Our ability to do that relies on you.

Going forward, we ask that anyone who wishes to contact the plant in connection with a problem, question, or complaint email us directly at: Ravena@lafargeholcim.com. That includes any occurrences of materials that may appear on vehicles or other private property.

The plant will be working with the state Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) to collect data on the type and source of these materials. To aid in that effort, we may request that impacted individuals fill out the Complaint Report Form, which can be found on our website www.lafargeravenaconnect.com, to provide as much information as possible to guide an appropriate response and remediation, if necessary.

Lafarge Ravena leaders welcome input from the community, and we hope that this new approach will help us improve communications moving forward.

DRILL SCHEDULED:

Coeymans Hollow Training Officer Tim Pinson has announced that the drill scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 30, will be a mandatory drill on sexual harassment. The drill will begin promptly at 7 p.m. and all Coeymans Hollow firefighters and EMS personnel are encouraged to attend.

SAFETY TIP:

When cooking your Thanksgiving

please turn your pot handles in so a small child will not be able to reach up to pull a hot pot down onto themselves. If you are frying a turkey, please do it outside. not on your deck, and make sure the turkey is completely thawed and dried before you put it into your pre-measured oil. Have a fire extinguisher handy and never use water on an oil fire.

FIRE AND EMS REPORT:

The Coeymans Hollow Volunteer Fire Corporation responded to three fire and three EMS calls in the past week.

New law bans canine discrimination

By Charlene Marchand For Capital Region Independent Media

For well over a decade, the American Kennel Club (AKC) advocated for legislation that would protect dog owners from being subject to homeowners' insurance policy discrimination based solely on the breed of dog that was owned.

"The amount of money paid by homeowners' claimants insurance suing for dog bites went from $324.4 million in 2003 to $853.7 million in 2020," according to an editorial in Dog News.

As a result, companies began to refuse to write policies – some homeowners even facing cancellation when a "certain" breed was purchased or adopted from a shelter or private rescue group.

As many of us can attest, breeds such as German shepherd dogs, Doberman pinschers, American Staffordshire terriers ("pitbulls"), huskies, boxers, cane corsos, akitas, mastiffs, Rottweilers, Belgian Malinois, giant Schnauzers – the of breed discrimination and restrictions.

Many of our canine family members are combinations of multiple breeds, i.e. mixed breeds. The increasing list of "crossbreds," e.g. Golden and Labrador retriever mixes, Poodle mixes, Bernese mountain dog mixes, Old English sheepdog mixes, husky mixes – this list is becoming endless were previously not included in these "bans." The purebred dog population "took the hit," so to speak, as the ability to research and prove background and DNA would become a Herculean task, if not impossible.

We have reason to list goes on – are targets celebrate! On Oct. 30, 2021, New York Gov. Kathy Hochul signed Senate Bill 4254 (now Chapter 545), which states, "No insurer shall refuse to issue or renew, cancel, or charge or impose an increased premium or rate for such policy or contract based solely upon harboring or owning any dog of a specific breed or mixture of breeds."

This law will be in effect as of January 2022. What an excellent, knowledgeable, pragmatic and effective move our new governor has taken. Let each canine be judged as an individual if it is declared dangerous as defined in New York state law.

Chappie is a 4-year-old black and white domestic shorthaired cat, pictured with CGHS/SPCA Adoption Counselor Laura Isbell. He's a very sweet boy who loves snuggles and pats. He seems to get along well with the other cats at the shelter, but it is unknown if he's good with dogs. He will greet you at the door and climb right up on the couch with you! Chappie is the perfect lap cat!

Shaker Place ranked among best nursing homes in NY

ALBANY — Albany County Executive Daniel P. McCoy announced that the county-owned and operated Shaker Place Rehabilitation and Nursing Center has been ranked among the 2022 list of "Best Nursing Homes in the State of New York" by Newsweek Magazine and Statista, Inc. based on an independent analysis.

The rankings are conducted on an annual basis for the 25 states with the highest populations, including New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"While Shaker Place and our incredible staff hold themselves to the highest standards of performance and care each and every day, the last 20 months dealing with the dangers of COVID has forced us to work even harder to protect our residents," McCoy said. The best nursing homes are selected based on three criteria: Performance data from the US Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), a reputation survey based on thousands of surveys conducted by medical professionals from nursing homes, and the facility's overall response to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

"The residents of Shaker Place have worked hard and contributed to their communities their entire lives, and one of the most important things we can do in government is ensure that they have a place where they can live in comfort and with dignity, spend time with their families and feel safe. That's what we're committed to, and I want to thank County Executive McCoy for always providing us with the tools and the resources we need to do just that," said Shaker Place Executive Director Larry Slatky.

This distinction from Newsweek comes on the heels of the U.S. Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services improved the ratings of Shaker Place in September, now giving the facility five stars for "Quality Measures" and four stars for "Over-all Quality," according to McCoy.

'Tis the Holiday Baking Season

ne of the best parts of the holidays is the aromas and flavors of the season, from walnuts and cinnamon to peppermint and nutmeg. Sweet treats and mouthwatering desserts can bring family and friends around the table to celebrate the season together, one bite at a time. During your festive gatherings this year, choose walnuts as the star baking ingredient. As many home cooks turn to wholesome ingredients that offer health benefits this holiday baking season, California walnuts make for a perfect addition to almost any dish and are an excellent source of omega-3 ALA (2.5g/oz). With a buttery flavor that elevates traditional and modern recipes, home bakers can do more with walnuts in the kitchen.

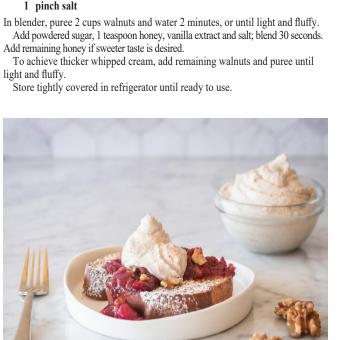

Part pumpkin, part cheesecake, this Walnut Pumpkin Cream Cheese Tart spices up the classic pumpkin pie recipe. Top it, or other favorite desserts, with light and airy Vanilla Walnut Whipped Cream flavored with honey and vanilla to complement festive dishes.

This holiday season, pick up a bag of walnuts for all your baking needs. To discover more festive dessert ideas, visit walnuts.org.
