

4585

320

✓

AN ANALYTIC STUDY

COMPARATIVE POLITICS

A Developmental Approach

Gabriel A. Almond

Stanford University

G. Bingham Powell, Jr.

Stanford University

Amerind Publishing Co. Pvt. Ltd.

New Delhi Bombay Calcutta New York

Table of Contents

Chapter I
Introduction	1
Chapter II
An Overview	16
The political system. Structure and Culture. Inputs and outputs. The functional aspects of political systems. The comparison of political systems. The development of political systems.
Chapter III
Political Structure and Culture	42
Political structure. Political culture.
Chapter IV
Interest Articulation	73
Interest articulation structures: interest "groups." Interest articulation structures: channels and means of access. Styles of interest articulation. Consequences of patterns of interest articulation. Modernization and interest articulation.

Table of Contents

Chapter V
Interest Aggregation and Political Parties . . . 98
Political structures and interest aggregation. Differentiation and functional specialization of structures. The styles of interest aggregation. Fragmentation in aggregation patterns. Interest aggregation and political development. Political parties and political functions.

Chapter VI
Governmental Functions and Structures . . . 128
The rule-making function. The rule-application function. The rule-adjudication function.

Chapter VII
The Communication Function . . . 164
Types of communication structures. The autonomy of communication structures. Implications of communication patterns.

Chapter VIII
The Capabilities of Political Systems . . . 190
The extractive capability. The regulative capability. The distributive capability. The symbolic capability. The responsive capability. Domestic and international capability. Factors affecting capability. Capabilities and political development.

Chapter IX
Types of Political Systems:
Primitive and Traditional . . . 213
Classification of political systems according to degree of structural differentiation and cultural secularization. (I) Intermittent political structures: primitive political systems. (II) Differentiated governmental-political structures: (A) Patrimonial systems (B) Centralized bureaucratic systems (C) Feudal political systems.

Table of Contents

Chapter X
Types of Political Systems: Modern
Democratic and Authoritarian Forms . . . 255
The secularized city-state. Mobilized modern systems: (A) Democratic political systems (B) Authoritarian political systems. Premobilized modern systems.

Chapter XI
Toward a Theory of Political Development . . . 299
Descriptive analysis and a developmental approach: primitive and traditional systems. The comparison of modern political systems. System development problems: the "why" of development. The prediction of political development.

Index . . . 333