

Fundamentals of Political Science and Organisation

GURMUKH NIHAL SINGH

KITAB MAHAL (WHOLESALE DIVISION) PRIVATE LTD.
REGISTERED AND HEAD OFFICE : 56A ZERO ROAD ALLAHABAD-3

1966

Table of Contents

Chapter	Pages
Preface
I Definition and Scope of Political Science	1-23
I Politics or Political Science	1
II What is Political Philosophy?	2
III Nature and Scope of Political Science	3
IV Is Political Science a 'Science'?	4
V Approaches and Methods of Study	6
VI Relation to Other Studies	14
II What is the State?	29-50
I Need for and Definition of the State	29
II Elements of the State: Territory and Population	30
III Elements of the State: Government and Sovereignty	43
IV Nation, Nationality and the State	44
V The State and Society	47
VI The State and Other Associations	49
III The Origin of the State	51-63
I Theories of the Origin of the State	51
II The Theory of Divine Origin	51
III The Theory of Force	53
IV The Theory of Social Contract	54
V The Historical or the Evolutionary Theory	59
IV The Nature and End of the State	64-72
I The Juridical Theory	64
II The Theory of Social Organism	65
III The Contractual Theory	67
IV The Idealist Theory	68
V The Purpose and End of the State	71
V Sovereignty	73-89
I Sovereignty and the State	73
II The Beginnings and Development of the Conception	73

TABLE OF CONTENTS		Pages
ii		79
Chapter	III The Austinian View	79
	IV The Critics, Other Nineteenth Century Jurists, the Pluralists and the Internationalists	82
	V The Present Position	83
	VI Different Kinds and Meanings of Sovereignty	86
	VII State Sovereignty and the Problems of Power	90-105
VI Law		90
	I What is Law?	90
	II Relation between Law and Morality	91
	III The Purpose and Sanction of Law	92
	IV Sources of Law	96
	V The Law of Nature	99
	VI Kinds of Law	106-116
VII The State and Citizenship		106
	I The Concept of Citizenship	108
	II Aliens, Subjects and Citizens	109
	III Kinds of Citizenship	110
	IV Acquisition and Loss of Citizenship	111
	V The Position in India	117-146
VIII Rights and Duties		117
	I Rights of Citizenship	118
	II Kinds of Rights	119
	III Civil Rights	135
	IV Political Rights	138
	V The Right to Enforce Rights	140
	VI Correlation between Rights and Duties	142
	VII Duties of Citizens	147-160
IX Classification of States and Governments		147
	I Types of States	149
	II Federal States: Their Merits and Drawbacks	152
	III Constitutions and their Classifications	157
	IV Forms of Governments	161-176
X Democracy v. Other Forms of Government		161
	I The Best Form of Government	162
	II Monarchy

TABLE OF CONTENTS		Pages
iii
Chapter
	III Aristocracy	163
	IV Democracy and its Merits	164
	V Pre-requisites of Democracy	166
	VI An Appraisal	169
	VII Democracy and Sarvodaya	170
	VIII Democracy in Theory and Practice	175
XI Separation of Powers		177-183
	I The Organs of Government	177
	II Montesquieu's Theory of Separation of Powers	179
	III Modifications of the Theory in Practice	181
XII The Executive Government		184-212
	I The Importance of the Executive	184
	II Powers and Functions of the Executive	184
	III Two Parts of the Executive	196
	IV The Executive Chiefs: Their Modes of Selection	198
	V Classification of Political Executives	203
	VI The Parliamentary System	204
	VII The Presidential Type	209
XIII The Administrative Executive		213-247
	I Functions of the Administrative Executive	213
	II Division into Departments	216
	III Principles of Departmental Organisation	218
	IV Departmental Organisation in Practice	223
	V The Civil Services	224
	VI Problems of Recruitment and Training	227
	VII Requisites of Administrative Efficiency	235
XIV The Legislative Function		248-280
	I Importance of the Legislative Function	248
	II The Functions of the Legislature	248
	III The Bicameral System	253
	IV The Problems of Political Representation	257
	V Methods of Minority Representation	263
	VI Organisation and Procedure for Legislation	277
XV The Judiciary		281-300
	I Importance of the Judiciary	281
	II Functions of the Judiciary	281
	III Judicial Organisation	281
	IV The Organisation in India	281

TABLE OF CONTENTS		Pages
IV Chapter	V Distinguishing Features of the Two Systems	296
	VI Judges: Their Qualifications, Appointment and Conditions of Service	300
	XVI Local Government	308-348
	I The Twofold Division of Government	308
	II The Case for Local Government	310
	III Functions of Local Government	313
	IV Types of Authorities and Delimitation of Areas	315
	V The Ad-hoc v. Multi-Purpose Authorities	319
	VI The Constitution of Local Bodies	321
	VII Local Finance	327
	VIII Central Control and Supervision	330
	IX 'Panchayati Raj' in Rajasthan	332
	XVII Public Opinion, Publicity and Propaganda	349-371
	I What is Public Opinion?	349
	II How is Public Opinion Formed?	351
	III The Role of the Press	353
	IV Political Leaders and Public Opinion	355
	V Political Parties and Public Opinion	356
	VI Public Opinion: A New Interpretation	356
	VII The Sample Polls	359
	VIII Communication	365
	IX Propaganda	367
	X Propaganda Limits and Censorship	368
	XI Government Publicity and Propaganda	370
	XVIII Political Parties	372-406
	I What is a Political Party?	372
	II The Rise and Growth of Political Parties	374
	III The 'Interior' Political Parties	375
	IV The 'Exterior' Political Parties	379
	V Differences between 'Interior' and 'Exterior' Political Parties	379
	VI Organisation and Structure of Political Parties	382
	VII Functions of Political Parties	383
	VIII Party Systems	383
	IX Drawbacks of Political Parties	392
	X 'Partyless Democracy'	400
	XI Democracy and Political Parties	401
	XII Safeguards against Dangers	404
		405

TABLE OF CONTENTS		Pages
Chapter	XIX Political Control	407-413
	I The Concept of Power	407
	II Leadership and the Elite	408
	III Maintenance and Manipulation of Power	410
	IV Limits of Political Control	413
	XX Theories of State Action	414-435
	I Individualism	414
	II Anarchism	418
	III Appraisal of Individualism and Anarchism	419
	IV Socialism and its Forms	421
	V Appraisal of Socialism	430
	VI Idealism and the Fascist State	431
	XXI Functions of Government	436-461
	I Application of Theories	436
	II Classification of Functions	439
	III The Public vs. the Private Sector	443
	IV National Planning: Economic and Social	453
	V Democracy and Planning	459
	XXII Developments in Political Organisation	462-475
	I The City State	462
	II Before the Rise of Nation States	464
	III Nation States and Nationalism	472
	XXIII Imperialism	476-501
	I Its Implications	476
	II Empire-Building in Earlier Times	476
	III Modern Imperialism: The First Phase	478
	IV Modern Imperialism: The Second Phase	482
	V Imperialist Expansion and Exploitation of Africa	486
	VI Imperialist Expansionism in Asia	489
	VII Imperialism in the Pacific Islands	498
	XXIV New Facets of Imperialism	502-520
	I U.S.A. 'Invisible' or 'Economic' Imperialism	502
	II The Mandates System	508
	III Imperialism of the 'Have-not' Powers	511
	IV The U.N. Trusteeship System	517
	XXV De-Colonization and Neo-Colonialism	521-561
	I De-Colonization	521

TABLE OF CONTENTS

vi		Pages
Chapter
	II Systems of Assimilation and Absorption	535
	III Colonial Nationalism and Independence	537
	IV The United Nations and the Ending of Colonialism	552
	V Neo-Colonialism, 'Collective Neo-Colonialism', 'Classical Imperialism' or Colonialism	554
	VI International or Proletarian Communism	558
XXVI	Towards a World Order	562-611
	I The Beginnings of International Organisation	562
	II The League of Nations	565
	III Breakdown of the League and its Causes	570
	IV The Genesis, Purposes and Principles of the U.N.O.	573
	V The Constitution and Principal Organs of the U. N. O.	576
	VI Functioning of the U.N. and the League: A Comparison	591
	VII Human Rights and Obligations	602
	VIII Developments in International Cooperation	607
	IX World Federation and a World Order	609
XXVII	Postscript	611-646
	I Importance of the State Today	611
	II State Sovereignty and Power Politics	613
	III Present-day Dictatorships	620
	IV New Democracies and their Working	637
	V Expansion of Neo-Colonialism	639
	VI The Future of the United Nations	647
	Index	