Trail system to link park and country club

Capital Region Independent Media

COEYMANS — Town officials are working with a local business to build a trail system for walking, snowshoeing and cross-country skiing.

Officials met Sept. 9 with management of Sycamore Country Club to map out a new trail leading from Joralemon Park through the adjoining property at Sycamore Country Club.

"I met at Joralemon Park this week with our Parks Department, our Superintendent of Highways Scott Searles, and Kevin Reinisch from Sycamore Country Club," Town Supervisor George McHugh said at the September meeting of the town council. "We marked off the trail that is going to extend from Joralemon Park into Sycamore Country Club."

"We talked about the extension of the trail system that they are going to put onto their golf course reopened its doors May 8 under new management, according to the company's website. The facility's restaurant would remain open year-round, the town supervisor said.

"It's going to be really nice," McHugh said.

Town Councilman Daniel Baker said the new trail system would be a great new amenity for park users.

"It will be very nice to go to Joralemon Park and maybe cross country or snowshoe around and over there, maybe get a bite to eat and come back," Baker said. "That will be pretty cool."

Councilman Town Zachary Collins asked where the park and golf course would be connect-

"It will tie in right between the fifth green and the sixth tee, just to the left of the memorial if you are coming from the Joralemon side or right of it if you are on the sixth tee," McHugh responded.

Lord's Acre Auction, Fair makes its return

Capital Region Independent Media

COEYMANS HOLLOW — After being canceled in 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Lord's Acre Auction and Fair made its return Saturday.

This was the 65th year for the event. Held at Trinity United Methodist Church, the fair looked a little different this year, volunteer Melanie Collins said Saturday.

"We are having our annual Lord's Acre Auction and Fair and we added the car show this year," Collins said. "We are trying very hard to be safe and very conscious of COVID and the parameters and the CDC (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention) guidelines we have to work within."

The event drew a sizable crowd eager to get out and about on a picture-perfect Saturday.

"So far, so good, and we are having a good turnout," Collins said. "We have ice cream and a bake sale, lots of flea market items, crafts, the thrift shop and games for the kids."

Each year, the auction and fair are held to raise money for the church.

"This is to benefit the church and to benefit the missions that the church supports," Collins said. "Since we are a rural church, we have a small population and a small population means smaller income, so we have to supplement it."

Proceeds from the sale of the items, both at the fair and auction, goes to the church, volunteer Phyllis Buckley said.

Buckley usually handles the book sale at the fair, but this year the book sale was not held.

"We didn't do the books this year," Buckley said. "We are a little short-handed this year because there is a dinner going on and garage sales, so we are a little short-handed today." This year also had another change

"Usually the car show is on a separate day," Collins said. "We typically hold the car show in June, around Father's Day, but we decided that since we skipped it for the past two Junes, we decided to add it to this venue."

"We build cars and we race stock cars at Fonda [Speedway]," Klob said. "We built a couple of cars for my dad, and my brother and I are working on a '36 Ford pickup now."

Owning a '66 Nova is a blast from Klob's youthful past.

"I had a Nova when I was young and when I got married, I sold it,' Klob said. "It was the same model, but it was an SS. Then I went through a couple of cars — a Mustang, a Torino. And then I saw this car for sale and bought it. My wife and I ram around

TRAIL from A1

Several requests have come in to the town offices about whether snowmobiling would be allowed, the town supervisor said.

"This trail system is not necessarily for snowmobiling, however Sycamore management has informed me that they are planning on marking off areas for snowmobiling on the Sycamore Country Club property, but making sure the greens are fenced off so that there is no damage to the greens," McHugh explained. "But they do want snowmobilers to have access to their clubhouse and to the restaurant and lounge all year long, so they are making provisions for snowmobiling on Syca-more property."

The trails that are being mapped out at this time are for activities like walking, snowshoeing and cross-country skiing between the park and the country club, he added.

"But there will be provisions made for snowmobiles as well," McHugh

In other park news, the finishing touches are being put on upgrades made by the town to Joralemon Park.

The tennis and basketball courts have been under construction and are being replaced.

"Today the first basketball hoop was installed at Joralemon Park," McHugh said at the Sept. 9 meeting. "The next step is we are waiting for the second hoop to come and that may be a few more weeks.'

Components of the project have been delayed due to impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, which led to delays in trucking and manufacturing, McHugh

Fencing is being put up, and after the second basketball hoop is installed, the final layer of the court's surface will be completed and striped.

"Hopefully we will be done with everything by the end of the month or the first part of October," he added.

More equipment is also pending.

"The playground equipment is still on order," he said. "They are hoping that in the next two to three weeks that will arrive and they plan to have that in before the end of September."

The park project, which has been going on for several months, is coming together, McHugh added.

"It is moving slowly but surely," he said. "But seeing the basketball hoop up today was refreshing and at least gives me some optimism that this might actually happen.'

The town board is expected to have further information available on the park project's progress at the next meeting Sept. 23.

Coeymans' fair share

By Zachary Collins Candidate for Albany County Legislator

campaign throughout the town and go door to door and meet my friends and neighbors in Coeymans, I continue to receive one common question – "What are you going to do for the Coeymans residents and taxpayers if elected as our next Albany County Legislator?"

The answer for me is simple. I will remind the Albany Politicians that the Town of Coeymans is part of Albany County, and deserving of its fair share of the Albany County pie, and I will work with anyone willing to work with me to insure that Coeymans is well represented and its residents receive their fair share.

It is time that we had a legislator that will not simply vote in lock step with the Democratic machine in Albany, while Coeymans residents and taxpayers are forced to watch as the grant monies and County benefits go to places like the City of Albany and other larger towns and cities within the county. Coeymans has not always received their fair share and I will be there to remind my colleagues on the legislature that Coeymans is part of Albany Countv and deserves its fair share of the county taxes that we all pay.

Over the past two years, I have sat on the Coeymans Town Board and have worked together with colleagues from other political parties to get things done in Coeymans. We have worked closely with our Albany County Executive Dan McCoy to bring more opportunity to the children of Coeymans by busing them to Lawson Lake Park for summer recreation programs. And through our efforts with Sheriff Craig Apple, the Coeymans Town Board was able to open a Sheriff Substation in the Hamlet, which doubled police patrols throughout the town and village and increased public safety for all residents.

This Town Board has worked together will all willing stakeholders towards one common goal - to improve our town, improve public safety, maintain the lowest tax rate in over two decades, and balance economic development with quality of life, so that Coeymans can be a great place to work, live, and raise a family. I am proud of what we have accomplished thus far, and I look forward to working together with the town board as their ally and friend in the Albany County Legislature. There is no limit to the potential of Coeymans, especially given this town board and the right representation in the County Legislature. God willing, as the next Albany County Legislator representing my hometown of Coeymans, I look forward to working together with Supervisor George McHugh, Council Members Dan Baker, Brandon LeFevre and Linda Bruno, and Town Clerk Laura Jane Barry, as we strive to continue the Coeymans Comeback that we started in 2020. I agree that this election is about Deeds, not Words, and I believe that our Deeds over the past two years speak for themselves.

Thank you, God Bless all of you, and God Bless the Town of Coeymans.

More than likely, there's an app for that

They just came out with the newest generation of smartphones.

I will not be rushing to my nearest purveyor of such items to stand in line to purchase one. The last thing I need in my life is another inanimate object that is smarter than I am or ever likely to be.

The ads are enticing, I have to admit. They can do just about anything. You can get apps by the thousand. You can take pictures. You can take videos. You can play music. You can get directions to grandma's house. They can be used as a GPS. They can become a compass. You can email. You can text message. You can access the internet, the world's knowledge is at your fingertips.

If they could cook and do laundry, they'd be the perfect household appliance and I'm not sure, but there may be apps to allow them to do that. (I like the word "apps," it makes me sound techno. It took me a year after I first heard it to figure out that it stood for "applications.")

I don't want you to think I'm one of those old curmudgeons who resists change and the advancement of the human race. In fact, at one time, I was considered on the cutting edge. I owned an Edsel that had an 8-track tape player and bought one of the very first Betamax video recorders.

Technology is making such rapid advances that I'm having trouble keeping up with it. I think that might be expected from a person whose favorite hobbies are woodcarving and blacksmithing.

It is just a fact that as you age, technology just sort of piles up on you. I can remember being awed by the first dial phone we got and the fact that no longer was it necessary to tell the nice lady that asked for the number you wanted what that number was when you picked up the phone; you could do the job yourself with a few flicks of your finger.

WHITTLING AWAY

DICK BROOKS

I remember when telephone stands, sort of a one-armed bandit with a shelf for the phone and a place to sit while using it, were all the rage. The Princess phone came along, it came in colors and didn't weigh 15 pounds and had a long cord so you could walk around with it. The cordless phones made an appearance and changed everything. You could talk on the phone in your yard, for goodness sake.

Then came the mobile phone, you could even make calls from your car. They came with a battery pack the size of a large pocketbook and impressed folks just because of their volume and weight.

The cellphone was next. It started out the size of the old Princess phone and quickly decreased in size as it increased in capabilities. They are now so small that when mine rings, it usually causes a panic trying to find the darn thing.

In the last 20 years, they have changed our lives.

It used to be that before going out the door in the morning all I had to do was make sure my pants were on and my zipper in place. Now I'm not completely dressed until my phone is in my pocket. I'm then ready to face the world. I can take pictures, check my email, tell the time in all of the world's major time zones, figure out the day of the week, check on any appointments I might have and even on rare occasions make a phone call if I can remember how.

Thought for the week — "There's an old story about the person who wished his computer were as easy to use as his telephone. That wish has come true, since I no longer know how to use my telephone." — Stroustrup.

Until next week, may you and yours be happy and well.

Time to bring the houseplants indoors

I recently returned from a week-long road trip to southeast Ohio and western North Carolina.

I spoke at a landowners' conference that was held at the United Plant Saver's Goldenseal Sanctuary, near Athens, Ohio. It was beastly hot and humid, but the participants did not seem to mind at all.

If you have not visited that part of this country, I encourage you to do so. The vegetation will look very familiar but much more vigorous than ours. Roadside plants such as New York ironweed, Joe Pye weed, wingstem, and tall coreopsis towered above my head, growing several feet taller than the roadside plants we have here. That part of Appalachia has all the wild plants we have here plus many more! The diversity of an area that was never glaciated is worth the trip in Most of our region escaped the really heavy rain last week, but parts of Greene and Ulster counties received up to 7 inches of rain, causing local flooding once again. This season has been quite different than last year in terms of precipitation. In general, our forests and fields are far healthier when it rains.

Within a few short weeks, parts of our region will have had their first frost. The days are noticeably shorter now and the evenings much cooler.

If you have tender crops such as tomatoes, beans and peppers at risk, you may want to cover them with a cloth (not plastic) blanket when frost is threatened. I had a great tomato crop that is starting to peter out now. I think I got the fertilizer rate pretty close to perfect this season, to allow most of the fruit to ripen in August. Tomato plants that get too much nitrogen fertilizer often fail to ripen much of the crop before frost. These overfed plants will grow tall and lush, but fruit ripening will be delayed.

I recently returned from GARDENING TIPS

If you have open space in your garden now, a cover crop can be seeded. Oats will provide a quick cover that will die when frost occurs, winter rye is excellent for smothering weeds, but will have to be tilled in next spring.

If you still have houseplants outside, they need to be brought in, but before they come back in, you should spray them at least a few times with a houseplant insecticide, such as Insecticidal soap or horticultural oil. You may also use a systemic soil poison that is put in the pot and then watered in.

Systemic poisons are absorbed by the roots, move upward through the plant and kill the pests from the inside out. The plants may appear to be perfectly bug-free to your eye right now, but I can pretty much guarantee that if you bring them indoors without treatment, they will soon show evidence of spider mites and perhaps aphids.

One alternative for saving them is to make cuttings on tender plants such as coleus or geraniums, which can be grown as houseplants all winter long in a sunny window. The cutting should be 3 or 4 inches and include two or three nodes. (Nodes are the places where leaves come off the stems).

Cut off any flowers and dip the cuttings into a rooting hormone powder for best results. Stick the cuttings, three or four at a time, into a 6- or 8-inch plastic pot that is filled with moist potting soil. Don't use the black-colored, heavy potting soil that is sold in plastic bags. Instead, use a lightweight, soilless mixture comprised of peat moss, vermiculite and perlite.

After sticking the cuttings, put the whole pot in a clear plastic bag that is sealed on top and place it in a shaded indoor location. The cuttings should root in about two weeks and the plastic bag may be removed. After they are rooted, the pots should be placed in the sunniest windows you have available.

This is also a good time to propagate some perennial flowers. A general rule of thumb is to divide fall blooming perennials in the spring and spring flowering perennials in the fall. Right now you can dig up and divide peonies, but make sure you replant the divided clumps with the pink buds no more than one inch below the soil level. Peonies planted too deeply will not flower properly.

You may also dig up and divide bleeding hearts, columbine, Dutch iris and any other spring blooming perennial. Enjoy the current display of our wild, fall-blooming asters and consider transplanting some to your perennial garden.

Spring flowering bulb planting begins in earnest next month, but now is a good time to buy the bulbs when the selection is best. I am looking forward to the upcoming display of fall colors that is just now beginning.

You are not your past

Many people feel like they can't have the life they want because of their past limitations or failures.

Maybe your family wasn't there for you, you didn't get the proper education, you've been fired from multiple jobs or mistreated in relationships.

Many things aren't fair and can cause a chain reaction of events that may take us far off course. There are also many bad choices we make, and as a result, we end up missing out on the life we want.

You may have made mistakes, gotten into trouble, fired from a job, lost a relationship, but that doesn't mean it always has to be that there is no vision, there is no hope."

George Washington "Where Carver said,

Positively Speaking

I agree with his quote completely. George Washington Carver was a more brilliant man than I will ever be. For today's column, I would like to modify the selection to say, "Where there is no positive vision of the future, there is no hope."

It seems most people's vision of the future is dictated by the failures and limitations of their past, and therefore, they do have a vision, but it's a negative one.

One trait of a successful person is they don't allow themselves to be defined by their failures or their present unfavorable circumstances. Instead, they define themselves by a positive vision of their future.

That seems odd when you think about it. They define themselves by something that hasn't even happened yet.

It's easy to look at a great person and assume they had everything handed to them or that somehow life was much easier on them than it was you.

I have many fond memories of my parents taking me to Disney World. I've been on the rides, seen the movies, and heard about the man who built it all, Walt Disney. I've driven past the Disney skyscraper in Burbank, California, hundreds of times; I've auditioned at Walt Disney Studios dozens of times. When surrounded by all that accomplishment, it's hard to imagine that Walt ever faced any hardship.

Most don't know that Walt Disney was fired from his job at the Kansas City Star after his newspaper editor told him that he didn't have enough imagination or creativity!

What if Walt Disney allowed himself to be defined by that moment, and for the next 20 years, he wandered from job to job, telling himself, "I'm not creative, I don't have a good enough imagina-

If he had done that, he never would have created Laugh-O-Gram. Laugh-O-Gram was an animation studio that Walt was contracted to run. The studio was supposed to make 12 cartoons. Although the company started with promise, it wasn't long before Walt was living at the office, taking weekly baths at Union Station in Kansas City, and finally bankrupting the studio. What a disas-

He sold his camera, which gave him enough money for a one-way train ticket to Hollywood, California, and the rest is history.

I wonder how many potentially great people never accomplished their vision because they believed in their failures more than their vision of the future. They accepted what their present circumstances were telling them rather than what their future vision was telling them.

If Walt Disney was one of those people, we all would have missed out on one of the most creative minds of the 20th century. Most obviously, he chose not to allow those negative experiences to define him because he became one of the most influential people of all time.

Like all great people, Walt Disney didn't allow his future to be dictated by the failures or limitations of his past.

One year ago this month, Dave MacLauchlin, started as manager of the Lafarge coment plant in Ravena – an opportunity that enabled him both to utilize his two decades of industry expertise and realize a dream of returning to his home state of New York.

But the job also presented significant challenges to MacLauchlin, 45, a Western Mohawk Valley native and Clarkson University graduate. He arrived five months after the coronavirus pandemic forced the closure of everything but essential businesses across the state.

The Latarge Ravena plant, MacLauchlin said, shuttered briefly in April, but otherwise "operated successfully" throughout the Covid-19 crists and never experienced an outbreak.

"That's a testament to the workforce," he said.

Now that the Covid restrictions have eased, MacLauchlin is focused on getting into the community and forging relationships. He is working to highlight how the local team has "evolved as an organization" and the plant has "evolved as a site."

"Our goal is to be a good member of the community, to be a respected member of the community," he explained. The plant is the largest employer in Southern Albany County, with 150 workers, and the largest contributor of local property taxes.

MacLauchlin often points to Ravena plant's multimillion-dollar modernization project completed in 2017. He notes it has produced cement for many projects, including the Global Foundries site in Maita, which announced a significant expansion; and looks forward to playing a key role in helping New York reach its ambitious renewable energy goals.

To stay safe in a burning building, a firefighter must wear special gear. A turnout coat, for example, is a special jacket designed to protect a firefighter from heat and flames.

Reflective stripes on the coat and pants help firefighters see one another in a dark, smoky building.

Smoke can be one of the biggest dangers in a fire. Firefighters wear face shields and an air mask to be able to see and breathe.

If a fire breaks out in your home, it is VERY important to STAY LOW. Crawl towards an exit as quickly as possible to avoid breathing in smoke. And if a firefighter wearing gear like in the photo above is there, don't be afraid. They're there to help!

Homecoming Week celebrates fall sports

By Melanie Lekocevic Capital Region Independent Media

RAVENA-COEY-MANS-SELKIRK — Homecoming week is being celebrated all week long in the Ravena-Coeymans-Selkirk school district.

The festivities began Monday and continue through Friday.

"The high school will have a spirit week with various themes for each day and we are encouraging all district students and staff to wear green and gold to school on Friday, Sept. 24, in celebration of the end of our homecoming week," according to the district.

The district encourages students, families and the entire community to turn out and support the various teams at their home games this week.

"They have been working hard preparing for the season," according to the district. "Let's show them some RCS school spirit!"

The week of competitions began Monday with girls JV varsity volleyball against Mohonasen Central at home at RCS, and other games included boys JV football; varsity golf; boys varsity soccer; girls varsity tennis, volleyball and soccer.

And that was just day one.

Games and matches continued Tuesday and Wednesday, and on Thursday there were games for the modified football team, girls JV varsity soccer, girls modified volleyball, girls varsity soccer and boys varsity soccer.

There is still plenty of Homecoming Week action to come on Friday with varsity golf Colonial Council championships at an away match; girls and boys modified soccer in away games; a home swim meet for girls varsity; JV and varsity volleyball games and girls tennis in an away match.

The week of home-coming action culminates on Friday at 7 p.m. with the varsity football team facing off against Hudson Falls on the RCS home field.

Virus suspected of killing 700 deer in seven counties

By Bill Williams Courtesy of Columbia-Greene Media

A lethal disease may be responsible for taking the lives of more than 700 deer over a seven-county area, state Department of Environmental Conservation spokesman Jomo Miller said last Friday.

DEC has confirmed Epizootic cases of Hemorrhagic Disease in Columbia, Greene, Dutchess, Ulster, Nassau, Oswego and Suffolk counties. They are also tracking suspected cases in Albany, Jefferson, Oneida, Orange, Putnam, Rensselaer, Rockland, Sullivan and Westchester counties, Miller said.

The disease is not transmissible to humans,

Miller said.

In New York, EHD virus is typically fatal for deer. It is transmitted by biting midges, small insects sometimes called "no-see-ums" or "punkies." The disease is not spread from deer to deer and humans cannot be infected by deer or bites from midges, Miller said.

Once infected with EHD virus, deer usually die within 36 hours, Miller said.

EHD outbreaks are most common in the late summer and early fall when midges are abundant, although initial cases this year were detected in late July. Signs of the virus include fever, hemorrhage in muscles or organs, and swelling of the head, neck, tongue and lips. A deer infected with EHD may appear lame or dehydrated, Miller said.

Frequently, infected deer will seek out water sources and many succumb near a water source.

There is no treatment for EHD and no means to prevent it. Dead deer cannot pass the infection to other animals.

The virus has been in New York since July and has had time to circulate and spread prior to the first killing frosts. As a result, it has been more widespread this year than during previous outbreaks, Miller said.

EHD outbreaks do not have a significant long-term impact on regional deer populations, but deer mortality can be significant in small geographic areas graphic areas.

Outbreaks occur sporadically and deer in New York have no immunity to this virus, so most EHD-infected deer in New York are expected to die. The first hard frost is expected to kill the midges that transmit the disease, ending the outbreak, Miller said.

Sightings of sick or dead deer that are suspected of having EHD can be reported to DEC with a new online reporting form that is available at dec.ny.gov/animals or by contacting the nearest DEC Regional Wildlife Office, Miller said.

The presence of the EHD virus was first confirmed in New York state in 2007 with relatively small outbreaks in Albany, Rensselaer and Niagara counties, and in Rockland County in 2011. From early September to late October 2020, a large EHD outbreak occurred in the lower Hudson Valley, centered in Putnam and Orange counties, with an estimated 1,500 deer mortalities.

Answers to questions about disability income insurance

By Michael Lanuto For Capital Region Indepen-dent Media

An often overlooked but key area of your overall protection strategy is the need to protect your income stream if you are unable to work due to illness or injury. Think about the financial impact if you were unable to earn a paycheck for an extended period.

Disability income insurance is designed to protect against that risk but is a type of insurance many aren't familiar with. Here are answers to many questions we frequently hear from clients:

Q: What is the chance I might be subiect to a disability-related event?

A: It may be more likely than you think. It is estimated that more than one in four of today's 20-year-olds will miss at least a year of work because of a disabling condition before they reach retirement age1.

Q: What if I don't work in a high-risk occupation?

A: The fact is that

injuries can happen anywhere, not just on the job. An injury could result from a car accident, a bad fall, a mishap working around the yard or even a sport. Then, there are more debilitating illnesses. COVID-19 reminded us all of our vulnerability and that some illnesses have debilitating effects for an extended period.

O: What can disability income insurance do for me?

A: Disability income insurance provides a source of monthly income to replace what is lost if you are unable to work. This is important to help pay for your household expenses on an ongoing basis. Funds can also help you keep pace with savings for monumental goals in your life such as retirement or your child's college education.

Q: Do I really need disability income insurance? What about the financial support from my occupation or the Social Security disability program?

A: Employer-provided policies, if offered, often pay the equivalent of about half your salary, but these benefits are generally subject to income tax, leaving you with a gap to bridge to meet your needs. Social Security benefits are not always easy to qualify for, may take months before payments are approved and often pay only a modest amount ly benefit is $1,2341). These two options leave

Crossroads Center for Children announces 2021 'Dare to Be Different Gala'

SCHENECTADY Tickets are now on sale for Crossroads Center for Children's 2021, "Dare to Be Different Gala," a night of celebration in support of Crossroads programs for children in the Capital District (or Northeastern New York).

This year's gala will take place on Saturday, Oct. 23, from 5-10 p.m. at the Terrace at Waters Edge in Glenville.

Last August, Crossroads held their gala mainly online, although some components were still in person, such as food pickup, a wine pull, and a standee photo opportunity. The event approximately raised $17,000 towards the nonprofit organization's $3 million-plus expenses of running the school and clinic aimed at helping children and families.

"After our "virtual" gala last year, we are excited to welcome everyone to celebrate with us in person again this year at our annual gala. This evening

We are grateful to have some of our longstanding Crossroads supporters with us again this year, including DJ Zac Barr who always manages to bring fun and energy to such a special night. If you've been to our gala before, you know how wonderful this event is. And if you have never been, don't miss another opportunity!" said Kelly Young, executive director.

Each year at the gala, Crossroads Center for Children chooses to honor someone with the "Connecting the Community Award" in gratitude for their help over the past year, which is always a meaningful and challenging review, as the center truly appreciates the contribution of everyone in the Crossroads community.

This year, both Capital District Physicians Health Plan, (CDPHP) and the CAP COM Community

"This year, though, we have two honorees, and both were easy selections for their assistance not only to Crossroads but to others in our community" said Young.

Heather Morrison from Spectrum News 9 will serve as emcee throughout the evening's presentation again this year, and LeGrande Serras will again serve as live auctioneer. Gem Behind The Mic will add a special song to the festivities.

Because you care!

Sometimes, things don't always work out at home for a child.

New York's Office of Children and Family Services estimates that 130,000 children around the state live with a grandparent, an aunt or uncle, or other family member. Some even live with close family friends. When a family member or close family friend assumes the responsibility of caring for a child, that's called Kinship Care.

Perhaps you are a kinship care provider, or know someone who is. If you are, you do it for all the right reasons. Because you care. But there's good news. St. Catherine's Center for Children has launched a new program to support kinship caregivers in Albany, Schenectady, Greene and Ulster Counties. The program connects caregivers like you to a variety of community and public support services, providing you with the tools you need to succeed. Want to learn more? Will retiring early affect my Social Security?

Dear Rusty:

I stopped working at age 55, well before my full retirement age of 66 years and 10 months. I had over 35 years working prior to retiring from work.

I don't intend to start collecting Social Security until my full retirement age. Will I be penalized for all those years between when I stopped working and my full retirement age?

Signed: Planning Ahead

Dear Planning Ahead: Will you be "penalized?" No, because whenever you claim your Social Security benefit, it will be based upon the highest-earning 35 years over your entire lifetime (with the early years adjusted for inflation).

SOCIAL SECURITY MATTERS

GLOOR

Would your benefit be higher if you had continued to work and have high earnings longer? Probably, because earnings in the latter part of one's career are usually considerably higher than those in the early years. But everyone's situation is different.

Higher earnings today don't necessarily replace those in earlier years because of the inflation adjustment. For example, someone with $50,000 in 1990 earnings would need to earn more than about $115,000 in today's dollars to replace the earlier year. And keep in mind that your benefit computation uses only the dollars which you paid SS taxes on. So, someone earning $500,000 this year would, for benefit computation purposes, only get credit for $142,800 in earnings because the latter amount is what Social Security FICA (or Self Employment) taxes were paid on.

It is from your highest-earning 35-year history that your Average Indexed Monthly Earnings or "AIME" is determined, followed by yet another formula to convert your AIME to your "primary insurance amount" or "PIA." Your PIA is what you are entitled to in the month you attain your full retirement age (FRA).

If you claim before your full retirement age you'll get less than your PIA, and if you claim after your FRA, you'll get more than your Primary Insurance Amount. If you delay claiming past your full retirement age, you'll earn delayed retirement credits (DRCs) up to age 70, at which time your benefit could be as much as 29% more than your PIA. Of course, you can also claim at any time between your FRA and age 70 to get all DRCs you've earned to the point you claim.

So, as you can see, the Social Security benefit you get will be determined by two main things your 35-year lifetime earnings history, and the age at which you claim. You can't do much now to change your 35-year earnings history (short of returning to work and having very high current earnings), but you can control when you claim. And that decision, of course, should consider your health and your life expectancy, how badly you need the money, and your marital status. Your marital status is important if your spouse can collect a spousal benefit from your record, or if you are concerned about the amount your survivor(s) will receive if you die first.

Fall clean up and liver health

Autumn means football games, potted mums, visits to the pumpkin patch and, of course, Halloween! And believe it or not, it's also the perfect time to clean your liver!

This week's post covers how important it is to keep your liver in tip-top condition for weight loss as well as your overall health.

Responsible for over 500 functions, your liver is your largest organ, working around the clock to detoxify and eliminate unwanted compounds in your blood and to help metabolize fat.

Some of the symptoms that your liver isn't working as well as it should include inability to lose weight, excessive sweating during exercise, brain fog, gas, bloating, acid reflux, high blood pressure, constipation, chronic fatigue, dark urine and moodiness.

There are many reasons why most people struggle with overburdened livers. But the number one reason is due to the number of processed foods that are consumed on a daily basis.

Unlike fresh food, processed foods are packed with hidden toxins and void of nutrients. These hidden toxins force your liver to work overtime in an attempt to process these nutritionally void foods. In turn, the liver literally becomes more and more sluggish and eventually becomes "fatty," slowing down your metabolism and causing you to gain weight.

Fortunately, you can help improve your liver's function by incorporating some of the foods listed below so you can back on the path to optimal health and weight loss.

Cruciferous vegetables like broccoli, Brussels sprouts and cauliflower contain glucosinolate, which supports enzyme production, flushing carcinogens and other toxins from the body.

Garlic is packed with the mineral selenium, which helps detoxify the liver and activates liver enzymes to help your body naturally flush out toxins.

Carrots also support and stimulate overall liver function due to the high flavonoid and beta carotene content. Oranges and lemons also produce detoxifying ingredients that flush out pollutants, enhancing the liver's cleansing ability. Studies have shown that these antioxidants can help reduce the development of hepatic fibrosis, a harmful condition in which excessive tissue builds up in the liver.

Grapes — especially red and purple grapes — contain a variety of beneficial plant compounds including resveratol. Numerous animal studies have shown that grapes and grape juice have many benefits, including lowering inflammation, preventing damage and increasing antioxidant levels.

High in omega-3 fatty acids, fatty fish like salmon and nuts are also beneficial for your liver.

Please recycle this newspaper

CONCEPTS IN FITNESS

MARY SCHOEPE

A 2016 analysis found that omega-3 fatty acids helped lower liver fat and triglycerides in people with nonalcoholic fatty liver disease (NALFD).

The Indian spice turmeric works wonders for the liver and other parts of your body, too. It's a natural detoxifier, boosting enzymes that flush out dietary toxins as well as enhancing that all important bile production.

As you can see, your liver plays a huge role in your health, weight management and weight loss. So doesn't it make sense to help it along by doing some fall cleaning?

God has not given us a spirit of fear

By Dr. Billy Holland For Capital Region Indepen-dent Media

Soon after Jesus had resurrected, we find a beautiful passage found in John chapter 20 that is a wonderful example of how much God loves us and wants to encourage

The friends and family of Christ were gathered together after his horrific crucifixion and were still grieving over his death when all of a sudden, he appeared in their midst! Even though they remembered how he had promised to return I'm sure they were still awestruck.

Jesus stretches out his hands and reveals his previous wounds, and of course, they are overjoyed to see him again. He spoke peace and breathed on them and before he left, he filled them with the Holy Spirit. Thomas was not there that night and later when he returned, verse 25 says, "The other disciples, therefore, said to him, we have seen the Lord, but Thomas replied, unless I see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into His side, I will not believe."

Eight days later the group came together and once again Jesus miraculously appeared except this time Thomas was present. Christ looked at Thomas and told him to reach out and touch the scars, and he did.

Jesus said, "Be not faithless, but believing," as Thomas replied, "My Lord and my God."

When we are discouraged and struggling to believe, we can know that God will always make the extra effort to prove how much he loves us and wants us to trust him. He is encouraging us today to know that his presence is all around us.

LIVING ON PURPOSE

You see, Thomas represents everyone when it comes to doubt as believing without seeing is truly difficult. This is where faith becomes essential within our understanding that just because we cannot see God, it does not mean he is not there. In verse 29 we read, "Jesus said unto him, Thomas because you have seen me, you believed: Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." Faith is having an optimistic attitude even when it seems the situation is hopeless. If our lives were filled with happiness with no problems at all, we would not sense the urgency to pray in faith.

Those who read the Bible are well aware of what is coming in the future and the time to build faith is now. Walls of faith are built one brick at a time, which means if we do not develop faith every day, we cannot instantly generate faith when tragedy comes.

We know that global principalities and evil strongholds will become more aggressive as the return of Christ draws near. This is because Satan has been given temporary permission by God to be a puppet master for the leaders of the world.

I Peter 5:8 warns, "Be sober, be vigilant, because your adversary the devil walks around like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour."

We should not be shocked to witness wars, violence, hatred, division and oppressive governments, but we are reminded in God's word 365 times to "fear not.'

It's clear the virus has caused widespread panic and I believe we are facing one of the most aggressive attacks from Satan that I have seen in my lifetime. "Pray without ceasing" I Thessalonians 5:17.

Anxiety and stress can negatively affect our spiritual joy, our conscience and our physical bodies as we cannot allow our emotions to distract us from our relationship with Christ. Walking with Jesus allows us to live in his peace even in the midst of the storm. Spiritual confidence is activated when the determination to trust God becomes stronger than the temptation to be afraid. We cannot live in faith and fear at the same time. If we choose to feed our faith, our fears will starve.

Thomas Aquinas is quoted as saying, "To the one who has faith, no explanation is necessary. To those without faith, no explanation is possible."

Whatever trial we are going through today, we have the opportunity to fill our hearts with God's promises or be drowned in a sea of confusion and doubt.

Our natural es desire to control us, but faith is spiritual and declares that we will hope and trust in the Lord no matter the circumstances.

Remember, God did not give us a spirit of fear. "I prayed to the Lord, and he answered me. He freed me from all of my fears." Psalm 34:4.

Firefighters face new risks as tech advances

Capital Region Independent Media

As the United States moves to new, greener technology, fire departments are learning of the dangers associated with it, specifically solar panels and electric cars.

"The risk of electrocution is there, when fighting fires around roof-mounted solar panels," Greenport Fire Chief John Onufrychuk Jr. said.

Solar panels are always charged, even if they're disconnected.

tained within them," said John Greco, training officer for the Athens Fire Department.

At many fire scenes, firefighters cut holes in the roof to ventilate the building. That process cannot be done if the roof has solar panels mounted on it, Hudson Fire Chief Anthony Demarco said.

The Greenport Fire Department will cut holes on both sides of the eaves instead, Onufrychuk said. The panels weigh several hundred pounds.

cut holes in the roof and weaken it with all that weight up there," Greco

Some firefighters in Greene County recently attended a class on fighting fires involving solar panels. The class was run by the Coxsackie Fire Department, Greco said.

Electric vehicle fires pose safety risks to first responders, according to the National Transportation Safety Board.

The risks of electric shock and battery fires energy that remains in a damaged battery, the agency said.

It takes several thousand gallons of water to extinguish a fire in an electric car. A gasoline-powered car might take 300 gallons to extinguish, Greco said.

Fighting fires in electric vehicles is much more difficult. They require a lot of water, and a larger hose, to get them out, Onufrychuk said.

Electric cars rely on a bank of lithium-ion batteries similar to batteries found in a cellphone or computer. But unlike a small phone battery, the large batteries found in the Tesla Model X, for example, contain enough energy to power an average American home for more than two days, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. The batteries are also located in areas that are often difficult to reach, such as under the back seat or buried in the trunk of the car, Demarco said.

The NTSB is calling vehicle-specific response guides for fighting battery fires and limiting chemical thermal runaway and reignition. Cleanup after an electric car fire is more difficult as well, due to the substances in the lithium-ion batteries, Greco said. Officials at the Firefighters Training Facility in Ghent are planning to schedule more training classes involving electric car fires in the future, Keeler said.

Hinchey bill targets brain injury care

By Melanie Lekocevic

Courtesy of Columbia-Greene Media
State Sen. Michelle Hinchey, D-46, is proposing legislation that would mandate a study to improve access to care for New Yorkers living with traumatic brain injuries.

Traumatic brain injury, or TBI, affects how the brain works and is a major cause of disability and death nationally, with about 166 Americans dying each day from TBI-related injuries, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Hinchey's bill, if adopted, would look at ways to improve access to TBI care, particularly in rural and underserved areas.

"We have written a bill that will become the first statutorily mandated comprehensive study on the regional delivery of TBI care in New York state," Hinchey, who represents Coeymans and Ravena, said during a Zoom press conference. "Our bill requires the Department of Health and OPWDD (Office for People with Developmental Disabilities) to evaluate the regional disparities in care that are leaving entire communities behind, like the Hudson Valley."

The study would look at regional differences in TBI care, the administrative process for approving or denying requests for TBI services, the quality of TBI service delivery and training for providers, and emerging trends in TBI to improve scientific understanding, Hinchey said.

"According to the CDC, an estimated 2.5 million people sustain a traumatic brain injury annually, making TBI a leading cause of disability and death in the United States," Hinchey said. "The situation is even worse for adults and children living in rural areas who are more likely to die from a TBI because of health care barriers, which include the grueling administrative difficulties and long delays in receiving TBI care."

The situation is more dire in rural and upstate communities where there may be gaps in the delivery of care, Hinchey added.

Hinchey has been working on the legislation with input from Hannah and Katherine Berryan.

Hannah Berryan, 23, suffered a traumatic brain injury following an accident and her mother, Katherine, has been trying to obtain necessary medical services and supports for her.

"Seven years ago, our lives changed forever," Katherine Berryan said Wednesday. "I thought our fight would be saving Hannah's life, but sadly that was not the case. Upon being released home, our journey would really begin. It has been six years since Hannah has been home. It has been six years since Hannah has received TBI services and supports."

The Berryans have been denied services that would promote Hannah's recovery, she said.

"Hannah has only ever wanted to be seen and acknowledged as a relevant resident of New York state who has the right to live a quality of life with access to TBI-appropriate interventions," Katherine Berryan said.

Many New Yorkers face a similarly bleak situation under the present system, Hinchey said.

"So many people like Hannah are in the shadows in this situation and have been for decades," Hinchey said.

Attorney March Gallagher represents the Berryans in their quest for adequate care for Hannah from the state.

"Thousands of New Yorkers with traumatic brain injuries lack the opportunity for community-based treatments that would improve the quality of life that actually would save thousands of taxpayer dollars," Gallagher said on the Zoom conference call Wednesday.

An example of a service that would save money in the long run is a seizure service dog, Gallagher said. Hannah suffers from seizures, some of them severe enough to require hospitalization.

"If Hannah had a seizure service dog, there are possible hospitalizations that could have been avoided," Gallagher said. "This bill will encourage OPWDD to examine the full range of services available to all New Yorkers with TBI."

Barry Dain, president of the board of the Brain Injury Association of New York State, said legislation aimed at assisting New Yorkers with traumatic brain injuries has been a long time com-

His organization has been advocating for people with the condition for 40 years.

"There are many unmet needs — the biggest one is housing," Dain said.

Services may be available but not easily accessible, he said.

Hinchey said the legislation would be a step in the right direction in making appropriate services available to New Yorkers living with traumatic brain inju-

"This will help us start to get the answers we need to be able to move forward and move life forward for so many people across our communities," Hinchey said.

QWERTY: Typewriter and the Letter Arts Festival

GREENVILLE – Greenville's Drive-In 32 Outdoor Cinema will be hosting its fifth QWERTY Typewriter & the Letter Arts Festival on Sept. 25 and 26.

QWERTY Vol. 5 will take a closer look at typography and its impact on culture through type-writer exhibits, workshops, films and a live performance by The Boston Typewriter Orchestra. All QWERTY events are open and free to the public. However, tickets are recommended and are available at www.drivein32.com.

On Saturday, Sept. 25, at 4 p.m., the QWERTY Typewriter Festival will take place at Greenville's Drive-In 32 with a "type-in" featuring the typewriter collection of Erik Molbach as well as a Typewriter Evolution Exhibit in the snack bar, postcard station, raffle and a performance by The Boston Typewriter Orchestra.

The evening will end with a screening of the 2002 Steven Spielberg film "Catch Me If You Can," starring Leonardo DiCaprio and Tom Hanks. The film is rated PG-13.

Finishing the festival on Sunday, Sept. 26, is the return screening of "Helvetica," the 2007 doc-umentary about typography, graphic design and global visual culture.

Although the typewriter may seem like a reminiscent device of generations past, QWERTY has invigorated it for the generations of the future.

Olivia M., 12, of Greenville, has attended each QWERTY Festival and recommends it to every-one.

"I learned to use a type-writer and I love them all because of QWERTY," said Olivia. "I got to teach my little sister how to use one before she started kindergarten last year and I recommend that all kids type on a typewriter, it is a fun hobby for anyone."

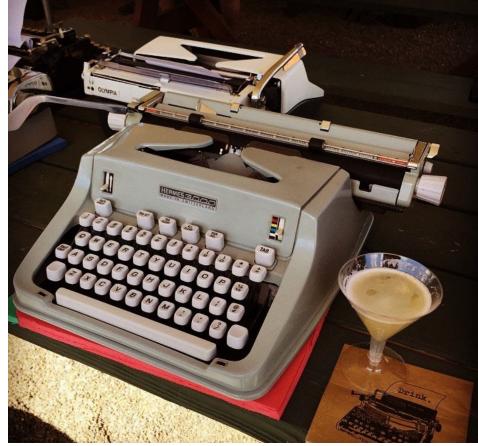

QWERTY Vol. 5 is made possible with funds from the Decentralization Program, a regrant program of the New York State Council on the Arts with the support of the New York State Gov-ernor's Office and the New York State Legislature and administered in Schoharie County by the Greene County Council on the Arts dba CREATE Council for Resources to Enrich the Arts, Technology and Education.

DiNapoli: 'Digital divide' plagues rural NY

By Natasha Vaughn-Holdridge Courtesy of Columbia-Greene Media

HUDSON — The state Comptroller's Office released a report last Tuesday looking at broadband, household access and availability.

"Reliable, high-speed internet is a necessity to effectively work, communicate and learn in our society and that was made crystal clear during the COVID-19 pandemic when millions of New Yorkers turned their homes into schools and workplaces," Comptroller Thomas DiNapoli said during a news conference at Hudson City Hall in Columbia County.

"The state has taken significant steps to make broadband available to most New Yorkers, but there is still a digital divide in rural parts of New York and for low-income New Yorkers who don't have access or are unable to afford a home subscription," DiNapoli said.

Broadband can be looked at in two ways, DiNapoli said: One is availability or the geographic region that is wired for broadband. The other is access to broadband. One in three New York households with an income less than $20,000 lacked access to broadband at home, according to the report.

New York is ranked second in the nation in percentage of the population with broadband availability in their neighborhood. The report found there are more that 1 million households, or 13.8% of households in the state, that do not have access or a subscription to home broadband services.

"What are the solutions? The state needs to craft a detailed strategy that can leverage the federal funding provided by the American Rescue Plan and any new funds that may be provided under the infrastructure bill currently before Congress," DiNapoli said. "And were very hopeful."

Large swaths of the population in New York state still do not have widely available access to broadband.

"We need street level analysis," U.S. Rep. Antonio Delgado, D-19, said. "A far more accurate methodology."

Using Census block data for broadband availability maps does not give an accurate depiction of an area's availability and access to broadband, Delgado said.

The congressman also talked about the need for faster internet speeds. He said the old 25 megabytes per second is no longer fast enough to do what people learning and working from home need from their internet, and that speeds of 100 megabytes are needed.

All the speakers noted how important having broadband became in the home during the pandemic when students were learning remotely and adults were converting living rooms to office space.

"We all know all too well life in the age of COVID made it alarmingly clear to every New Yorker just how essential broadband is," Assemblywoman Didi Barrett, D-Hudson, said. "To live, to learn, to work, to play and to stay well and healthy in the 21st century."

Access to high-speed broadband is a public need, state Sen. Daphne Jordan, R-Halfmoon, said.

"It's so important to advance an agenda that puts the people's needs first, and access to affordable, reliable high-speed broadband is exactly that," Jordan said. "A public need, a public benefit, a public good — that's what state Comptroller DiNapoli has done in advancing his comprehensive, thoughtful new report which is a must read for anyone."

Always Connected Laptops

Must-have tech for back to school

FAMILY FEATURES

fter a bumpy 2020-21 school year, many families are looking for a fresh start this school year. Whether students are remote, hybrid or fully back in classrooms, new laptop technologies can help them learn with greater flexibility and power.

As you begin to shop for a computer, start with an always connected personal computer (ACPC) – a new generation of laptop that enables students to thrive well into the future. ACPC technology delivers cellular connectivity via 4G LTE or ultra-fast 5G networks from nearly anywhere, much like a cellphone, even when out of range of Wi-Fi.

Students of all ages can take their learning on-the-go with built-in cellular connectivity. Enhanced cellular privacy and security helps reduce the risks associated with using unsecured public Wi-Fi networks at places like coffee shops and libraries.

ACPCs are nearly synonymous with Snapdragon compute platforms, which offer superior graphics, performance, connectivity and battery life – up to multiple days of battery life on a single charge, which is twice as long as typical laptops. Cool to the touch, silent and lightweight, parents can rest assured these fanless laptops won't overheat or add excessive heft to backpacks – or noise while your student is trying to concentrate. Built-in security features safeguard passwords, log-ons and sensitive personal information, giving students and their families peace of mind. The devices also support both Windows and Chrome operating systems, so you can choose the software that works best for you and your student.

Learn more about technology to support your student's learning this school year at qualcomm.com/education-laptops.

Leveraging Microsoft's SQ1 and SQ2 processors, developed in collaboration with Qualcomm Technologies, the Microsoft Surface Pro X was designed to meet professional standards: maximum performance, productivity, connectivity and battery life, all within an ultra-thin chassis – small and lightweight enough to fit inside a wide variety of bags. The resulting 2-in-1 detachable laptop is perfect for college notetaking, combining the power of a personal computer with an edge-to-edge 13-inch touchscreen. Supporting LTE connectivity, it enables all-day battery life so you can study efficiently from virtually anywhere. Add a detachable keyboard and rechargeable self-storing Microsoft Pen to enable an easy tablet-to-laptop transition that can fuel your student's creativity.

Power Through the Day

With a footprint only slightly larger than a sheet of paper, the Acer Chromebook Spin 513 uses the Snapdragon 7c compute platform to deliver more than enough processing power, battery life and connectivity to get through the school day wherever that may be. Featuring a 13-inch screen inside a compact, low-weight frame, the 2-in-1 convertible design flips between lanton and tablet modes, ensu students can stay connected to their data and apps for homework, notes and other school assignments. Two built-in microphones improve the quality of video calls for learners of all ages while its ultra-durable touchscreen and touchpad can withstand the rigors of everyday use of young learners.

Smart and 5G Fast

The Lenovo Flex 5G (also known as the Yoga 5G) is the world's first personal computer with lightning-fast 5G connectivity, thanks to Snapdragon 8cx 5G compute platform. As the ultimate laptop for on-the-go students, this slim, eye-catching 360 degree convertible 1-in-1 device includes unmatched power and efficiency capable of multiple days of use on a single charge, plus a wide and responsive 14-inch touchscreen that's perfect for higher education and other specialized programs. Equipped with 5G cellular connectivity, it combines the speed and mobility of a cellphone with the performance you'd expect from an ultra-portable laptop.

Flexibility and Freedom

An option like Samsung's Galaxy Book Go uplifts students with cutting-edge mobility and Windows productivity. Learners using the Snapdragon 7c Gen 2 compute platformpowered device can benefit from excellent power and performance, allowing them to work, connect and entertain with ultimate flexibility and freedom. Teens and college students can take advantage of the instant-on power, responsive performance and integrated camera. Plus, fanfree operation means it's as quiet as it is fast, and library-approved. Additionally, Samsung offers the 5G-enabled Galaxy Book Go 5G, using Snapdragon 8cx Gen 2 5G.

Keep Up with Learning Needs

With modern features that both students and teachers can enjoy, the Acer Chromebook 511 is the perfect device for almost any digital or hybrid learning environment. Utilizing Snapdragon 7c compute platform and an 11.6-inch screen, this compact yet durable laptop delivers built-in 4G LTE connectivity to help protect data and provide fast, reliable access to learning apps in the cloud. It also offers up to 20 hours of battery life between charges, so students of all ages can take the classroom anywhere they're going without power interruption. Educators can also make it through lessons without looking for charging carts or vacant outlets.
