

FUNDAMENTALS OF
GEOGRAPHICAL THOUGHT

SUDEEPTA ADHIKARI

Contents

1. Introduction	1
Meaning and scope of geography	2
Some specific definitions	6
Fundamental concepts	6
Nature of geography	11
Approaches to the study of geography	13
Interaction/relations with other sciences	17
Branches of geography	22
Major schools of geographical thought	26
2. Ancient Classical Geography	29
Greek geography	30
Roman geography	39
Chinese geography	42
3. The Medieval Geography and Renaissance	45
Geography in the Christian world	45
Muslim Geography	48
Chinese geography	53
Impact of voyages, discoveries and the Renaissance	54
4. The Foundation of Scientific Geography	60
Rise of dualism	60
Scientific discoveries	61
Classical Roman tradition revived	62
Beginning of scientific geography	63
Special geography vs. general geography	64
Geography in the eighteenth century	65
Reine (pure) geography	67
Universal geography	68
Philosophical foundation of scientific geography
(Immanuel Kant)	69
Russian geography	73
5. The Classical Period of Modern Geography	74
Alexander von Humboldt	75
Carl Ritter	86

6.	Impact of Darwinism and the New Scientific Geography	95
	Inductive-teleological philosophy	96
	Darwinism	97
	Ritterian tradition in geography (Reclus, Guyot, Frobel)	102
7.	Modern Geography of Germany	108
	New dimension	108
	Systematic studies (Peschel, Richtshofen, Ratzel, Penck)	110
	Chorology and landscape morphology (Hettner, Schlüter, Passarge, Gredmann, Troll)	123
	Geopolitics	133
	Contemporary trends	133
8.	Development of Professional Geography in France	134
	Early geographical studies	134
	Deterministic trend	135
	Antithesis to environmentalism and Regional studies (Blache, Gallois)	137
	La tradition Vidalienne (Brunhes, Martonne, Blanchard)	142
	Political and historical geography (Siegfried, Cholley, Gottman)	149
	Contemporary trends	153
9.	Modern British Geography	154
	Early British geography	154
	Development of professional geography (Mackinder, Chisholm, Mill)	155
	Regional studies (Herbertson, Unstead, Fawcett, Taylor)	159
	Historical geography	165
	Current trends (Haggett, Chorley, Stoddart)	166
10.	Professional Geography in the former Soviet Union and Contemporary Russia	170
	German influence on early Russian geography	171
	Pre-revolutionary Russian geography	172
	Determinism and indeterminism	176
	Marxist/socialist geography	180
	Dichotomy in the former Soviet geography	182
	The geographical synthesis	186
	Contemporary trends	187
11.	The New Geography in the United States	188
	Exploratory geography	188
	Development of professional geography (Davis)	191
	Challenge to the Davisian model	193
	Ontography (Jefferson, Bowman)	194
	Environmental determinism and possibilism (Huntington, Semple, Sauer)	199
	Delimitation of regions and Regional geography (Hartshorne, Schaefer)	203
	Systematic geography (McCarty, Garrison, Ullman, Berry, Dacey, Stewart, Harvey)	210
	Current trends	211