

NEW TECHNIQUES
for Effective Sales Management

GEORGE B. WRIGHT

VIKAS PUBLICATIONS
DELHI • BOMBAY • BANGALORE • KANPUR • LONDON

Contents

Part One	A RESULTS-BUILDING PROGRAM AT THE FIELD SALES LEVEL	1
1.	NEW ATTITUDES AND METHODS IN RECRUITING AND SELECTING FIELD SALESMEN	3
	How to employ the job description and job analysis to recruit competent people for your specific assignment. How competent recruiting insures sales "growth." How to organize and execute a recruiting drive for most favorable results. How to establish a system for consistent recruiting in order to strengthen field sales efficiency. How to estimate the costs of "salesman replacement" and apply your system to reduce them. How to realize growth through both greater manpower and greater field selling efficiency. Use of the depth interview and the recruiting role of the psychologist.
2.	NEW "CORRECTIVE MEASURES" FOR EVALUATING SALESMEN'S PERFORMANCE	34
	Evaluation begins with the establishment of well understood, realistic sales goals. How to establish performance norms as a base for corrective procedures. Field supervision as a factor in performance appraisal. Planning and interpreting performance evaluations as the springboard for future building rather than as an end result. What is "performance"—how the salesman does things or his results? Why your system of evaluations must tell you the things you need to know to build volume.
3.	SUCCESSFUL NEW CLASSROOM AND FIELD SALES TRAINING	50
	Determining sales training objectives—greater sales and cost controls. Organizing a training program through the eyes of the trainee and gauging a plan to fit

3. SUCCESSFUL NEW CLASSROOM AND FIELD SALES TRAINING Continued

individual salesmen's field requirements. Exploring the "Motivation to Learn," Why development training requires "participation" techniques. The question and answer technique using actual sales situations. Development through the "practice presentation." How to revitalize sales production for the experienced, established salesman. How to instill "self discipline" as a tool to on-the-job learning. Description of the organized sales training procedure for all salesmen as a fast method for bolstering sales. Using training as a motivator.

4. EFFECTIVE NEW PERSONAL FIELD SALES SUPERVISION 63

An "in the field" training plan designed for the first level field sales supervisor. How to develop the salesman's "hidden talents." The "non-critical" technique for on-the-job training. The General Sales Manager's role in "Supervising the Supervisor." Factors in evaluating a supervisor's performance judged on "techniques used" together with "performance results" of his salesmen. The supervisor's role in salesman evaluation. How to develop a direction and procedures manual for field supervisors.

Part Two NEW CREATIVE MANAGEMENT OF THE SALES OPERATION 87

5. NEW TECHNIQUES FOR FORECASTING AND BUDGETING FIELD SELLING OPERATIONS 89

Why the budget requires the efficient selling which in turn provides challenges and goals. How to arrive at a working sales operations budget. How to develop forecasts from budgets and marketing potential. Translating forecasts to budget maximums with "locked in" profit margins. How to treat fixed and variable expenses in budgeting sales costs. Steps in reconciling the budget and forecast. Establishing quotas and minimum expectancies. Using Sales Indexes. "Responsibility" sales budget control.

6. NEW APPROACHES TO EFFECTIVE TERRITORY STRUCTURING 103

Relating stubborn sales problems to faulty territory structuring. Factors that govern good territory structure. Planning and executing the territory structure change. Use of the B.P.J. and other territory measurement tools. The "building block" system of structuring in multiple markets. Territory coverage and routing as a factor in setting territory boundaries. Territory cost structuring.

7. ESTABLISHING AN UP-TO-DATE "TAILOR-MADE" COMPENSATION PLAN 114

Discussion of the motivational factors of a good field compensation program. The compensation plan from a "results" viewpoint. The eight elements involved in selecting your sales compensation approach. Pros and cons of existing compensation forms. Complete details of an entirely new type of compensation program that solves ten field sales problems. Compensation cost analysis. Controlling traveling expenses and expense allowances.

7. ESTABLISHING AN UP-TO-DATE "TAILOR-MADE" COMPENSATION PLAN Continued

8. NEW TECHNIQUES OF PRACTICAL FIELD SALES MOTIVATION 130

Examination of motivational behavior that prompts a new school of thought in salesman motivation planning. "Total motivation" and how to capitalize on it. How to use compensation and the not-so-fringe "benefits" plans as motivators. Six ways to improve attitude. The new approach to "Promotional Motivation" and how to employ it against the sales slump, the unusual opportunity or the introduction of the new product or service. The "old hat" contest gets new life. Ways to make "recognition" pay bigger dividends than money.

9. RECORDS, ROUTING AND REPORTING 142

Five time-saving, money-making, reasons for good field sales records. A thorough analysis of the various kinds of records as sales and supervision tools. Graphic illustrations of simple but effective records. How to employ a new concept of territory routing that controls itself with a combination routing/report form. Using the computer as a sales management tool rather than a record keeper only. Effective field reporting.

10. PLANNING AND CONDUCTING SUCCESSFUL SALES MEETINGS 156

Four ways to avoid the trap of purposeless sales meetings. Establishing the purposes and objectives of the sales meeting. Setting the stage for better meetings. Organizing for the meetings and an illustration of the initial schedule. The sales meeting planning session and rehearsals. A system for effectively speaking at sales meetings without notes. Setting the meeting goals in concrete. Choosing the sales meeting site. Eight do's and don't's for conducting successful sales meetings.

Part Three SALES MANAGEMENT AND EXECUTIVE RESPONSIBILITY 167

11. TODAY'S SALES MANAGER AND INTER-CORPORATE RELATIONS 169

Sales management involvement in other corporate functions and the planning of corporate growth and health. Exploiting sales management's relationship to the marketing and merchandising effort for more effective field sales results. How to obtain better merchandising tools through well directed field sales effort. "Line type" Marketing and Sales organization structure and "people" junctions. Translating Sales programs into sales. Sales involvement in market testing. Effective cooperative advertising and promotion activity. How to get other corporate entities cooperation through good communications.

12. MASTERING EXECUTIVE SALES PROBLEMS WITH NEW TECHNIQUES 180

Establishing the right sales management attitude for better direction of effort. What is Executive Responsibility as it applies to Sales? Overall sales management problem-solving examples are detailed and explained. What is meant by Creative Selling? Examples illustrate how to analyze and solve general sales problems. Do's and Don't's in dealing with people on sales matters. How to manage the "new" salesman, the "up and coming" salesman, the "valuable" salesman, the "veteran" salesman. Getting other company departments "on the team." Sales Management role in profit responsibility.

INDEX 189