

ENGLISH LANGUAGE BOOK SOCIETY

A Short
Guide to English Style

ALAN WARNER

AIDS TO ENGLISH

CONTENTS

Preface	v
Acknowledgements	viii
Introduction. What is style?	i

Part One

HOW TO WRITE CLEAN ENGLISH

1 Please do not spit	11
2 Cut the cackle	15
3 Call a spade a spade	19
4 Keep your ears open	24
5 Don't mix your drinks	28
6 Suit the word to the occasion	31
7 Hit the nail on the head	34
8 Some pitfalls in journalism	39
9 Too little or too much?	46
10 Some samples of clean English	53

Part Two

THE DEVELOPMENT OF ENGLISH STYLE

11 Some early writers of English	73
12 The Elizabethans—experiment and extravagance	79
13 The Bible and the Prayer Book	89
14 The growth of plain English	99
15 The pursuit of elegance	112
16 Dr Johnson's see-saw	120
17 Romantics, rebels and conservatives	131
18 Victorian voices	141

ENGLISH STYLES TODAY

19	All styles and no style
20	Colloquialism	155
21	The flux of things	158
22	American angles	165
23	The language of specialists	171
24	The gritty style	177
25	Clean English today	181
	Epilogue: The limits of clean English	186
	Bibliography	191
	Index	193
		195

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Acknowledgements are due to the following for permission to quote copyright material from the works mentioned: Dr R. Hale White—The Autobiography of Mark Rutherford, by W. Hale White; Messrs Gerald Duckworth & Co., Ltd—Change in the Village, by George Bourne; the Public Trustee and the Society of Authors—The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Socialism, by Bernard Shaw; the Estate of Mrs Frieda Lawrence and Messrs William Heinemann Ltd—The Man Who Died, by D. H. Lawrence; the Syndics of the University Press, Cambridge—Man on His Nature, by Sir Charles Sherrington; Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru—The Unity of India; Messrs David Higham Associates Ltd—Letters from an Indian Judge to an English Gentlewoman, by Dorothy Black; Messrs Martin Secker and Warburg Ltd—Animal Farm, by George Orwell; Messrs Max Reinhardt Ltd—Africa in Transition, by Ezekiel Mphahlele, ed. by Prudence Smith; Messrs William Heinemann Ltd—Things Fall Apart, by Chinua Achebe; Mr E. M. Forster and Messrs Edward Arnold (Publishers) Ltd—Two Cheers for Democracy; The Bodley Head Ltd—Ulysses, by James Joyce; Messrs A. D. Peters—Delight, by J. B. Priestley; Messrs G. Bell & Sons Ltd—Concerning the Nature of Things, by Sir William Bragg; The Guardian—letter to the editor; Sir Alan Herbert—I Object.