LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SCIENCE IN CHANGING PARADIGM

SAMBHU NATH HALDER
SIBSANKAR JANA

Scanned by TapScanner

Contents

Preface (xiii)

Foreword (xv)

Acknowledgements (xvii)

1 Library in Changing Paradigm 1

1.1 Definition of Library 1

1.2 History 2

1.2.1. Early History 2

1.2.2. Early Modern Libraries 6

1.2.3. Current Trends in Library 7

1.3. Types of Library 8

1.3.1. Libraries on the basis of nature of collection and services 8

1.3.1.1. Traditional Library 8

1.3.1.2. Hybrid Library 8

1.3.1.3. Electronic Library 10

1.3.1.4. Automated Library 11

1.3.1.5. Digital Library 12

1.3.1.6. Virtual Library 18

1.3.1.7. Library 2.0 19

1.3.1.8. Global Library 20

Scanned by TapScanner

1.3.1.9. Social Systems as Competitors to Libraries 22
1.3.2. Libraries on the basis of objectives and nature of users 24
1.3.2.1. National Library 24
1.3.2.2. Public Library 28
1.3.2.3. Academic Library 33
1.3.2.3.1. School Library 34
1.3.2.3.2. College Library 37
1.3.2.3.3. University Library 39
1.3.2.4. Special Library 42
1.3.3. Libraries on the basis of mode of access to the documents 46
1.3.3.1 Open Access Library 46
1.3.3.2. Closed Access Library 51
1.3.3.3. Partly Closed and Partly Open Access Library 51
2 100 Years of LIS Education 55
2.1. Aims and Objectives of LIS Education 57
2.2. Levels of LIS Education 58
2.3 Modes of LIS Education 62
2.3.1. Direct Mode of LIS Education 63
2.3.2. Distance Mode of LIS Education 70
2.4. Role of Language in LIS Education System 83
2.5. Curriculum Development and LIS Education in India 92
2.5.1. The Library Committee (1957) 93
2.5.2. Review Committee on Library Science (1961) 94
2.5.3. Education Commission (1964-66) 96
2.5.4. Ranganathan Committee on Library Science in Indian Universities (1965) 97

Scanned by TapScanner

2.5.5. Mehrotra Committee (1983) 97

2.5.6. Committee on National Network System for Universities / Libraries (1988) 99

2.5.7. Curriculum Development Committee on Library and Information Science (1990-93) 100

2.5.8. Rastogi Committee (1997- 1998) 102

2.5.9. Karisiddappa Committee on Curriculum Development in Library and Information Science (2001) 104

2.6. Online and Virtual Learning in LIS Education 123

2.7. Problems in LIS Education in India 127

2.8. Trend of LIS Education in Abroad 132

3 Roles of LIS Professionals 142

3.1. As Advocate 143

3.2. As Consortia Manager 143

3.3. As Consultant 143

3.4. As Content Manager 144

3.5. As Facilitator 144

3.6. As Guide/Teacher/Educator/Trainer 145

3.7. As Intermediary 147

3.8. As Knowledge Manager 149

3.9. As Researcher 152

3.10. As Sifter 153

3.11. As Web designer for Library Portal 153

3.12. As Detector and Instructor of Plagiarism 155

3.13. As Information Filterer 157

3.14. As Intelligent Agents 157

3.15. As End-Users' Trainer / Educator 160

3.16. As Web Site Builder or Publisher 161

3.17. As Interface Designer 161

Scanned by TapScanner

3.18.	As Biblio-Therapist / Information Therapist	161
3.19.	As Change Agents for Institutional Repositories	163
3.20.	Librarians' Role in Educational Evaluation	166
4	E-literacy & LIS Professionals	173
4.1.	Information Literacy	174
4.2.	E-literacy	175
4.3.	E- Literacy for LIS Professionals	175
4.4.	E-literacy for Technology Access	177
4.5.	Role of LIS Professionals in E-Literacy	177
4.5.1.	Seminars or Workshop	177
4.5.2.	Library Tours	178
4.5.3.	Library Orientation Program	178
4.5.4.	The Information Searching Course	178
4.5.5.	Online Library Tutorials	179
4.6.	Supports towards Developments	179
4.6.1.	Government Bodies	179
4.6.2.	Professional Organizations	181
4.6.3.	LIS Schools	183
5	Issues Facing LIS Professionals	187
5.1.	Approaching Knowledge Society	188
5.1.1.	ICT Infrastructure	188
5.1.2.	Information Content	188
5.1.3.	Human Capacity	189
5.1.4.	Physical Delivery Infrastructure	189
5.2.	Recent Development in LIS	189
5.2.1.	Collection Development	189
5.2.1.1	Open Access	189
5.2.1.2.	Institutional Repository	190
5.2.1.3	E-journals	190

Scanned by TapScanner

5.2.2.	Library Consortia	191
5.2.3.	Technological Development	191
	5.2.3.1. RFID	191
	5.2.3.2. Barcode	192
	5.2.3.3. Web Technology	193
	5.2.3.3.1. RSS	193
	5.2.3.3.2. Blog	194
	5.2.3.3.3. Library 2.0	194
	5.2.3.3.4. Web 2.0	195
	5.2.3.3.5. Wikis	195
	5.2.3.3.6. Social Networking	196
	5.2.3.3.7. Mashup	196
5.2.4.	Tool & Techniques	197
	5.2.4.1. OPAC/Web OPAC	197
	5.2.4.2. FRBR	197
	5.2.4.3. ISBN – 13	198
	5.2.4.4. Digital Object Identifier	198
	5.2.4.5. DDC – 22 / Web Dewey	199
	5.2.4.6. AACR 3	200
5.3.	Future Trends	200
5.4.	Cyberspace	203
5.5.	Content Regulation	204
5.6.	Copyright	205
5.7.	Traditional roles	205
5.8.	Sense of Community	206
5.9.	Digital Preservation	207
5.9.1.	Method of Digital Preservation	208
	5.9.1.1. Digital Preservation	208
	5.9.1.2. Preservation of Digital Materials	209

Scanned by TapScanner

5.9.1.3. Standards for Digital Preservation 209
5.9.1.4. Standards for Architecture
5.9.1.4.1. ISO/DIS 15489 210
5.9.1.4.2. AS 4390 210
5.9.1.4.3. DOD 5015.2.STD 211
5.9.1.4.4. OAIS (Open Archival Information System) 211
5.9.1.5. Standards for Preservation Content 211
5.9.1.5.1. PDF (Portable Document Format) 211
5.9.1.5.2. XML (Extensible Mark-up Language) 212
5.9.1.6. Standards for Preservation Access 212
5.9.1.6.1. Dublin Core 212
5.9.1.6.2. MARC 212
5.9.1.6.3. ISAD (G) 213
5.9.1.6.4. Z39.50 213
5.9.1.7. Standards for Interoperability 213
5.9.1.7.1. ODMA (Open Document Management API) 214
5.9.1.7.2. DMA (Document Management Alliance) 214
5.9.1.7.3. WebDAV (World Wide Web Distributed Authoring and Versioning) 215
5.10. Marketing of Information Product and Services 216
5.11. Open Source Software 216
5.12. Required Skills for LIS Professionals 217
Epilogue 223
Bibliography 225
Index 227

Scanned by TapScanner