

MIGUEL DE CERVANTES SAAVEDRA

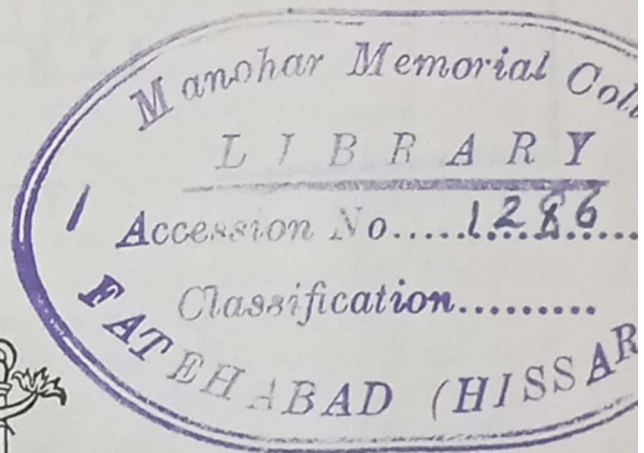

Don Quixote

IN TWO VOLUMES • VOLUME ONE

INTRODUCTION BY

L. B. WALTON, M.A., B.LITT.

Forbes Reader in Spanish, and Head of Department of Hispanic Studies, University of Edinburgh

DENT: LONDON
EVERYMAN'S LIBRARY
DUTTON: NEW YORK

CONTENTS

PART I.—BOOK I

CHAP.		PAGE
	Introduction by L. B. Walton	v
	The Author's Preface to the Reader	i
I.	The quality and manner of life of the renowned Don Quixote de la Mancha	7
II.	Of Don Quixote's first Sally	12
III.	An Account of the pleasant method taken by Don Quixote to be dubbed a Knight	18
IV.	What befell the Knight after he had left the Inn	23
V.	A further Account of our Knight's Misfortunes	30
VI.	Of the pleasant and curious scrutiny which the Curate and the Barber made of the Library of our ingenious Gentleman.	34
VII.	Don Quixote's second Sally in quest of Adventures	41
VIII.	Of the good success which the valorous Don Quixote had in the most terrifying and never-to-be-imagined Adventure of the Wind-Mills, with other transactions worthy to be transmitted to posterity	46

BOOK II

I.	The event of the most stupendous Combat between the brave Biscainer and the valorous Don Quixote	54
II.	What farther befell Don Quixote with the Biscainer; and of the danger he ran among a parcel of Yanguesians	58
III.	What passed between Don Quixote and the Goatherds	63
IV.	The Story which a young Goatherd told to those that were with Don Quixote	68
V.	A continuation of the Story of Marcella	74
VI.	The unfortunate Shepherd's Verses, and other unexpected matters	82

BOOK III

CHAP.		PAGE
I.	Giving an Account of Don Quixote's unfortunate Rencounter with certain bloody-minded and wicked Yanguesian Carriers	89
II.	What happened to Don Quixote in the Inn which he took for a Castle	95
III.	A further Account of the innumerable Hardships which the brave Don Quixote, and his worthy Squire Sancho, underwent in the Inn, which the Knight unluckily took for a Castle	102
IV.	Of the Discourse between the Knight and the Squire, with other matters worth relating	110
V.	Of the wise Discourse between Sancho and his Master; as also of the Adventure of the Dead Corpse, and other famous Occurrences	120
VI.	Of a wonderful Adventure achieved by the valorous Don Quixote de la Mancha; the like never com- passed with less danger by any of the most famous Knights in the World	126
VII.	Of the high Adventure and Conquest of Mambrino's Helmet, with other Events relating to our in- vincible Knight	138
VIII.	How Don Quixote set free many miserable Creatures, who were carrying, much against their wills, to a place they did not like	149
IX.	What befell the renowned Don Quixote in the Sierra Morena (Black Mountain), being one of the rarest Adventures in this authentic History	159
X.	The Adventure in the Sierra Morena continued	170
XI.	Of the Strange Things that happened to the valiant Knight of La Mancha in the Black Mountain; and of the Penance he did there, in imitation of Beltenebros, or the Lovely Obscure	178
XII.	A continuation of the refined Extravagancies by which the gallant Knight of La Mancha chose to express his Love in the Sierra Morena	195
XIII.	How the Curate and Barber put their Design in execution; with other things worthy to be re- corded in this important History	202

BOOK IV

CHAP.		PAGE
I.	The pleasant new Adventure the Curate and Barber met with in Sierra Morena, or Black Mountain	216
II.	An account of the beautiful Dorothea's Discretion, with other pleasant Passages	228
III.	The pleasant Stratagems used to free the enamoured Knight from the rigorous Penance which he had undertaken	238
IV.	The pleasant Dialogue between Don Quixote and his Squire continued, with other Adventures	248
V.	What befell Don Quixote and his Company at the Inn	256
VI.	The Novel of the Curious Impertinent	262
VII.	In which the History of the Curious Impertinent is pursued.	277
VIII.	The conclusion of the Novel of the "Curious Im- pertinent"; with the dreadful Battle betwixt Don Quixote and certain Wine-Skins	294
IX.	Containing an account of many surprising accidents in the Inn	300
X.	The History of the famous Princess Micomicona continued, with other pleasant Adventures	308
XI.	A continuation of Don Quixote's curious Discourse upon Arms and Learning	316
XII.	Where the Captive relates his Life and Adventures	320
XIII.	The Story of the Captive continued	327
XIV.	The Adventures of the Captive continued	337
XV.	An Account of what happened afterwards in the Inn, with several other Occurrences worth notice	352
XVI.	The pleasant Story of the young Muleteer, with other strange Adventures that happened in the Inn	357
XVII.	A continuation of the strange and unheard-of Adventures in the Inn	367
XVIII.	The Controversy about Mambrino's Helmet and the Pack-Saddle disputed and decided; with other Accidents, not more strange than true	373

CHAP.		PAGE
XIX.	The notable Adventure of the Officers of the Holy Brotherhood, with Don Quixote's great ferocity and enchantment	379
XX.	Prosecuting the course of Don Quixote's enchantment, with other memorable Occurrences	386
XXI.	Containing a continuation of the Canon's Discourse upon books of Knight-Errantry, and other curious matters.	394
XXII.	A relation of the wise Conference between Sancho and his Master	400
XXIII.	The notable Dispute between the Canon and Don Quixote; with other Matters	406
XXIV.	The Goatherd's entertaining Tale	411
XXV.	Of the Combat between Don Quixote and the Goatherd: with the rare Adventure of the Penitents, which the Knight happily accomplished with the sweat of his Brows	416
	Additional Notes	425