

~~_____~~
Fatehabad

THE INDIAN PRESIDENCY

Based on a thesis approved by the University of Kurukshetra for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, 1965.

by

J. R. Siwach, B.A. (Hons.), M.A., Ph. D.
Reader in Political Science,
Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra.

First Published, 1971

Maharaja Book Depot
Publishers & Book Sellers
Opp. 3rd Gate Kurukshetra
University KURUKSHETRA

HARIYANA PRAKASHAN
DELHI

Printed by the printer at Kurukshetra University Press, Kurukshetra, Haryana.
Ganga, New Delhi, Haryana, India.

CONTENTS

Foreword by S. K. Dutta, Vice Chancellor, Kurukshetra University (Former Chief Justice of Assam and Nagaland High Court).	VII
Preface	IX
Chapter
I. Presidential Election and the Electoral College	1—19
(i) Indirect Election and its Justification.	2
(ii) Composition of the Electoral College.	5
(iii) Change in the composition of the Electoral College.	7
(iv) Election by Lame Duck Electoral College.	12
(v) Method of Assigning Votes to the Members and its objects.	15
II. Mode of Election	20—34
Presidential Election – A System of Alternative Vote with Eliminative method of Counting.	25
III. Qualifications, Emoluments and term of the President	35—49
(i) Term.	35
(ii) Re-Eligibility for Office.	37
(iii) Presidential Succession.	40
(iv) Qualifications.	42
(v) Oath.	44
(vi) Emoluments.	47
(vii) Residence.	48
IV. Impeachment and its Significance	50—71
(i) Procedure of Impeachment.	50
(ii) Impeachment Court and its Presiding Officers.	56
(iii) Summoning Parliament for Impeachment.	57
(iv) Resignation and its Effect on Impeachment Proceedings.	61
(v) Disqualification of the President.	62
(vi) Suspension during Impeachment.	65
(vii) Decision of the Impeachment Court-Final.	66
(viii) Time Limit for Impeachment.	66
(ix) Grounds of Impeachment.	67
(x) Its Constitutional Significance.	70

V. President and Parliament	72—109
(i) Powers of Nominating Members to Parliament.	72
(ii) Disqualifications of members.	73
(iii) Power to summon Parliament.	77
(iv) Advice of the Prime Minister and Summoning of Parliament.	79
(v) Joint Sitting.	81
(vi) Power to Prorogue.	88
(vii) Address by the President.	98
(viii) President as a Presiding Officer.	100
(ix) Presidential Address and its Contents.	102
(x) Right to send Messages.	104
(xi) Duty to lay Certain Reports before Parliament.	107
VI. President's Role in Legislation	110—139
(i) Assent to Bills.	110
(ii) Presidential Veto Not Merely Suspensive.	111
(iii) Returning Bills for Reconsideration.	117
(iv) Constitutional Amendment and Presidential Assent.	119
(v) Previous Recommendation for Introducing Certain Bills.	120
(vi) President and the State Legislation.	122
(vii) Concurrent List and President's Role.	125
(viii) Ministerial Advice and Article III.	125
(ix) Power of Issuing Ordinances.	130
(x) Approval and Duration of the Ordinance.	134
VII. President and Council of Ministers	140—192
(i) Appointment of the Prime Minister.	140
(ii) Appointment of other Ministers.	148
(iii) Allocation of Business among Ministers.	159
(iv) Right of Information.	159
(v) President and Advice of Ministers.	160
(vi) President and the Counter Signature of the Ministers.	191
VIII. Position of the President	193—204
(i) The Indian President and the British Queen.	193
(ii) Uniformed View.	203
(iii) Cynical View.	204
(iv) Constitutional View.	204

	(xv)
IX. Emergency Powers (Art. 352)		205—228
(i) Need of the Emergency Powers.		205
(ii) Definition of Emergency.		208
(iii) Parliamentary Approval of Proclamation.		212
(iv) Duration of Proclamation.		219
(v) Impact of Emergency on the State's Autonomy.		220
(vi) Impact of Emergency on Fundamental Rights.		224
X. Emergency Powers (Art. 356)		229—276
(i) Comparison between Article 356 and Section 93 of the Government of India Act 1935.		229
(ii) Implication of the term Failure of Constitutional Machinery.		230
(iii) Failure of the Constitutional Machinery and its Guiding Principles.		236
(iv) A Critical Study of the Application of Article 356.		240
(a) Pepsu.		244
(b) Andhra.		246
(c) Kerala.		248
(d) Travancore Cochin.		258
(e) Rajasthan.		259
(f) Orissa.		260
(v) Proclamation and its Approval by Parliament.		261
(vi) Duration of Proclamation.		264
(vii) Dissolution of Legislative Assembly.		265
(viii) Exercise of the Executive Powers under Proclamation.		267
(ix) Various Proclamations and their Contradictions.		273
XI. Removal of Speaker (Assembly's) by the President		277—289
XII. Emergency Powers (Art. 360)		290—292
(i) Issue of Proclamation.		290
(ii) Approval of Proclamation by Parliament.		290
(iii) Effects of Proclamation on Centre State Relations.		291
XIII. President's Role in Administration		293—308
(i) The Power of Appointment.		295
(ii) Union Territories and Tribal Areas.		296
(iii) Power of Removal.		301
(iv) President's Power to Grant Pardon.		302
(v) Extent of Pardoning Power.		304

(vi) Limitations on the Pardoning Power of the President.	305
(vii) Courts and the President's Pardoning Power.	306
(viii) Pardoning Power and Individual Consent.	306
(ix) President's Pardoning Power and Impeachment.	306
(x) Delegation of Pardoning Power.	307
(xi) Its Use on Political Grounds.	308
XIV. President's Role in Foreign Affairs	309—310
(i) Appointment and Removal of Diplomatic Representatives.	309
(ii) Negotiation and Conclusion of Treaties and Declaration of War.	310
(iii) Receiving the Diplomatic Representatives of other Countries.	310
Sources and Notes	311
Post Script	356
Bibliography	360
Index	368